REVEALS A SECRET OF KAISER'S REIGN

On Jubilee Day Prof. Hintze Tells How He Burned Predecessor's Reactionary Will.

ALL GERMANY REJOICING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of Emperor William's reign, whcih was celebrated amid great festivities and popular enthusiasm to-day, will probably live in history chiefly for the revelation of a hitherto unknown act of his Majesty in connection with the Prussian Constitution.

The disclosure was made at the jubilee celebration at the University of Berlin by Prof. Hintze, a distinguished member of the Faculty. Having remarked that the Kaiser, notwithstanding his desire to keep all the threads of the Government in his hands, stood firly on the basis of the Constitution, the professor then astonished his hearers by the statement that the best proof of this was that the Kaiser burned the political testament of Frederick William IV., who was King of Prussia in 1848, when revolutionary Berlin extorted a Constitution from the crown.

King Frederick William, who was the predecessor of Emperor William I. and great-uncle of the present Kaiser, was a reactionary who never became resigned even to that modicum of a Constitutional Government which he was compelled to grant.

While Emperor Frederick lay on his deathbed, in June, 1888, Dr. Friedeberg, the Prussian Minister of Justice, informed the Crown Prince (the present Kaiser) that there would be laid before him immediately after his father's death a sealed document of transcendent importance. The document was the first that the new Emperor found on his study table. He opened it, and recognized immediately the characteristic handwriting of King Frederick William. It was the political testament which had been laid before every new Prussian King, and contained a warning, couched in most violent terms, adjuring the monarch to overthrow the Constitution before taking the oath.

Emperor William II., continued the speaker, was no more inclined than were his immediate predecessors on the throne to heed the reactionary counsels of his great-uncle, but he decided to go further than merely refuse to act on it himself. He took the view that it was not impossible that a young, inexperienced ruler might some day ascend the throne and might be tempted to yield to Frederick William's incitement to a political coup d'état.

"After then," the Kaiser was quoted as saying, "I had a feeling that I was living with a powder barrel in my house, and I had no peace of mind until the testament was destroyed."

The testament was destroyed, and the envelope which had contained it was shortly afterward returned to the Keeper of the Royal Archives with this note in his Majesty's handwriting, "Contents destroyed."

Prof. Hintze said he had the Kaiser's permission to make this revelation on some appropriate occasion.

Kaiser's Greeting to Carnegie.

"Twenty-five years of peace, Mr. Carnegie, and I hope there will be twenty-five more," sang out the Kaiser jovially to the head of the American peace delegation this morning as Andrew Carnegie passed down the receiving line at the "Court of Congratulation" in the royal castle.

"Your Majesty," responded Mr. Carnegie, "is the most powerful ally we have in that direction."

This informal and homely exchange of greetings between the Emperor and the unofficial ambassador of the United States on his Majesty's silver jubilee was one of the features of a day full of interest.

Mr. Carnegie received representatives of the press of Europe at his hotel at noon after returning from the castle, but he invited THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to a "private audience" later in the day, "after I've caught my breath," as he put it.

One of the first things Mr. Carnegie had to say was that he had brought with him many copies of his article in THE NEW YORK TIMES's Kaiser jubilee number for distribution among his German friends. The first was sent to the Kaiser himself.

"I wish I had something fresh to tell THE TIMES," said Mr. Carnegie, "but I have not. The Berlin newspaper men have put me through my paces with a vengeance. I had to give my opinions on matters ranging from the suffragettes to the 'Japanese peril' and the future of Socialism.

"Do say for me that I am delighted to be in Berlin and to breathe this festive atmosphere, though it is a bit fatiguing even for a man of my youth. The Kaiser seems in the best of spirits and in radiant good health.

"My automobile has had the greatest dificulty in getting through the streets in the past two days, owing to the myriad folk who can only pay homage to the Emperor by appearing

SUSPEND CUSTOMS MEN.

Six Out After Finding of Chinese Curios in Their Homes.

Employes of the Custom Service in this city were startled to learn yesterday that as the result of an investigation started by ex-Collector Loeb before he quit office, six custom inspectors were suspended from duty pending further inquiry into the discovery of Chinese curios, silk fabrics and other Oriental goods in their homes.

It was said yesterday that the goods were confiscated from the homes of the inspectors after the arrival of the steamship Shimosa, a few weeks ago, from Chinese and Strait Settlement ports. She tied up at Pier 4 of the American docks on Staten Island. While the ship was discharging its cargo word was brought to Gen. Nelson H. Henry, Surveyor of the Port that members of the crew of the vessel had conspired to smuggle goods from the ship into the homes of the inspectors.

Isaac Harris, a Special Deputy Collector, was put in charge of the investigation. He visited the homes of half a dozen custom Inspectors and other employes, and recovered the curios and other goods, which are now in the seizure room at the Appraiser's Stores.

At the Custom House no one would discuss the case from Surveyor Henry to John Purroy Mitchel, the new Collector. It was learned, though that none of the suspended men had been dismissed from the Government service. Their names were refused by custom officials. While none of the members of the crew of the steamship has been arrested, it was said yesterday that some of the men might be taken into custody in a day or two.

CUSTOMS FRAUD INQUIRY ON

Philadelphia Grand Jury Sifting Charges of Free Importations.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The United States Grand Jury began an investigation to-day into alleged custom frauds at this port. It has been alleged that big importers were benefited to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars by having imports passed in without duty as "samples of no value."

One arrest was recently made, that of Robert S. Brierly, a former examiner of merchandise, who was dismissed from the customs service. He is charged with passing as of no value a parcel containing a flag valued at $50 consigned to Rodman Wanamaker. It is alleged by the Government that Brierly in three years passed more than 400 importations in a similar manner. He is being prosecuted only on the flag charge.

Henry N. Arnold, Federal counsel, said this afternoon that John Wanamaker, in whose store the flag was exhibited, would not be called as a witness.

TO TELL PLANS TO HIBBEN.

All Jersey School Graduates to Write Letters to Princeton's Head.

TRENTON, N. J., June 16.—Eighth-grade pupils throughout the State were required to-day, as part of the final examinations, to reply to a letter from Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University. His letter, asking the children of their future plans, follows:

Princeton University,
President's Room, May 20, 1913.

My Dear Girls and Boys: The Commissioner of Education has asked me to write you a letter, a request to which I gladly respond.

You are just finishing your school days, I understand. Some of you will go on to a course in the high school and possibly later to college; others will go at once into business life.

I wish you would tell me what you expect to do after you leave school, and what you most desire to be. Whatever may be your special work, it will be your ambition, I am sure, to do it excellently well, and to win that measure of success which an earnest and determined purpose is bound to secure.

Do not be afraid to have your own convictions, to state them, and to live by them. Whatever you undertake put your heart into it. Do not let the opinion of the crowd hinder you from doing what you know to be right. Keep a corner of your heart for the troubles and sorrows of the world and learn to express whatever sympathy you feel for those who need your cheer and comfort.

I hope that each one of you will have a happy life. It is certainly within your power to have a useful one. Be ready for the opportunity when it comes. Keep faith with God and man, and you can face the future without fear. Faithfully yours,

JOHN GRIER HIBBEN.

ELECT FAGAN AS MAYOR.

New Commission in Jersey City Organizes—Anti-Wittpenn Men Rule.

The five newly elected City Commissioners of Jersey City, who will take office at noon to-day, at a meeting held last night, made it clear that the independent Democratic members of the board intend to have full swing in the matter of municipal patronage. As an act of courtesy to Mark M. Fagan, a former Mayor of the city, who received the highest vote in the general election and is the solitary Republican member of the commission, his four colleagues voted unanimously last night that he should be the titular head of the new administration. They elected him Mayor.

George S. Brensinger, an anti-Wittpenn Democrat, was then chosen Commissioner of the Department of Finance. Frank Hague, also an anti-Wittpenn Democrat, was elected Commissioner of Public Safety, with jurisdiction over the Police Department and the police courts. James J. Ferris, the third anti-Wittpenn member of the board, was assigned to the Streets and Water Department, in which there is much patronage.

MRS. SINCLAIR ENGAGED.

Divorced Wife of Novelist to Wed Man She Met in a Sanitarium.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 16.—The engagement of Mrs. Upton Sinclair, divorced wife of the novelist, to Hughbert Halliwell of Poughkeepsie was announced this evening to members of the artist colony at Woodstock, Ulster County, where the couple are staying. Halliwell is the son of the late G. W. Halliwell, a wealthy Poughkeepsie jeweler, by the terms of whose will the son is to receive only $3.50 a week until his marriage. After that the weekly allowance is increased to $150. At the birth of the first child another increase is made.

The Halliwell-Sinclair romance started with the meeting of the couple at a sanitarium in this city. Halliwell says it was a case of love at first sight. Both were being treated at the sanitarium for nervous trouble. Mrs. Sinclair came here shortly before the second marriage of her former husband, two months ago.

Halliwell has met Mrs. Sinclair's parents, who reside in Jersey City, and Mrs. Sinclair has been introduced to Halliwell's mother. Both families are understood to have approved the engagement. The marriage is to take place in the Fall.

ROBS PINCHOT HOUSE, BUT STEPS INTO TRAP

KEPT UNTIL POLICEMAN CAME

Historic Coffeepot Is Included in the Booty Which the Daylight Burglar Had Gathered.

When Charles Clay found the grating that usually bars the back entrance to Amos Pinchot's house at 1,021 Park Avenue open yesterday afternoon, and jimmied his way in by the wooden door, through the kitchen and then into the pantry, where he proceeded to stuff his pockets with whatever he saw, he had not counted upon two things. One was the presence in the house of Mrs. Agna Anderson. The other was that a little coffeepot temporarily lodged in the pantry had a sort of imperial hoodoo over it.

Now, whether it was the coffeepot or the woman that proved the undoing of Clay one will not attempt to say. Supporters of each may be found. Mrs. Anderson came originally from Sweden. The coffeepot was an importation from France, and it has a history that even a burglar might respect, for it was once the property of the Emperor Napoleon III. That much is certain. Tradition goes on to say that that unfortunate soldier of fortune and sometime monarch thought a lot of that pot, and that all his after-dinner cups were brewed in it. When real history takes up the thread of the tale of the coffeepot, we find it exposed at the public sale of the effects of the late Emperor that was held in Paris after the Frenchman had redeemed the mortgage which the Germans had taken on the Tuileries. The Empress Eugenie had neglected to pack it with her jewels when the American dentist Evans hurried her away to safety, and so it was that the father of Amos Pinchot saw it at the sale, during a visit to Paris, and purchased it. And thus it came about that Gifford Pinchot has often had coffee from the same pot.

Mrs. Anderson is a bride of about a year. The possessor of a good pair of lungs, when her great emergency arose she used all the voice she had. The presence of Mrs. Anderson in the Pinchot household may be explained by the fact that she and her husband are just entering upon their second Summer as caretakers of the Park Avenue house while the Pinchots are at their country place, in Milford, Penn.

Mrs. Pinchot came to town for the polo matches, and remained over Sunday. She took luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton yesterday, and when the burglar took it into his mind to enter her house she was doing some shopping preparatory to taking a train for the country. Crost, Mr. Pinchot's valet, was in the house, packing up some things to take to Milford, but he did not hear the forcing of the back door, and his services only came into requisition after Mrs. Anderson had exerted the power of her lungs.

Yesterday was washday for Mrs. Anderson, and she was up on the roof hanging out clothes when the burglar got into the house. There were so many clothes that the caretaker ran short of clothespins and went downstairs to obtain a further supply. The burglar meanwhile, finding nobody about, had appropriated all the silver plate he could find, together with some of the solid silver, and, besides making two bundles, had stuffed his pockets and the inside of his shirt with loot. He had just concealed the Napoleonic coffeepot in one of the bags when he heard a footfall outside and the sound of a song, which may or may not have come to him as a saga of the Vikings. Grabbing up his two bundles, he opened the door of a closet and stepped in.

It just happened that that was the place where the clothespins were. The song and Mrs. Anderson entered the pantry. A turn of the knob of the closet door and both stopped. There, crouched on the floor, was the queerest clothespin Mrs. Anderson had ever beheld. His face, through its grime, had gone to a hue that matched the pallid cheeks of the caretaker. She recovered just enough presence of mind to bang the door, and then she screamed at the top of her lungs.

Crost, the valet, heard her, and never did a knight errant respond more readily and more gallantly to the cry of woman in distress. Pausing on his way through the sitting room to grab up a pair of tongs from the fireplace, Crost charged down the stairway and reached the pantry just in time. His first move was to close the door which led to the kitchen, and then he called a council of war. Mrs. Anderson, whose courage had immediately revived, agreed that the best thing to do was to drive the intruder into a place where she might easily guard him while Crost summoned the police.

So the closet door was opened and the now thoroughly scared prisoner let out. With the caretaker leading the way, and Crost brandishing the tongs in the rear over the head of the captive, he was conducted to the basement and to the storeroom, which has a door that is as solid as that of an iron safe. The valet sternly ordered the other man to get in, and he obeyed. Then he turned the key, and, while Mrs. Anderson mounted guard, Crost mounted the steps and looked out of the front door.

Detective Joseph Ryan of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station happened to be passing. He had heard the cries of Mrs. Anderson, and when the front door opened he stepped up and proffered aid. He went to the basement and arrested the burglar.

The latter said when he was questioned that he was 27 years old and that he lived at 333 East Ninety-seventh Street. According to his story, he is a soldier from Fort Hancock on a furlough. He told the detective that he had pawned his uniform. Upon being asked how he had become acquainted with the interior of the Pinchot house, he said that he had once gone into the house as helper to an expressman and so learned the lay of the place. The back entrance of the house is reached by a narrow alley from the street. The grated door that guards it will be kept locked all the time hereafter.

The value of the articles packed up or stored upon his person by the burglar, while they numbered several pieces of solid silver, Mrs. Pinchot said last night was not very large, with the exception of the coffeepot of the last Napoleon, which, for its historic associations as well as because it is an heirloom, was very much prized by the family.

POLITICS DISGUSTS JUDGE.

Chicago Jurist to Resign Because He Dislikes Elections.

CHICAGO, June 16.—"I am quitting because of the annoyance of constantly recurring elections," said Judge Charles S. Cutting to-day in announcing that he would resign as Judge of the Probate Court next September.

"A man is no longer judged on his merits as a Judge," continued Judge Cutting. "Judges are praised or blamed according to the parties they belong to. The constant worry and annoyance of this sort of thing has been too much for me. But for that I would gladly remain on the bench."

Judge Cutting has been in office since 1890.

IN NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

GAMBLERS EJECTED AT POLO GROUNDS

Boston Layers of Odds Escorted to Gate and Requested to Remain Away.

The first decisive stand against gambling at local baseball games was taken yesterday at the Polo Grounds, where the Yankees and Detroit Tigers were engaged in the final game of a four-game series. Owner Frank J. Farrell of the Yankees was responsible for the move which was made as a result of recent developments in odds-laying by professional gamblers at the park. The practice has gained no solid foothold, but it had become so noticeable in some games that the management decided to attack it now.

Special Detective Thomas O'Neill was stationed at the Eighth Avenue entrance to the Polo Grounds for some time before the game began, and he succeeded in "spotting" a number of the bettors on their way to the ticket booths. A tip had been received earlier in the day that the gamblers would be present at the game, one rumor carrying the word that a number who had been ejected recently at Boston had decided to make New York the base of their operations. Those who were recognized outside the field were denied admission. Later a few more were found on the inside, and they were taken to the ticket offices, where their admission money was returned, and then they were ordered to leave.

"This is only the first move in a crusade that will be continued until the gamblers realize that they cannot ply their trade at the Polo Grounds," said an official of the Yankees last night. "These men come to the games and are willing to bet on anything. They will lay odds that a batsman will or will not get a hit, that he will or will not reach first base, and, in fact, they will bet on any of the various possibilities in a ball game. The practice has not grown in New York to the extent that it has reached in other cities, and we do not intend that it shall. It has been necessary to drive these men out other ball parks and they will be driven out of here. Many of them have their betting systems reduced to science and know the probabilities involved in the cases on which they make bets. Odds vary according to the batting strength of this or that player when bets are being made about hits or getting to first base. And the same holds true in the various phases of the game into which the gamblers delve."

Action against gamblers at ball parks has already been taken at Boston and Pittsburgh, and only yesterday some of them were ejected from Shibe Park, Philadelphia. Organized baseball has been making a determined effort for years to keep baseball free from gambling for the safety of the sport. At the beginning of last year a company organized in the West laid odds on the various teams in the two major leagues, but the widespread agitation against the plan quickly killed it. The club owners have also gone on record as opposed to the baseball weekly pools, but as these are conducted away from the parks they have not been in a position to interfere.

RAID IN PHILADELPHIA.

38 Spectators Arrested for Betting on Athletics-Cleveland Game.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Accused of making bets on the Philadelphia-Cleveland baseball game, thirty-eight spectators were arrested in the grand stands and bleachers at the opening of to-day's contest in Shibe Park. The prisoners were taken to the City Hall in patrol wagons and were held there for a hearing in the Night Court. Detectives had been preparing for to-day's raid for some time, and were stationed in every part of the stands where gambling was expected to take place.

The regulars had hardly made their bets as to whether Johnston would reach first base or not, or whether Plank would pitch a ball or a strike, before, at a given signal, they were seized one by one by the many plain-clothes men scattered through the stands and taken to the entrance to await the patrol wagons.

ARTHUR T. LEWIS KILLED.

New York Man's Auto Plunges Over Embankment in Indiana.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 16.—Arthur T. Lewis, a wealthy New York contractor, was killed last night when his automobile rolled down a 25-foot embankment near Ligonier. Mr. Lewis's head was crushed and he died in the Lake Shore Station at Ligonier while waiting for a train to take him to an Elkhart hospital. He was on the way from Chicago to New York when the accident occurred.

Mr. Lewis's car was crowded to the side of the highway by an automobile which was coming from the opposite direction. His car suddenly swerved to the right and plunged down the embankment. The chauffeur who was driving the car was not injured.

The police are investigating the disappearance of $750 whch Mr. Lewis had in his pockets at the time of the accident.

Arthur T. Lewis was the Secretary and Treasurer of the W. D. Lewis Contracting Company and was born in Basking Ridge, N. J. At the residence of his family in Bernardsville last night Mrs. Lewis said that she had just heard of her husband's death, but had not been apprised of the particulars of the accident. She said that Mr. Lewis was in Indiana on a business trip.

CAN'T KEEP UP HONEYMOON

Husband's Lawyer Says Wife Has False Impression of His Means.

Supreme Court Justice Goff reserved decision yesterday on the application of Mrs. Theresa Greenberger for $250 a month alimony pending the trial of her suit for separation from her husband, Hugo Greenberger, a shoe dealer in Harlem. C. G. F. Wahle, who represented Mr. Greenberger, said that his client was a man of means, but he asserted that $250 a month alimony was excessive.

Mr. Wahle said that his client had created a false impression of his means in his wife's mind by taking her on a honeymoon to expensive hotels in Florida. She tried to make him maintain her on the same scale in New York, the lawyer asserted, and when he was unable to do so there was trouble.

WOMEN PRISONERS PUZZLE THE POLICE

Two Arrested as Pickpockets in Hoboken Send for Aid to Prominent Men Here.

Two young women, who had attracted much attention in the poorest quarter of the Italian colony in Hoboken last evening, as they went from shop to shop, because of their fashionable dress and the diamonds they wore, finally entered the shoe store of Michael Brancano at 521 Madison Street. A few minutes later both women emerged on the run, with the proprietor in pursuit. The chase ended at the Fourteenth Street ferry to Manhattan, when the shopkeeper called a policeman and had the women arrested, charging one of them with attempting to pick his pocket. The prisoners said they were Helen Hadden and Dolly Hadden, sisters, living at 1,070 Third Avenue, Manhattan.

When they were searched by a matron at Police Headquarters a small leather bag was found tied around the waist of each of the women, in both of which were some $3,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry. A partial list made by the police was a diamond brooch with a large solitaire diamond and ten smaller diamonds and a cluster brooch; a large diamond set in a ring, a diamond bracelet set with six diamonds and a ruby, seven small diamond rings, one lavalliere set with fourteen diamonds and a ruby, gold hat pin with pearl and diamond setting, gold locket with twelve diamonds, small watch with diamond centre, and other smaller diamonds and jewelry, together with $59 in cash.

Helen Hadden, who said the jewelry belonged to her and her sister, told the police that they were on their way to a reception and had taken the jewelry to wear. Brancano pressed the complaint against them and they were locked up pending a further investigation on the charges of disorderly conduct and attempting to pick pockets.

One of the girls asked the police to telephone to Archibald Hadden, "Bryant 5415," and when they complied the telephone operator reported that the telephone at that number had been discontinued. Then a request was made to call Senator Fitzgerald of Manhattan. The gold locket, set with twelve diamonds, contained the photographs of a man and a boy.

Tenants of 1,070 Third Avenue, the address given by the women, said that no one named Hadden lived there, neither did they know any one dwelling in the house answering the description of the girls.

When the young women were told that the telephone had been discontinued at the addresses they gave they wrote a note to Archibald Hadden of 270 West Fortieth Street, Manhattan, which the police forwarded by a messenger. Later a man who said he was the father of the prisoners appeared with a letter addressed to Thomas McLaughlin, Assistant Street Commissioner of Hoboken, who furnished $500 bail for each of the women for their appearance before Recorder McGovern in Hoboken to-day.

The father of the girls refused to make any statement and hurried away from Police Headquarters with his daughters.

Assistant Street Commissioner McLaughlin said the letter to him was from a prominent business man of Manhattan, who could easily obtain $100,000, but whose name he had been requested not to divulge. The youngest girl, said McLoughlin, was the wife of a wealthy business man of Manhattan, who owned a $50,000 home at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

WOMEN AFTER CITY BONDS.

Carry Them Off in Market Baskets from Baltimore Newspaper Office.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 16.—An experiment in selling city bonds to small investors over the counter, which ended here to-day, is called an amazing success by bankers and city officials.

The experiment was made by The Baltimore Sun just after the issuance of $5,500,000 of city bonds on June 5 had failed, due largely to the tightness of money in Wall Street. The city then offered the bonds at 90, but still they attracted few investors.

Then Charles H. Grasty, publisher of The Sun, offered to sell a $10,000 block of these $100 bonds over the counter at his newspaper office. The interest of small investors exceeded all expectations, and for ten days the office has been crowded with purchasers of 100 to 300 shares. Most of them have been women—many with market baskets on their arms.

At the close of the sale this afternoon The Sun had sold $966,000 worth of the bonds instead of the originally planned $10,000. The city has withdrawn its offer to sell at 90, because a large part of the issue has been sold, the interest aroused by the newspaper campaign having sent many small investors directly to the Commissioners of Finance.

It is conceded that Mr. Grasty has found a new market for city securities. The woman with a market basket over her arm helped finance the city for the first time.

ROCKEFELLER UP EARLY.

Rises with the Sun and Is Eager to Get the Newspapers.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 16.—John D. Rockefeller is taking an unusual interest in the New York morning papers lately, and his coachman is aroused at 4:30 o'clock every morning to go for them. In commenting on his early trips the coachman said:

"Why, I don't get them early enough for Mr. Rockefeller even now. The other morning he was so anxious that he had walked half way down the road to meet me."

Mr. Rockefeller is getting up these mornings at sunrise. He has an early breakfast, takes a short walk, and then he anxiously awaits the arrival of the New York papers, which he reads eagerly.

The other morning he wanted brook trout for breakfast, and the coachman had to wake up a local market man at 5:30 to get a special order. Mr. Rockefeller is playing his usual game of golf despite the hot weather. He is expected to go to Cleveland about June 23.

GIRL KILLS DOCTOR AND THEN HERSELF

Shots from Revolver Hidden in Handbag Reach Heart of Savannah Physician.

HAD BEEN HIS PATIENT

Mysterious Woman Who Accompanied Her to His Office Now Sought by the Police.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 16.—Dr. Guy O. Brinkley, a practicing physician, was shot and instantly killed in his private office this afternoon, by Miss Kate Kittles, a patient. The girl then shot herself dead, her body falling across that of her victim. She shot herself through the temple.

Dr. Brinkley was shot four times. All of the wounds were in the body, one penetrating the heart. The woman had concealed the revolver in a small white handbag when she entered the office. Dr. Brinkley had been attending the girl for several weeks.

A woman companion, whose identity has not been established, but was probably a sister of the dead girl, accompanied her to the physician's office, remaining in the anteroom while the patient went into the consulting room. The woman disappeared by the front entrance immediately after the shooting began.

Dr. Brinkley ran from the office when the girl first began firing. The chase led to the outer office and into the passageway to the kitchen.

In the kitchen was Anna Williams, the maid, who had admitted the two women. Dr. Brinkley called to her "For God's sake get the police."

At that time he had two wounds in his body, one in the back and one in the neck. He was bleeding profusely. The colored woman ran to a drug store on the corner and telephoned for aid.

Miss Kittles pursued the physician to the back porch and again into the private office, where she fired again, inflicting a wound that touched the heart and caused instant death. Immediately the girl turned the revolver upon herself.

Dr. Brinkley was a Virginian. He came to Savannah several years ago from Suffolk, near Norfolk. He was unmarried.

Miss Kittles had been under treatment with Dr. Brinkley for several weeks, but during that time no card of identification had been made out for her. The girl was a daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Kittles, who keeps a rooming house at 23[illegible] Bull Street. She had lived in Savannah nearly all of her life. She is said to have been erratic at times, but had never given evidences of insanity. She was about 23 years old, slim, with dark hair and eyes and very pretty.

Dr. Brinkley had just written a prescription or a part of one, when the first shot was fired. The words on the prescription pad, scrawled and spattered when the bullet struck near his hand, read: "Elix iron quinine and strich."

The silk bag, powder stained and torn, was found by the maid in the next room where it had been dropped by Miss Kittles. It was evident that one or more of the shots had been fired from the bag. The woman entered the room evidently with the revolver concealed in the folds of the bag.

What passed between her and Dr. Brinkley will probably never be known. The woman who accompanied her and who is probably the only person who heard what passed between the couple, has not been found. It is presumed that she was there to keep guard while Miss Kittles accomplished her purpose.

The mother of the girl can throw no light on the tragedy. There had been no indication of anything unusual existing between Dr. Brinkley and his patient. The act was evidently premeditated, however, on the part of the girl. She followed her purpose with determination. Apparently she made no attempt to hurt herself until she knew Dr. Brinkley was dead.

HELD FOR DIER FIRE.

Two Arrests in This City and One in Montreal.

Amon Funchon of Princess Bay, Staten Island, who, the police say, set fire to the residence of Jacques Dier on the Amboy Road on the night of May 29 to conceal his robbery of $3,000 in jewelry and $60 in cash, has been arrested in Montreal, according to information received yesterday by the Richmond Borough police. Suspicion early fell on Funchon, but he had left before he could be questioned. The police heard he had talked of going to Montreal and had a letter written to him at a hotel there. It was forwarded to him, and when he answered it they learned his address.

The Montreal police, in sending word of the arrest, said that Funchon had a quantity of jewelry on him. Funchon's wife was arrested yesterday at her Staten Island home and held as a material witness. She denied knowing anything about the robbery or arson.

Last night Detectives Ditsch and Alendale of the Central Office squad arrested Louis Capillion, 30 years, of Huguenot Park, Staten Island, and charged him with the burglary of the Dier home.

The police had no clues to work on, except that it was reasonable to suppose that only persons who knew Dier and his wife and knew that they were away from home on June 6 could be guilty. Accordingly, a list of suspected persons was made and each was watched by detectives.

Capillion was found by the detectives in the Café De Pyrnees in West Thirtieth Street, near Eighth Avenue. The arrest of a third man is expected soon.

ARTIST KILLS A BURGLAR.

H. W. Watrous Shoots Man Robbing His Home—Thief's Brother Caught.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., June 16.—Harry F. Watrous, the artist, shot and killed a burglar who was attempting to rob his Summer home on Lake George to-night.

The dead man was Frank Cardinal of Hudson Falls. He died in the Ticonderoga Hospital. A brother of the burglar, Joseph Cardinal, escaped through a window, but was caught shortly afterward in the woods by a Sheriff's posse.

Mrs. Watrous was awakened when one of the burglars stumbled over a chair in the dining room. She aroused her husband, who crept stealthily down stairs and entered the dining room with a flashlight in one hand and a revolver in the other. As he flashed the light Frank Cardinal, it is said, sprang at him, but Mr. Watrous was too quick for him. Raising his revolver, he fired and Frank fell to the floor. Aid was summoned and the wounded man was removed to the hospital, but shortly afterward succumbed to his wound.

TURKEY TROT ON IMPERATOR

Passengers Delighted with Ballroom —Sunday's Run 556 Knots.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ON BOARD S. S. IMPERATOR, (via Cape Race,) June 16.—Yesterday's run was 556 knots. The vessel is behaving well.

Few of the passengers attended the dance last night, but those who did so declared that the ballroom floor was superb. The "Turkey Trot" was the favorite dance.

BRITISH WARSHIP GROUNDS.

Battleship Magnificent Is Refloated with the Tide.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—The British battleship Magnificent, while returning from gunnery practice, went ashore this evening in a dense fog at the entrance to Plymouth Sound.

The battleship was later refloated with the tide. She is apparently undamaged.

FOSS VETOES 9-HOUR BILL.

Would Have Affected All Bay State Street Railway Men.

BOSTON, June 16.—One of the most important labor measures before the Legislature this year, the bill forbidding street railway companies to require more than nine hours' work in eleven consecutive hours, was vetoed by Gov. Foss to-day.

The legislation had the support of all the labor unions in the State.

MEANT TO TIP SENATOR.

Carpenter, Accused by Works, Said It Was Custom of His Trade.

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Charles Ercanbrach, 63 years old, indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of having offered a bribe to Senator John D. Works to obtain the office of Postmaster at Santa Barbara, was arraigned to-day and released on bail. He said his wife and daughter would "bring the whole of Santa Barbara down to tell the Judge" that he meant no wrong when he wrote to the Senator offering to pay $1,000 for the Postmastership. Ercanbrach said he saw nothing wrong in the offer.

"Lots of times we carpenters pay the boss carpenter two bits or four bits a day to get a job, and nothing is thought of it."

BEEF PRICES RISING.

Approaching Last Year's High Mark —Shortage in Cattle.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 16.—There was a sharp advance in the price of beef at the stock yards to-day, a jump of sufficient proportions to cause the packers to declare that a famine in beef is imminent. Cattle sold at the stock yards to-day at [illegible] per hundred pounds, the highest price of the year. Receipts to-day were short 8,000 head as compared with last Monday.

Although the present prices are the highest of the year, they are still below the high prices of last Summer. At that time beef sold as high as 11 cents a pound, but the high prices were attributed to scarcity of feed for cattle.

The sudden increase in the price of live stock means that consumers will have to pay more for their steaks and roasts.

LIFT BRIDGE; SAVE BOY.

Swimmer Caught as Tide Rises Rescued by Wrecking Crew.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 16.—In the presence of 4,000 spectators John Vololick, 16, was to-night saved from death by a trolley wrecking crew which lifted part of a bridge to rescue him from drowning.

The boy went swimming this afternoon and in some way became caught under the Congress Avenue Bridge over West River. The tide began to rise and his cries brought crowds to the scene. Various expedients were used to save him by the Fire and Police Departments, but all proved fruitless, and drowning seemed inevitable, when the trolley wrecking apparatus lifted part of the bridge, after part had been cut away. The boy was released about midnight, after having been imprisoned five hours.

EXPLODE $1.50 WAGE TALE.

Mill Girl Finds She Got More, but Father Kept Part of It.

IPSWICH, June 16.—Evidence was produced at the mill riot hearing to refute the statement of Poulitza Bizou that she only received about $2 a week, "Never more, sometimes less." The court had examined mill records indicating that in January, February, and March a weekly wage ranging from $6.99 to $8.42 had been paid to the girl.

"I mean," said Judge Sayward, "that the public shall know what wages this girl and other girls employed in the mills are getting. I do not propose to have the town of Ipswich maligned by testimony of this kind."

Recalled to the stand to explain her earlier testimony, the girl said that she had turned her wages over to her father, and that he had told her she was earning $2 a week.

ICE STRIKE IN HEAT WAVE.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 16.—With the threatened strike of ice wagon employes scheduled to take place on Wednesday morning, Cincinnati, with a temperature of 102 degrees, faces a trying situation. The strike cannot be averted, in the opinion of the union officials, unless the employers accede to the men's demands for more pay. Otherwise the plants will be tied up completely, except for ice deliveries to the hospitals, for which purpose enough men will be allowed to continue work.

The employers say they cannot meet the men's wage demands for an increase of from $15 to $18 a week for drivers and from $10.50 to $15 for helpers during the Summer months. During the Winter months the men ask that they be paid $16 a week for drivers and $13 for helpers. The drivers now receive from $13 to $15 a week and the helpers $10.50. The men also ask not to be required to work on Sunday.

It is understood that the Ice Delivery Company, the largest in Cincinnati, has arranged with various independent ice companies for a united stand against the demands of the union. It is reported that each ice company has put up a $500 bond undertaking to stand out against granting the demands.

SULZER HITS BOSSES, YET VISITS MURPHY

ALLEGED EFFORTS AT DEALS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 16.—Although Gov. Sulzer has denounced Charles F. Murphy before audiences on the stump, he has frequently sought and obtained secret conferences with the Tammany boss, according to Patrick E. McCabe, Clerk of the Senate.

This charge and others are made against the Governor in a carefully prepared statement which Mr. McCabe made public this evening. The McCabe statement is the opening broadside in the battle the Democratic organization will wage on the Governor from now on.

The real significance of the McCabe statement lies in the fact that it was made public with the authorization of the Democratic organization, and is the first step in a well-defined plan, decided upon by the leaders of the Governor's own party, "to show the Governor up in his true colors before the voters."

Issued just before the convening of the special session of the Legislature which Gov. Sulzer summoned to enact direct primary legislation, the McCabe attack on the State's Chief Executive has caused a great sensation at the capital, where it is looked upon as notice to the Governor and his friends that the Tammany chieftain and the leaders who stand with him in the fight against the Governor's programme and political aspirations will no longer remain silent under the attacks made upon them in the course of the direct nominations campaign.

After reading the McCabe statement to-night, Gov. Sulzer said:

"I do not care to answer this until I learn who has written it. Most of it is absolutely false."

This same disposition to assail Sulzer without mincing words was shown in the brief session of the Legislature to-night, when slashing attacks were made on the Governor by Assemblyman Levy and three Senators, all resenting the aspersions he has cast on the honesty of those who do not approve his direct primary plan.

Mr. McCabe, who is as close to Murphy as any up-State Democrat, and should have correct information on the subject gives four instances of Gov. Sulzer's conferring with Mr. Murphy in secret and tells the dates.

One of these was on April 13, after the dinner of the National Democratic Club at the Waldorf-Astoria. At this time the Governor, according to McCabe, aroused the Murphy household in the early morning, asked for an audience with the boss, and remained with him three hours. The Governor then asserted that he had just come from Hearst's house, where he had been abused for not urging the passage of a Direct Nominations bill, and that he personally had no interest in direct primaries.

The Governor, according to Mr. McCabe, urged Murphy to help him deceive Hearst, which Murphy declined to do. The Governor also offered the boss such patronage as two Public Service Commissioners, the Labor Commissioner, the State Superintendent of Prisons, and any other positions Murphy might select.

"When this was refused he begged with tears in his eyes, but Mr. Murphy was obdurate," adds Mr. McCabe.

Tells of Four Conferences.

Here is the McCabe statement:

"Gov. Sulzer is to harangue the citizens of Albany to-night, and I understand traduce the leaders of his party.

"The insincerity of his personal abuse of the Democratic leaders in the State can be proved to the satisfaction of any fair man.

"Has Gov. Sulzer ever told the public that on Feb. 2 he went to New York by appointment to see Mr. Charles F. Murphy, left the train at 125th Street, and conferred with Mr. Murphy for six hours? The Governor informed some gentlemen he met on the train that he was going shopping—and he was.

"How many citizens of the State have been informed by Gov. Sulzer that he spent Sunday, March 2, with Mr. Murphy?

"On the evening of March 17, Gov. Sulzer attended the dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at the Hotel Astor, made a noise in which he railed against the thing he calls 'invisible government,' and sneaked around to see Mr. Murphy the next day and spent several hours with him.

"The National Democratic Club gave a dinner at the Waldorf on the night of April 13. About 1 o'clock in the morning Gov. Sulzer awoke the Murphy household, begging for an audience with Murphy, which was granted, and continued until 4 o'clock in the morning. He informed Mr. Murphy that he had come direct from Mr. Hearst's house, where he was terribly abused. The Governor mentioned the Direct Primary bill, said he had no interest in it, and wanted Mr. Murphy to enter into a scheme to deceive Mr. Hearst, which Mr. Murphy refused to do. As an inducement he said Mr. Murphy might name the two Public Service Commissioners, the Commissioner of Labor, Superintendent of Prisons, and any other positions Mr. Murphy might select. When this was refused he begged with tears in his eyes, but Mr. Murphy was obdurate.

"The Governor has said that Senator Wagner received his orders in the Direct Primary bill from Delmonico's and Fourteenth Street. He claims that were it not for these orders everybody would favor his bill. If this be true Mr. Murphy must be an ingenious political boss. He must be the boss of THE TIMES, Herald, and Sun, as these papers have had the temerity to oppose the Governor's bill, or that part of it favoring the abolition of State Conventions.

"The location of the 'Invisible Government' might be obtained and make interesting reading for the public were the telephone slips between the executive chamber and mansion and New York City since Jan. 1 published.

An Incident at Baltimore.

"Let me recite here an instance of Gov. Sulzer's political 'honesty.' At Baltimore a poll of the delegates from New York State was being taken. J. Sergeant Cram, a delegate, was absent. He was known as a stanch Wilson man. When his name was called Mr. Sulzer answered for him and voted for Champ Clark, whereupon Senator O'Gorman, who was near by, protested against the unfair and dishonest act of Mr. Sulzer and appealed to Mr. Murphy, who requested the clerk to record Mr. Cram as absent. No doubt Mr. Sulzer regards this as clean politics.

"To-day in New York State, due to Gov. Sulzer's political antics, we have the most abject demoralization in every department ever before attained. No sane man could in fifty years disturb, upset, confuse, and befog affairs as has Gov. Sulzer in six months.

"Gov. Sulzer has for years claimed to be a Jefferson and Jackson Democrat, a partisan who believed in the principles and great men of his party, and that the Government was safest under the administration of his party. Yet his veto of the Constitutional Convention measure, recommended by his party, was the most criminal political act ever perpetrated on the party by a Democrat of any type. It was treason, the work of a traitor plain and simple.

"The scripture says, 'All things obey money.' Gov. Sulzer didn't obey either his party or the people in his veto of the hydropower bill. By this act he not only repudiated his party, but insulted the honest merchants and humble citizens of the Capital district as a favor to the power trust. 'All things obey money.'

"The truth is known to all men. Gov. Sulzer's business for thirty years has been politics, and that is what it is to-day. He has always made a business of politics, and made a business of politics all ways.

"Gov. Sulzer is shrieking from one end of the State to the other about giving the poor man more political power. The poor man wants relief, wants peace. He knows that Gov. Sulzer is trying to use him to help himself. Politics isn't the poor man's business—it's Gov. Sulzer's; and Gov. Sulzer thinks the poor man is a fool. Honest men do good even when wrong, while dishonest do wrong even when right. Will some one tell me of one poor man whose condition has been improved because of some economic principle of government advocated by Gov. Sulzer?

"It is an insult to honest poverty that every demagogue bases his right to public recognition on his interest in and assistance rendered to the poor man, and the poor man is just as numerous and in the same place all the time. I have never known a demagogue who did not try to rise to favor at the expense of the poor man.

"It is difficult for a rational man to conceive of Gov. Sulzer informing a member of the Legislature, 'If you don't agree with me I will drive you out of public life; if you do, I'll let you stay in.'

Calls Him "Overheated Executive."

"In Washington, under President Wilson, the Democratic Party is doing something which is a credit to the nation and a benefit to all the people, while in Albany we have an overheated Executive with an insane political ambition which he is crowding into everything and onto everybody, as a panacea for all our private and public ills."

It is looked upon as more than a coincidence at the Capitol that the first attack in the organization war on Gov. Sulzer should have been fired by McCabe.

It was he who started the Sulzer boom on the floor of the Syracuse Convention. He did so after a conference with Murphy, when the Tammany boss finally sanctioned the proposition to run Sulzer for Governor.

Only a few weeks ago Gov. Sulzer displaced McCabe as the man to dispense the State patronage allotted to Albany County, and named Daniel H. Dugan, his rival for the leadership, in his stead.

SAY McCABE TOLD FACTS.

Tammany Men Admit Sulzer-Murphy Conferences Were Held.

Charles F. Murphy could not be reached last night to be asked about the alleged conference between Sulzer and himself, as described in a statement given out at Albany by Patrick E. McCabe. A Tammany man who is close to him said, however that McCabe had not overstated the facts in asserting that the two had held several secret meetings in this city during the past few months.

After the dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick on the night of March 17, the Governor and Mr. Murphy held a conference at Delmonico's, according to Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall. At that time, Mr. Smith said, he arranged the meeting, and that the Governor and Mr. Murphy "buried the hatchet" and were to be good friends in the future. Gov. Sulzer denied the next day that any such meeting had taken place.

"The last meeting between the Governor and Mr. Murphy in this city was some time in April," said Mr. Murphy's friend last night. "That meeting was not as amicable as some others had been, for Murphy accused the Governor to his face of being an ingrate, and the Governor retaliated by saying that he would leave the Tammany organization out in the cold so far as State patronage was concerned. Since that time mutual friends have tried to bring the two together, but every effort failed because Mr. Murphy said he was through with the Governor and would have nothing more to do with him."

Some of the Governor's friends remarked last night, however, that Murphy and his lieutenants were very anxious to have it appear that the Governor had had secret conferences with the Tammany boss, and that reports of such conferences had been carefully circulated by Tammany members as part of their anti-Sulzer campaign.

FITZPATRICK WON'T MEDDLE.

Erie Boss Rejects Plea of Sulzer Committee.

BUFFALO, June 16.—William H. Fitzpatrick, Chairman of the Erie County Democratic Committee, declined to-day to influence the votes of the Democratic legislators from Erie County in favor of Gov. Sulzer's Direct Primary bill, when called upon by a citizens' committee, authorized at the recent Sulzer mass meeting and appointed by Chauncey J. Hamlin, Chairman of the Progressive County Committee.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said he would not deviate from his policy of non-interference with the acts of the Erie County legislators and dissented from the assertion of the committee that the dominant sentiment in the county favored the Governor's bill. In his opinion, only 25 per cent. of the voters favored the bill.

ROB PRIZE COLLECTOR.

Man Who Got a Medal for Bringing In Money Held Up.

Louis Shelkin, a collector for the Prudential Life Insurance Company, who lives at 921 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, got a medal yesterday from the industrial department of the company for having made the best collections for the last six months. Last night at 9 o'clock he reported to the Fifth Street Police Station that a few minutes earlier he had been robbed of $167 in cash by two men in the hallway of 127 Second Avenue as he was descending the stairs after having made a collection from Abraham Batrick, a relative.

He said one of his assailants had held him by the throat while the other went through his pockets. Then they knocked him down and ran up the stairs, escaping over the roof.

DENOUNCE SULZER AS SESSION OPENS

Angry Legislators Resent Aspersions Cast During the Primary Bill Campaign.

MEASURE SEEMS DOOMED

Few Votes Changed Since Regular Session—Governor Asks Redemption of Pledges.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 16.—With the opening to-night of the extraordinary session of the Legislature, called to pass direct primary legislation, the Democratic organization unlimbered its big guns, and began its first open attack on Gov. Sulzer. The message of Gov. Sulzer, again urging the lawmakers to enact the measure which was decisively defeated at the regular session, was referred to the Judiciary Committee in both houses, and then the war was on.

It was a one-sided battle, too. Among the hundred or more legislators who attended the opening session Gov. Sulzer did not have one to stand up and champion him or his cause.

To say that the differences between the Democratic Governor and the Democratic Legislature cannot be bridged is to put it mildly. The fact is, members of both houses have come to the Capitol so embittered by the attacks the Governor has made on the lawmaking body during his recent direct nominations campaign that they have forgotten the chief instinct of the politician—self-preservation—and are resolved one one thing—to crush the political aspirations of Gov. Sulzer at any price.

The Governor's direct primary plan was treated in the speeches to-night as if it was merely a prelude to what Assemblyman Levy, the majority leader, called "the struggle which is to follow."

While Mr. Levy was the only speaker in the lower House, in the Senate Robert P. Wagner, President pro tem., Senator Elon R. Brown, leader of the Republican minority, and Senator John Healy made speeches brimming over with resentment.

Assemblyman Levy called attention to the Governor's speeches on the stump, which, he said, showed that the Governor was incorrectly informed as to his own bill and the existing primary law, unless he was willfully misleading the public.

Wagner Threatens Inquiry.

Senator Wagner was the most outspoken of the Governor's critics.

"I shall not permit to go unchallenged what the Governor has said in insinuation and direct charge concerning members of this body," he said. "The time has come when the Senate will look more deeply into accusations that have been made against Senators and more deeply into what has been done since the regular session. The truth will come to light. Let us have patience and the people will know when it has been done what promises, and corrupt bargains have been made to get votes for a bill the Governor is so anxious to pass, but which he has not discussed.

"We are called back in extra session on a matter which has been passed upon already. Such a course was never contemplated by the Constitution. We are here, ready to do our duty. I hope every Senator will vote according to his conscience and in harmony with what he thinks is right. I hope no one will be a party to a bargain."

Senator Wagner said the Governor was insisting upon the passage of his bill as a fulfillment of a party pledge. He charged Sulzer with a gross violation of his party pledge in vetoing a Constitutional Convention bill.

"The Progressives didn't want the bill," Senator Wagner continued, "and he wanted the support of the Progressives for this bill."

The Senator charged also that a party pledge was ignored in the vetoing of the hydro-electro bill, and another in the vetoing of the bill providing for a permanent bill drafting department.

"I am not violating a confidence," said Senator Wagner, "when I say that the introducer of this bill was told it would not be signed unless it made another position to be filled by the Governor. The place was not provided for, and the bill was vetoed."

Senator Elon R. Brown, the minority leader, stated the position of the Republican legislators, asserting that they had always stood for practically all of the Governor's bills except the abolition of the State convention.

Senator Brown thought Senator Martine of New Jersey and Senator Vardaman of Mississippi were poor examples of the direct primary to set before the people of New York.

Senator Healy told of the treatment he received at the hands of Gov. Sulzer when the latter addressed meetings in Westchester Friday.

"I never saw such an exhibition by the Governor of the State," Senator Healy said. "He accused me of dishonesty and he accused others of dishonesty."

The returning lawmakers, almost without exception, say that there is little or no sentiment for the Governor's direct primary plan in their districts, and that the Governor's propaganda has its chief backing from politicians with axes to grind.

The lack of public interest was illustrated to-night. There is a convention of Knight Templars here and the city is full of visitors. Yet only a handful were in the Senate galleries to-night, though the purpose of the extraordinary session of the Legislature has been heralded throughout the State.

Cannot Gain Enough Votes.

According to the legislative leaders, the Governor will gain two, possibly three, votes in the Senate, and not more than ten in the Assembly. At the regular session the Governor's bill was eighteen votes short of a majority in the Senate, while in the Assembly there were twenty-nine votes lacking. The assertion of Gov. Sulzer that his bill will pass the Assembly at the extra session is called absurd by the well informed.

Previous to the angry speeches made by Legislators, the only business translated was the reading of the Governor's long message and the introduction of the Sulzer direct primary bill in both houses, together with the slighly modified Blauvelt bill, which the Governor in a veto message at the regular session denounced as a sham and a fraud.

The Governor's message quotes the primary planks of the platforms adopted last year at the State Conventions of the Republican, Progressive and Democratic parties. The Republicans favored a direct primary for all officers except those on the State ticket, and directly elected delegates to the State Convention. The Progressives declared for the direct election of all elective officers. The Democrats said they were the first party to enact a "State-wide primary," and they pledged the Legislature to enact such amendments to the existing laws "as will simplify and perfect the direct primary system."

Says All Are Pledged.

The Governor comments:

"It seems to me, all the members of the Legislature are instructed by these pledges of their respective parties, and are, therefore, in duty bound, by the highest party obligations, to vote for a State-wide direct primary measure."

Then he continues:

So a sense of public obligation made it my duty, in the interest of the common weal, to reconvene the Legislature in extraordinary session, to the end that the recommendations I have made to the Legislature for direct primaries can be considered without further delay, and a bill passed for direct nominations which will fulfill party pledges. In response to the overwhelming sentiment of the State, I am convinced we should do this as a matter of duty to our constituents.

Direct nominations will go far to restore to the people the complete control of their State government, and afford the voters of the State the freest expression of their choice of candidates for public office. The voters believe themselves just as competent to directly nominate all officials as the delegates they select. They want this right to [illegible] because they have so often found the delegate system was not a faithful agency of their wishes, and that it not infrequently failed to meet the demands and the expectations of the people.

To have direct primaries and to have conventions of delegates is impossible. Direct primaries have been devised by the friends of good government to permit the voters in each political party to nominate their candidates for public office directly without the intermediary of delegates, and as, of course, you cannot have conventions without delegates, it follows that the convention system must go, and honest direct primaries must come. There is no middle ground.

The adoption of State-wide direct primaries and the abolition of delegate conventions is in no sense an abandonment of the principle of representative government, but on the contrary it is a protest against the perversion of representative government. Under direct primaries the people will govern themselves through officials the same as now, but through officials directly nominated and elected by themselves.

Points to Other States.

The people have been trusted with this power to nominate in many other States, and they have used it to bring about greatly improved conditions. Let the Empire State put itself in line with the foremost States in the Union by favoring nominations by the people, for thus only can we secure a government of the people and by the people.

The Governor here quotes extensively from evidence of the success of the direct primary system in other States, as told in letters from United States Senators, Governors, and other State officials.

"If any one," he comments, "tells us that a direct nominations law is not a good thing for New York, we can point to what other States have done through the agency of this beneficent reform as a refutation of the reactionary assertion."

The Governor sums up his plea for the abolition of the State Convention by saying: "If selfish interests seek to control public affairs for the promotion of personal ends through the manipulation of party conventions, the plain people should seek to do the same thing by taking in their own hands the right to nominate every one of these important officials."

Features of the Measure.

The Governor therefore urges the Legislature to pass a direct primary bill to cover fifteen points which he enumerates. His plan differs in no essential feature from the bill which the Legislature rejected in the regular session. It provides for the direct nomination of candidates for all elective offices, except village, town and school district officers. It abolishes party columns on the primary ballot, and prohibits the use of party emblems. Under the Governor's bill, it is possible to become a candidate for a State office on the official ballot by filing a petition with at least 5,000 signatures, of which 100 shall be from each of at least twenty counties.

The Governor says he has no pride of authorship and that the Legislature is free to make changes in non-essentials. He closes his message with this statement:

"No one can be deceived as to my contention and as to my attitude. All I am seeking to accomplish is to write on our statute books an honest and a simple and a practical direct nominations law—State wide in its scope and application—in order to carry out in good faith party promises. That is all. Can I be more fair and more reasonable?

"Let us be honest about direct primaries and keep our pledges to the people. At all events, as the Governor, I shall, and if the Legislature does not the people will know the reason why."

PRINCESS WANTS TO WORK.

But She Can't Find Any and Is Going Back to Russia.

Princess Olga Galitzine, wife of Prince Andre Galitzine of the Czar's Imperial Cavalry, who left her husband last Winter and came here, has sold or pawned almost all her jewelry, amounting to $10,000, and has been forced to accept the offer of the Russian Ambassador at Washington to provide funds for her return to St. Petersburg. Except for her penniless condition, she says, she would prefer to stay here and try to earn her own living.

She was to have sailed a week ago. In expectation that efforts made in her behalf by Baron Oscar Korff, the Russian Vice Consul here, would open the way for her to get a dramatic engagement she delayed her departure. This being the dull season, there was no opportunity for her in theatricals except in vaudeville, and this the Princess does not consider worthy of her talents.

The Princess, who is 22 years old, has an apartment at 66 West Forty-sixth Street. She was under the care of a physician yesterday, and was unable to see any one. Through a friend she authorized this statement:

"I did not come here to go on the stage. When I separated from my husband I wanted to go away, anywhere, to forget my troubles. I came here with a friend from England, then went to Washington, where I explained my position to the Russian Ambassador, and he kindly offered to provide for my return. The Russian Government has nothing to do with my return except in this way; certainly I am not being forced by the Government to go back. I must go because of my penniless condition. I think a woman here has a great chance to do something for herself."

The Russian Consul requested Dr. George B. Campbell of the State Bureau of Deportation to visit the Princess, who, it was said, had sprained her ankle. The physician said last night that the request was not complied with because he was away at the time, and none of his assistants could find time to go.

Miss Burhans Estate $128,327.

Miss Isabel Holden Burhans, who died on Jan. 26, 1912, bequeathed her residuary estate, amounting to $106,653, according to the appraisal filed yesterday, to Dr. Robert Richards, a friend. Although Dr. Richards assigned this to her mother, Mrs. Isabel Burnhans of 52 West Eighty-eighth Street, the amount was taxed in the proceedings as though it had passed to one of no relationship. From the net estate, which was appraised at $128,327, Miss Burhans gave legacies of $5,000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and $1,000 to the Actors' Fund of America, and directed that her executors should devote $5,000 to the care of her animals.

HOT SUMMER COMES FOR A WEEK'S STAY

15 OR MORE PROSTRATIONS

Yesterday was the hottest June 16 in twenty-two years. At 5 in the morning the temperature registered 66 degrees, and climbed steadily till 4:40 in the afternoon, when it reached the maximum of 91 degrees. The heat in the city was made more oppressive by the humidity, which was 61 at 8 A. M., but decreased toward evening, owing to the sea breeze which set in. The night, however, ruled hot, the temperature at 11 o'clock standing at 78.

Dispatches received last night from various parts of the country showed that the heat wave had not been confined to New York State. In Evansville, Ind., it was 108. The records of the Weather Bureau in Chicago for hot days in June were equaled yesterday when the mercury in the "comparatively" cool observatory tower registered 98 degrees. Later in the day there was a drop of 28 degrees. There was one day in June, 1872, and two in June, 1911, when the heat was as intense in Chicago.

In Philadelphia the record heat for June was equaled yesterday at 3 P. M., when the mercury on top of the Government Building reached 95 degrees. The percentage of humidity was low there, and a stiff southwest wind made the heat more endurable. James Kelly, 61 years old, was stricken while walking along Harrison Avenue, Harrison, N. J., and died in St. Nicholas Hospital.

There were a number of prostrations in Manhattan. These were reported:

BARDA, YANOS, 33, laborer, of 334 East Fifty-fourth Street; overcome in New York Central Railroad yards at 134th Street and Willow Avenue, and removed to Lincoln Hospital.

COSTA, JOSEPH, wheelwright, 50 years old, of 5 Rivington Street; overcome in front of 170 Hudson Street and taken to Hudson Street Hospital.

DE ROSA, DANTRO, laborer, 27 years old, of 399 East 106th Street; overcome at Ninety-fourth Street and First Avenue; taken to Reception Hospital.

HOBART, FRITZ, 30 years old, of 147 East Sixteenth Street; from Fifty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue to Flower Hospital.

GOODMAN, SARAH, 55 years old, of 526 East 139th Street; overcome at home; attended by Dr. De Lamati of Lincoln Hospital.

MURRAY, PATRICK, 9 years old, of 1,846 Second Avenue. Overcome while playing with a number of boys at Seventy-seventh Street and Third Avenue. Taken to the Reception Hospital.

PAUCIN, LEVIN, machinist, 28 years old, of 118 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn. Overcome at Nineteenth Street and First Avenue and taken to Bellevue Hospital.

ROZINSKY, MICHAEL, longshoreman, 40 years old. Prostrated at Pier 35, North River, and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Brooklyn also had several cases of heat prostration. This is the record there:

FAY, WILLIAM, 52 years old; overcome in front of 291 Lexington Avenue and sent home after being treated.

GILLEN, JAMES, truck driver, of 94 Adams Street; overcome and fell off his seat on Broadway, near the water front, and the wheel passed over him; taken to Williamsburg Hospital.

MILLERCOMP, LILLIAN, 17 years old, of 58 Ulmer Park; prostrated on elevated platform at Thirty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue; taken to Norwegian Hospital.

VICAT, MARGARET, clerk, 16 years, of 181 South First Street. Overcome at 513 Metropolitan Avenue and sent to Williamsburg Hospital.

WILLIAMS, Miss ISABELLA, 20, stenographer, of 448 Ninety-ninth Street, Brooklyn, overcome in front of 113 Chambers Street; Hudson Street Hospital.

WILSON, NELLY, cleaner, 37 years, of 1,065 Franklin Avenue. Overcome on grand stand at Ebbets Park, corner Bedford Avenue and Sullivan Street. Sent home.

WOLFE, GEORGE E., 45, lawyer, of 718 West 178th Street, fell in front of 65 Reade Street, suffering from acute indigestion; Hudson Street Hospital.

While sleeping on the fire escape on the first floor of 331 First Street last night Kitty Socall, 6 years old, rolled off and dropped to the sidewalk. Her skull was fractured. Bellevue Hospital reported her case as hopeless.

The forecaster said, late last night, that there was no sign of relief from the heat wave in sight, and that it would be warm throughout the week.

Battery Park was crowded after sundown with women and children, who swarmed down from the lower east side.

Three Die in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 16.—Three men were killed and twenty-five were prostrated, one seriously, by the heat to-day. The maximum on the Government thermometer was 95 degrees in the afternoon.

COMPLAINS OF SULZER.

J. F. Darling Writes Legislators About Guatemalan Concessions

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 16.—Many Senators and Assemblymen received to-night letters signed by Joseph F. Darling, a New York lawyer, notifying them that he would file with the Secretary of State a statement regarding the activities of Gov. Sulzer while Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House of Representatives.

Joseph P. Darling has an office at 116 Nassau Street and lives at 344 East Fifty-seventh Street. He said last night that he had sent a letter to Gov. Sulzer and then mailed a copy of it to the Senate and Assembly, not, he insisted, because of any political interest in the present war between the Governor and the Legislature, and not because any of the legislators had asked for his story as ammunition ,but simply because the sight of Gov. Sulzer "pretending to be for purity in nominations and against monopoly," had made him tired.

"If any one is a friend of monopoly it is 'Billy' Sulzer," said Mr. Darling.

His story concerned certain clients who, he said, were held up and jailed by the Guatemala authorities. hen they went to Washington to make complaint, he said, their progress was blocked by Sulzer as Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. According to Mr. Darling, Sulzer's course was dictated by the fact that he, with Archibald E. Spriggs and other friends, had formed a syndicate which had obtained a valuable concession in Guatemala of mineral and railroad rights.

Newspaper in June, 1909, told of Sulzer's visit to Guatemala. He spent several days there, and when he left it was understood that he had obtained large concessions from Manuel Estrada-Cabrera, President of the republic. It was said at the time that several New York capitalists were interested in Gautemala, and the investment of which American capital there was expected.

Charges against the Guatemala authorities were made in a magazine published by Col. Edwin Emerson, on the strength of which a libel action was brought in this country through the Guatemalan Consul General, and in this litigation, which was discontinued, Mr. Darling was a witness for the defense.

More recently he figured in a trial in General Sessions, where, after his defense in a case in which he talked about the tyranny of the courts and "frame-ups" and "systems," Judge Swan sentenced him to thirty days for contempt of court. To the reporters at the time Mr. Darlin explained that he was the man who had himself arrested to test the Sullivan law and that he had been in many fights "for liberty" and had often been in jail therefor.

JUSTICES CRITICISE COURT HOUSE PLANS

By No Means Unanimous in Favor of Lowell's Circular Scheme.

RAISE LIGHT QUESTION

Some of Them Deplore Idea of Having No Corner Rooms with Windows on Two Sides.

For an hour yesterday afternoon the Justices of the Supreme Court discussed in secret session the plans for a court house drawn by Guy Lowell and tentatively accepted by the Court House Board. They had before them a report of a special committee of their number, consisting of Justices Dugro, Chairman; Greenbaum, Seabury, Page, Amend, and Delany, and at the end of their meeting the committee remained behind closed doors for further consultation.

None of the Justices would say what the conclusion at which they had arrived was, and Justice Dugro explained that all that could be done was to report progress. A final decision, it is understood, has not yet been reached, but some suggestions are to be sent to the Court House Board.

Though the advocates of the circular building which Mr. Lowell has proposed are by no means despairing of its ultimate adoption by the Justices, once the great merits of its provision of easy access to the court rooms and complete separation of one part from another are realized, there is undoubtedly a strong party among the Justices who are altogether opposed to it. They have brought up a number of objections, partly to the cost and partly to the arrangements necessitated by the circular form.

Though Mr. Lowell is of the opinion that the Court House, as he has designed it, can be constructed for $10,000,000, excluding the cost of the foundations, some of the Justices think that this is far below a fair estimate. It has been urged that the circular form will add to the cost of construction, although Mr. Lowell has pointed out that the building will be so huge, of a greater diameter, for example, than Columbus Circle, that as far as the structural members are concerned they will not be different in any way from those used in the ordinary rectangular building.

Some of the Justices have taken exception to the fact that the circular form precludes the provision of any corner rooms. Such rooms are always desired for courtrooms, because they permit the light to enter from two sides, while in Mr. Lowell's plan practically all the light must come from one side, and windows arranged on one side only of a room, however lofty they may be, are never, in the opinion of the critics of the design, as satisfactory as those on two sides.

None of the Justices was willing to say yesterday what the tenor of the suggestions or communication to be sent to the Court House Board would be. Their situation in the matter is somewhat curious. Under the law they are required only to accept or reject the design for the Court House when it has been approved by the Court House Board, and there is no suggestion in the law that they should criticise details. But there are two other bodies besides the Court House Board and the Justices which have to assent to the Lowell plans—the Municipal Art Commission and the Board of Estimate—so the Justices have been consulted thus early because, in order to get the concurrence of all these authorities, some general agreement must be reached at the earliest possible moment on the general type of structure which is to be erected.

The Justices have nothing to do with the site, but the Municipal Art Commission has to consider the precise location of the new Court House before it can approve it. On the other hand, the Art Commission is not particularly interested in the internal arrangements as long as the exterior is artistic in character and fitted to the surroundings. The Municipal Commission has decided that it will not report until the Justices have given some kind of general approval of the Lowell plan and the site has been finally settled.

Borough President McAneny has been at work some weeks with his consulting engineer, E. P. Goodrich, and a committee of architects on a plan for the rearrangement of the streets in the neighborhood of the present tentative Court House site and the acquisition of certain property which has not yet been condemned and will add both to the practical and artistic merits of the suggested site. That work is now practically complete, and it is understood that in a few days Mr. McAneny will be ready to announce it and bring it before the Board of Estimate.

Some of the Justices wanted to have the full working drawings of the Lowell design before them before they made up their minds, but it was pointed out that these would be so voluminous and would take so long in preparing that it was unreasonable to expect to have them completed before it was known for certain that the design was to be followed. It is now hoped that the Court House Board, when it receives the communication of the ideas of the Justices, will be able to meet their wishes, and that Borough President McAneny's committee will be able to announce definitely what the site is to be, so that the Municipal Art Commission will be in a position to give its approval.

HAS BEGGED FOR 20 YEARS.

Man Who Preyed on Church Members Is Sent to Blackwell's Island.

After preying for twenty years on the charitable, and particularly the church people, according to John D. Godfrey, a Brooklyn mendicancy officer, Thomas Hastings, an Englishman, 52 years old, was sentenced yesterday by Magistrate Naumer in the Gates Avenue Court to serve six months on Blackwell's Island.

For several weeks the Rev. Louis O. Rotenbach of the Bethany Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn had been hearing that a well dressed stranger had been using his name with success among his parishioners, and a week ago last Sunday he warned his congregation against the man.

Last Wednesday Hastings called on George H. Basten, a member of Bethany Church, at 712 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Basten recognized him, and leaving his wife to engage him in conversation, went next door for a neighbor, who also had heard of the man.

Sure of his identity, they called in a policeman from the Ralph Avenue Station, with the result that he was arrested and convicted of vagrancy. Godfrey said that in his twenty years of begging Hastings has been convicted only once before, when Magistrate Kernochan sent him for six months to Blackwell's Island.

CONDEMNS FEE SPLITTING.

American Medical Association Also Hostile to Giving Commissions.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 16.—The report of the Judicial Council, condemning the evils of secret "fee splitting" and the giving of commissions by physicians and surgeons, caused the greatest interest in the house of delegates of the American Medical Association, which convened here to-day.

A resolution was offered, which will be acted on later in the week, demanding expulsion from the association as a penalty for those physicians who practice either of these evils.

Dr. Abraham Jacobi of New York City, the retiring President, presided at to-day's session. To-morrow he will be succeeded in the chair by Dr. John A. Witherspoon of Nashville, Tenn., after his installation, which will take place at a public meeting.

McCall Denies That He Sought Aid from Gov. Sulzer.

Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, denied the authenticity of a report which was current yesterday that the Democratic organization was planning to nominate him this Fall for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals to succeed Chief Judge Cullen. The fact that Chairman McCall had a conference with Gov. Sulzer last week was taken by some persons to mean that Mr. McCall wanted the Governor's support.

"I am not a candidate for any office," said Chairman McCall. "I have not talked with anybody about this thing, and, in fact, I never heard it mentioned before. All I want is to be let alone and to look after the duties of the Public Service Commission. The fact that I met Gov. Sulzer on his visit to New York means nothing, for I meet him about every time he comes here."

TENNESSEE BOND CRISIS.

Feared That Sale To-day Again Will Fail and the State Default.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, June 16.—The Tennessee State Government is facing a grave financial situation. The climax will be reached to-morrow at noon when the Funding Board will open bids for the second time for $11,458,000 of securities to refund the State debt that matures July 1. It is not thought that any better bidding will be had for the bonds than two weeks ago, when the highest bid fell nearly 15 cents below par on the dollar.

It is likely that there will be no sale, and as the legislators cannot be gotten together by Gov. Hooper for a short term on account of the war between the Democrats and Fusionists, it looks as if Tennessee would default on its refunding obligations two weeks hence. The outstanding bonds are owned in New York.

The Democrats are holding open the January term of the General Assembly to prevent the Governor from calling an extra session, while the Fusionists are holding out for fear the Democrats would repeat the prohibition laws if the Fusionists should join the present session.

in their thousands to view the decorations and otherwise evince their patriotic interest in the event they are celebrating.

"Just before I reached the hotel this evening I heard a Niagara-like roar rolling down Unter den Linden. I was told that the Kaiser and Kaiserin had been driving through the streets, and that they had received the most thunderous welcome ever accorded to them in Berlin."

To-night Mr. Carnegie attended the gala performance of "Lohengrin" at the Royal Opera. He had to leave Mrs. Carnegie behind, as women, by a freakish rule of German Court etiquette, are never invited to royal gala performances unless they are members of Court society.

The Hotel Adlon has found it necessary to establish a branch of the hotel's postal department on the floor where Mr. Carnegie's suite is located in order to take care of the shoals of begging letters that arrive for him with every delivery.

Emperor Drives Through City.

At about 6 o'clock this evening the Kaiser and Kaiserin motored through the central district of Berlin, the streets of which were thronged by half a million persons. The day has been a beautiful one, and the crowds gave their Majesties the heartiest reception they have ever in their long reign obtained.

The Kaiser seemed as happy as a child. He smiled broadly at the people and saluted right and left. Their Majesties' informal progress through the crowds, which came quite unexpectedly, has been the one feature of the jubilee in which the people have been able to take a part.

The Emperor marked the silver anniversary of his reign by proclaiming amnesty for delinquents imprisoned for various infractions of the law and for all members of the army and navy undergoing punishment for violations of the regulations. He commands the law officers in carrying out the amnesty order to favor those whose misdeeds were committed through poverty or while in a state of irresponsibility. Men of the army and navy who were convicted of slander or maltreatment of subordinates will not share in the amnesty.

Several thousand names are on the jubilee honors list. Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, who, many [illegible] a Count, is [illegible] rank of Lieu[illegible] Kaiser has [illegible] ex-Chancellor von Bülow also receives the Emperor's portrait. Various Ministers receive decorations. Krupp von Bohlen, head of the Krupp Works, obtains a new distinction, and ex-Colonial Secretary Dernburg and a number of bankers and captains of industry are made members of the Prussian House of Peers. On Joseph Lauff, the Prussian "Poet Laureate," hereditary nobility is conferred.

General Holiday in Germany.

BERLIN, June 16.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Emperor William to the imperial throne was celebrated in Berlin and throughout the German Empire as a general holiday. The brilliance of the festivities and the enthusiasm displayed by the people testified to the monarch's great personal popularity among all classes of his subjects.

The commemoration, which had been deferred from its actual date out of respect to the memory of the Emperor's father, Emperor Frederick, coincides with the forty-second anniversary of the triumphal return of his grandfather at the head of his victorious army after the Franco-Prussian war. It was naturally marked by considerable military display. Emphasis, however, was also laid on the peaceful aspects of the Emperor's quarter-century reign—industrial and civic developments and the material prosperity of the country.

The day here began with a "general reveille." The massed military bands from the Division of the Guards summoned the Emperor to his window with deafening music played in the inner courtyard of the castle. The bandsmen then paraded from the castle to the Brandenburg Gate, at the other end of Unter den Linden, and back again, playing popular melodies and military marches.

In the meantime 7,000 school children had replaced the bandsmen in the castle courtyard, where they sang several songs, to the evident pleasure of the Emperor.

The reception of deputations and the presentation of loyal addresses began at 10 o'clock, but was interrupted from 11 till 2 by his Majesty's reception of representatives of the Government offices, the army and navy, the Parliament and various municipalities.

Americans' Address.

One of the first delegations received by Emperor William was that headed by Andrew Carnegie, who presented the following address, signed by a large number of representative Americans:

To his Imperial Majesty, the German Emperor:

On behalf of organizations and societies which represent the effort of American citizens of every section, creed, and race to advance the cause of civilization, we venture to express to your Imperial Majesty our congratulations upon a reign notable in countless ways, in none more so than in the maintenance of twenty-five years of unbroken peace between Germany and the other nations of the world. The memorable words of your Majesty shortly after ascending the throne, "The peace of my country is sacred to me," came both from the head and from the heart. Sacred indeed the peace, the order, and the prosperity of the German people have been. More than once during the past twenty-five years it has been the high privilege of your Majesty not only to exercise peaceful forbearance, but to inspire it in others.

We beg to tender our thanks to your Imperial Majesty for what you have done to prevent war and to advance the coming of the day when there shall be peace upon earth to men of good will.

In addition to the preservation of international peace, we know well that every department of Government has received and is receiving your sympathetic co-operation. The remarkable developments in the commerce and the manufacturing industries of Germany, and the improvement of agriculture, owe much to your Majesty's judicious and unwearied efforts. During your Majesty's reign the condition of the masses of the German people has steadily improved. Their education is now better and more practically helpful than ever before. The laws for the protection of the public health, for the compensation and care of the aged, the injured, and the incapable, are all due in large measure to your Majesty's support and approval.

The increasing population and the growing wealth of Germany under improving conditions of life and of labor are an impressive tribute to your Majesty's labors for your people's good.

Those of us engaged in the development of the industries, the commerce, the education, the science and arts of our country, and in promoting as far as lies in our power the brotherhood of man, unite in expressing to your Majesty our sense of obligation for the example your reign of twenty-five years has set.

We congratulate your Majesty upon the notable advance made by Germany in every field of human effort during your peaceful, prosperous, and civilizing reign. Long may it continue unbroken!

To a delegation from the British Church in Berlin received by his Majesty this afternoon the Emperor said:

"I can assure you I shall continue to do my best to preserve peace and promote the friendly relationships existing between our two countries."

The array of deputations seemed almost endless. The delegates represented organizations of every kind, and all brought with them illuminated addresses, while some of them conveyed handsome gifts to the Emperor despite his declaration that he did not wish money to be spent in this way, but that it should be devoted to philanthropy.

The most imposing testimonials were the endowment of $6,250,000 raised by the German municipalities for charitable and educational establishments and the national subscription of $950,000 devoted to German Christian missions, in which Catholics and Protestants participated, the Catholics raising $625,000 and the Protestants $325,000.

A Discordant Note.

A National Liberal Privy Councillor, Dr. Paasche, First Vice President of the Reichstag, in an article in the weekly Solanblatt, strikes a discordant note among jubilee articles. After paying a tribute to the Emperor's character and asserting that Germans areloyal Monarchists, he continues:

"The folk, however, regret deeply that the people and the Emperor do not come closer together. A military and courtly pomp, which shows the Emperor only as an Emperor in a glittering uniform, an environment mostly made up of the nobility, which the people feel, does not let them see the real Emperor, hinder the bridging over of this chasm.

"Yet another thing—we live in a constitutional land, but the representatives of the German folk, who consider that they decide upon the laws, standd as far from the Emperor as do the mass of the people. Twenty years ago the Emperor said: 'My door stands open to every one of my subjects.' But one may search the court reports in the press for decades and never read of an audience granted in the Imperial Castle to any leading representative of the German folk. The people justifiably feel this to be a slight."

STATE RATES UPHELD IN NEW DECISIONS

Supreme Court Disposes of "Missouri Cases" in Accord with Minnesota Finding.

THREE ROADS WIN VICTORY

Reduced Rates Confiscatory as to Them at Present—Railway Valuations Rejected as Inconclusive.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Su-Supreme Court to-day, before adjourning for the Summer, rendered decisions in the remaining twenty-two cases generally referred to, with the three cases from Minnesota decided last Monday, as the Missouri rate cases. To-day's opinions handed down by Associate Justice Hughes, as were those a week ago, were comparatively brief, and, as was expected, were in full accord with the principles laid down in the Minnesota decision.

The State laws of Missouri, Oregon, Arkansas, and West Virginia were upheld. In the case of three roads in Missouri, where the State rates manifestly would result in confiscation, those rates were suspended until the conditions of the roads should improve.

The decision in regard to these roads was analogous to the ruling last Monday in regard to the St. Louis & Minneapolis.

In all the suits brought to restrain the enforcement of State statutes or to restrain the imposition of rates fixed by State Railroad Commissioners, the grounds were either that in attempting to fix intra-State rates the States unconstitutionally interfered indirectly with the inter-State commerce or that the rates were confiscatory. No points differing from the contentions of the Minnesota roads were brought forward, and the court to-day did not add anything to its decision of last Monday sustaining the powers of the States over intra-State rates, even where indirect effect upon inter-State commerce arises, until Congress should exercise its constitutional powers.

As in the Minnesota cases, none of the cases to-day presented evidence upon which the Inter-State Commerce Commission had passed to show discrimination against points outside a State resulting from the rates fixed within the State. The Supreme Court will not decide what effect the findings of the Inter-State Commerce Commission have upon intra-State rates until, at the next term of the court, it passes upon the Shreveport case, in which the commission already has declared the rates fixed by the State of Texas discriminatory against certain shipping points in Louisiana.

Covered by Monday's Decision.

"We need not review the arugment addressed to conditions of transportation in Missouri," said the court to-day, in regard to the eighteen cases from that State, "and the relation of intra-State to inter-State rates, for, while the case has its special facts, by reason of the location of the State and the use of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers as basing points in ratemaking, the controlling question thus presented with reference to the authority of the State to prescribe reasonable intra-State rates throughout its territory, unless limited by the exercise on the part of Congress of its constitutional power over inter-State commerce and is instruments, is not to be distinguished in any material respect from that which was considered and decided in the Minnestota rate cases."

The most interesting point was developed in the decision of the eighteen cases from Missouri. That was in regard to what constitutes a fair valuation of railroads. To-day's decisions pressed home the opinion presented last Monday that evidence of a clear, definite, and detailed sort must be presented to show that the law of a State is confiscatory and therefore unconstitutional. As in the Minnesota cases, the valuations presented by the roads affected by to-day's decisions were declared too high. The exception of three of the roads from the statutory rates came not from any correct valuation of the property of these roads, but from the fact that they were so unprofitable already, regardless of their value, that any further reduction in their revenues would constitute evident confiscation.

The three roads that escape the Missouri rates are the St. Louis & Hannibal, operating 120.61 miles within the State, with a year's net revenue on that mileage from inter-State and intra-State business of $15,687.18; the Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield, operating 151.01 miles within the State, with a year's total net revenue on that mileage of $32,500.72, and the Chicago Great Western, operating 84.43 miles within the State, with a total net revenue upon that mileage for a test period of six months of $41,839.06.

The decision holding the rates confiscatory as to the Chicago Great Western was made to apply, by virtue of stipulation between the State and the railroads, to the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City Railroad and the St. Joseph & Grand Island Railway.

In these cases, as in all the others, the court disputed the findings of the court below as to the distribution of revenue between inter-State and intra-State business, according to gross revenue, and also the arbitrary addition of 50 per cent. to the cost of handling intra-State or short-haul freight, and 25 per cent. to the cost of intra-State or short-haul passenger traffic. But, in regard to the three roads mentioned, it was held that a correction of mistakes of this sort would not be enough to set aside the presumption of confiscaion.

Valuations Imperfect.

In discussing the confiscatory aspects of the cases under consideration, the court to-day, as on last Monday, almost went to the point of saying that, except in cases where, from overwhelming circumstances, confiscation is apparent, little short of a physical valuation of railroads would afford the needed evidence to sustain a plea of confiscation. In the Missouri cases, for instance, the roads based their valuation on the State assessment for taxation, multiplied by three, save in one or two cases, where for particular reasons the multiplication was by two. It appears that taxes in Missouri are levied on one-third the value, and that explains the multiplication.

This valuation, made apparently in accordance with local custom, the court to-day threw out as wholly inadequate and uninforming. The court pointed out that the assessing officers had not been questioned, and that the basis of their assessment, except in the most general terms, had not been inquired into.

These objections to all estimates of value are of particular interest just now, when the Inter-State Commerce Commission is undertaking the task of ascertaining the real value of railroads. It is suggested that the results of the commission's work may prove of great assistance to the railroads in future pleading of confiscation.

The court to-day made plain what was implied in last week's opinion—that establishment of the plea of confiscation by one road against a State's rates does not set aside those rates as applied to other roads. Thus the Minnesota rates were set aside as to the St. Louis & Minneapolis, and upheld in the other two cases. What the court said on this point to-day follows:

> The contention raised by the complainants that these legislative acts cannot be forced against one company unless forced against them all cannot be sustained. The argument, in effect, is that, although the charges of carriers may be clearly exorbitant, the State is powerless to compel them to put into effect reasonable rates because, as to another carrier differently situated, the rates thus prescribed might be unreasonably low. The acts are valid upon their face, a proper exercise of governmental authority in the establishment of reasonable rates, aand each complainant, in order to succeed in assailing them, must show that as to it the rates are confiscatory.

The railroads concerned in these Missouri cases were the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the St. Louis & San Francisco, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Kansas City Southern, the St. Louis & Hannibal, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield and the Chicago Great Western.

Cases from Other States.

The five cases from Oregon, Arkansas and West Virginia involved no new points. The Oregon rates were assailed by the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company and by the Southern Pacific. Demurrers in the court below were sustained and the Supreme Court to-day confirmed the lower court.

In Arkansas, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern and the St. Louis Southwestern sought to restrain the two-cent passenger law of 1907 and maximum freight rates established by the State Railway Commission in 1908. The points as to interference with Inter-State commerce were identical with similar points raised in the Minnesota cases, and there was not enough evidence of confiscation to be seriously considered by the Supreme Court.

In West Virginia, the Chesapeake & Ohio sought to overthrow the two-cent passenger rate, basing its contention wholly upon constitutional grounds of interference with inter-State commerce. The Supreme Court decision of last Monday applied. There was no contention of confiscation.

On the subject of railroad valuation to-day's opinion, as handed down by Justice Hughes, said in part, after rejecting the State assessments as a basis of valuation:

> It is urged that there was other evidence in support of the conclusions reached. The court below, while finding values equal to those estimated by the State Assessing Board, also found that apart from the valuations of the State board and upon the whole evidence the property was at least worth the amounts mentioned in the findings. It was said that there had been considered "the immense terminal values of most of the roads, the amount of stock and bonds outstanding, what it would cost to duplicate the properties, both with and without terminals in the large cities, and all the evidence bearing upon present values."

Evidence Too General.

> On examining the evidence, however, we find it to be too general and inconclusive to be regarded as sufficient proof to sustain the values as found. Undoubtedly, the companies possessed valuable terminals, but what the values were was not suitably shown. There is an absence of evidence appropriately specific dealing with the lands, improvements, structures, equipment and other property owned by each company and showing what the various items of property were worth.
> It would seem manifest, from the character of the evidence which can be supposed to have relation to value, that reliance was principally placed upon the estimates of the State Assessing Board. There was proof of the amount of stocks and bonds, of earnings, and also testimony as to the cost of certain recent construction, but, while these matters could properly be considered in reaching a conclusion, we fail to find any adequate basis for the definite findings of value that have been made. It is clear that testimony of this general character cannot be deemed sufficient to support a finding of confiscation or to justify the annulment of the Legislative acts of the State.
> In the case of the Chicago Burlington & Quincy Company the value of the property in the State of Missouri was fixed at $53,172,907.83. This amount, as stated in the exhibit of computations submitted by the company to the court, was precisely three times "the assessment for 1908," ($17,724,302.61,) the assessment being made upon the basis of one-third of the board's estimate.
> The court found that the mileage in Missouri was 1,136.34, and that the value as fixed amounted to $46,793 a mile. If this valuation were extended to the mileage of the entire system it would mean that, for the purpose of determining the validity of prescribed rates and the issue of confiscation, the Burlington property as a whole should be regarded as worth over $400,000,000.

More Than Total Capitalization.

> According to the evidence, as stated in the brief of counsel for the company, the actual bonded indebtedness of the company at the time in question was $174,172,000, and its stock, $110,839,100, making a total of $285,011,100. In short, the contention would be, on this basis of valuation extended to the system, that, unless the Burlington were permitted to calculate its fair return upon an amount exceeding by more than $115,000,000 its total capitalization, it would be deprived of its property without due process of law.
> Manifestly, a finding of confiscation could not be based ono such a valuation in the absence of clear and convincing proof that the value actually existed and that the different items of property were estimated respectively by correct methods and in accordance with proper criteria of value. This proof was lacking.
> In the case of the other roads, although the special considerations which have been mentioned with respect to the Burlington property may not be applicable, still we are left in uncertainty as to the correctness of specific valuations which have been made. It cannot be regarded as sufficient to introduce assessments or valuations made for the purposes of taxation; and this is particularly true when the principles governing the assessments are not properly shown, and, for all that appears, they may have rested upon methods of appraisement which would be inadmissible in ascertaining the reasonable value of the property as a basis for charges to the public.

The Kentucky case was not decided. It involves an attack upon State rates from river points to inland distillery cities and involves in addition an attack on the constitutionality of the form of the McChord act, enabling the State Railroad Commission to fix reasonable rates on intra-State commerce.

ADJOURNS UNTIL OCTOBER.

Supreme Court Withholds Inter-Mountain Rate Decision.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Supreme Court, at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon, adjourned until October without announcing a decision in the inter-mountain rate cases or passing upon the application for a review of the Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison contempt of court case. Applications for rehearings of the cut rate patent decision and the Denver water case were denied.

The "Civil Rights act" of 1875, held unconstitutional as to the States many years ago, was to-day declared by the Supreme Court to be likewise null and void as to the Territories, the District of Columbia, the navigable waters of the United States and the sea. The point was decided in the case of Mary F. Butts, a negress of Everett, Mass., who sued the Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company for damages, under the law, because she was required to sit at a second table and use soiled linen on a trip from Boston to Norfolk, although she held a first-class ticket.

The Supreme Court decided that the Federal Government was not financially responsible for the flooding of plantations on the Mississippi as the result of levee construction. Efforts were made to hold the Government responsible for the value of the lands flooded, in all about $7,000,000, involving more than 100 plantations.

Because of a provision in the law arbitrarily fixing $500 damages for each violation, the Supreme Court to-day annulled as unconstitutional the Kansas statute of 1905 which fixed the maximum rates for the transportation of oil by rail. The objectionable clause was held to prevent railroads from testing whether the rates were confiscatory.

The Supreme Court to-day annulled as unconstitutional the Omaha ordinance of 1908 directing the city electrician to disconnect wires of the Omaha Electric Light and Power Company. The dispute was one over franchises.

COUNTRY TO DECIDE ON MONEY REFORM

WILSON EXPECTS APPROVAL

His Message Ready—Not a One-Man Bill—Harmony of Purpose, but Not of Opinion, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Wilson completed to-day the drafting of his message to Congress recommending the enactment of banking and currency legislation this session. It contains about 1,400 words and was written by the President himself on his own typewriter. The message was then handed to Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department, who went over it to-night, and will be read in the Cabinet meeting to-morrow morning.

It is the purpose of the President to read this, his second message, to Congress, at a joint session of the Senate and House, following the century-old precedent which he revived. The message will probably be read to Congress not later than Monday, June 23, and perhaps some time this week. At present more than half the members of the House are absent on leave. Under the unanimous consent agreement reached some time ago, the House was to transact no important business before June 23. If the message were read before next week half the House membership would be absent.

The President had a conference today with Representative Oscar W. Underwood, floor leader of the House Democrats, and acquainted him with his plans respecting the reading of the message.

Final touches were made to-day to the Currency bill. Senator Owen, Chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, and Representative Glass, Chairman of the corresponding House committee, were in conference practically all afternoon, going over the bill as outlined in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning. Its text will probably be made public within a few days.

Public opinion, the sovereign voice in lawmaking, is to decide whether there shall be currency legislation in the present session of Congress. This was the view which Representative Oscar Underwood, the Democratic leader in the House, took after seeing President Wilson.

In the face of conflicting expressions from prominent Democrats in Congress as to the necessity for immediate currency bill in the House and Senate. Then, according to Mr. Underwood, the plan of the House will be to rest on its oars, thoroughly discuss the new banking proposals, and await the expression of the newspapers of the country and the opinon of bankers and business men generally as to the merits of the Democratic proposals. Should the discussion of the bill in Congress be backed up by an insistent demand from the country at large for an immediate revision of the currency system, it is the belief of the Administration that Senators and Congressmen will yield their pleas of personal discomfort in the approaching hot weather.

The President believes strongly that the country will back him in his view that the currency system ought to be reformed so as to alleviate any stringency that might follow the passage of the tariff bill.

Representative Underwood, after his conference with the President, said that, while the Democratic Party had made up its mind what ought to be done on the tariff, currency reform was practically a new question, and it would be impossible to predict how long the House would take for a discussion of the bill. It would take some time, he added, 'for members to hear from their home communities. He would not venture a guess as to whether approval or disapproval of the bill could be reached in a month or longer, and took the position that the currency situation could only be solved by the attitude which the nation revealed when the bill was debated thoroughly.

The Currency bill to be launched represents the Administration's views, and, according to Mr. Wilson himself, will be "no man's bill," but the result of common counsel among currency advocates.

At the regular semi-weekly conference with the Washington correspondents today the President was asked for an explanation of some of the principles of currency reform, but said that inasmuch as the bill and his own message would be made public within a week, he would refrain from comment at this time.

The President admitted that there were essential differences of view among the leading Democrats with whom he had consulted concerning currency reform. Harmony of purpose but perhaps not harmony of opinion is the way the White House sizes up the currency situation. With the feeling that the framers of the bill have been walking on sound ground the President and Democratic leaders hope to reconcile differences so that there will be party agreement eventually. There is no disposition to regard the currency bill as it is launched as the final word of the Administration on the subject.

Mr. Underwood said to-day that so far as he was concerned there was no idea of bringing up the currency question at the House Democratic caucus June 25.

Representative Henry of Texas, who is prepared to fight asset currency, has no present intention of bringing up the question at the caucus, but reserves judgment as to what course he will pursue. He has made it plain to his colleagues, however, that he has not taken issue with President Wilson, but is unalterably opposed to any currency plan that contemplates abolition of the Government function of issuing currency.

Political Science College Quits.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—George Washington University has lost its college of political science, various prominent patrons of the institution having declined to continue their support on the ground that the university has failed to comply with the original conditions. The college was founded in 1907 to train men for the public service.

VICK GETS DOMINICAN POST.

New Jersey Man Named for Receiver of Customs There.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Walker W. Vick of Burlington, N. J., prominently identified with President Wilson's campaign, was appointed General Receiver of Customs at Santo Domingo to-day.

This office carries a salary of $6,500 a year. It is provided for by treaty arrangement between the United States and Santo Domingo and the President of the United States has the right to name the Collector. Mr. Vick will be required to live in Santo Domingo.

Mr. Vick is Assistant Secretary of the Democratic National Committee, and was Secretary of the Inaugural Committee that had charge of the arrangements for the inauguration of President Wilson. He is a native of North Carolina, and practices law in New York. When Woodrow Wilson was a candidate for Governor of New Jersey Mr. Vick took charge of his political interests in Bergen County. The county was carried by the Democrats. Mr. Vick then became active in the effort to nominate Gov. Wilson for the Presidency and managed the Wilson preconvention campaign in the tier of south Atlantic States from North Carolina to Florida, inclusive. In the Presidential campaign he was in charge of the New York headquarters of the Democratic National Committee.

The report of Walter W. Vick's appointment as Customs Receiver at San Domingo had a favorable effect on the bonds and other financial interests of that republic in Wall Street. Mr. Vick gained a wide reputation for his business efficiency through the way in which he handled the funds of the Democratic National Committee. The post to which he has been appointed is one of the most important in the gift of the Administration, because all the fiscal affairs of San Domingo come under the supervision of the Receiver General. He will have charge of ten Custom Houses, the Haitian border interests, and the $20,000,000 bond issue floated recently.

WANT REPUBLICAN PARLEY.

Progressive Wing Meets Again—Insists on Early Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A committee representing the progressive wing of the Republican Party, which held a meeting in Chicago in the Spring to arrange plans for party harmony, is in session here discussing ways and means of holding a national convention for reorganizing the party. This committee consists of ex-Gov. Hadley of Missouri, Senators Cummins of Iowa, Crawford of South Dakota, and Jones of Washington, and Representatives Anderson of Minnesota, Crampton of Michigan, and Rogers of Massachusetts.

The committee opposes the plan for calling the Republican National Committee sixty days after the adjournment of Congress to consider the holding of a national coonvention. It is afraid that Congress will remain in session so long that there will be no likelihood of the convention being held this year even if decided upon.

The progressive Republicans believe that the convention should be held this Fall. It is probable that they will issue an address explaining their position, to be followed by an active publicity campaign to create a demand among Republicans for calling the National Convention as soon as possible.

Senator Cummins said to-day that things were looking favorable for holding an early convention.

ALASKA RAILROAD BILL.

President Approves New Plan for Building Federal Lines.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Wilson to-day gave his approval to a plan for immediate legislation authorizing the construction of Government railroads in Alaska. In a conference with Senator Pittman, Chairman of the Senate Territories Committee, the President gave his sanction to a bill agreed upon by the committee earlier in the day.

The revised Alaskan bill leavs the entire control of constructive work to the President. The committee to-day eliminated the provision for a special commission to construct the roads, and also the provision which would have authorized the Government to develop and control the coal fields. A bond issue of $40,000,000 is provided and the bill requires the use of Panama Canal machinery in the construction work.

NELLIE BLY LOSES.

Supreme Court Refuses to Interfere in Her Financial Litigation.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Seaman, who won fame years ago by circling the globe in eighty days under her newspaper name of Nellie Bly, lost her suit in the Supreme Court to-day to require Judge Chatfield, instead of Judge Mayer, to proceed in the New York Federal courts to consider her financial entanglements.

Judge Chatfield had annqunced an opinion that the assets of one corporation largely owned by Mrs. Seaman should not be taken to satisfy the debts of another corporation she controlled, when the case was transferred to Judge Mayer upon the filing of an affidavit alleging that Judge Chatfield was biased.

POST OPEN TO McCOMBS.

Wilson Still Holds Paris Embassy for Democratic Chairman.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Wilson is still holding open the Ambassadorship to France for William F. McCombs, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Within the last few days President Wilson cabled Mr. McCombs inquiring whether, after his sojourn in France, he had changed his mind about taking the Paris Embassy. No reply has been received.

OXNARD PLANS BIG FREE SUGAR TRUST

NEW TRUST WOULD BE LEGAL

Beet Sugar Association Books All Destroyed After $500,000 Fight —$15,000,000 Watered Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Henry T. Oxnard, President of the American Beet Sugar Company and regarded as the head and front of the beet sugar interests in this country, to-day told the Senate Lobby Committee that if raw sugar were placed on the free list, as provided for in the Underwood bill, only the best managed sugar factories would survive and that "the biggest trust in domestic sugar ever organized in this country" would result. To a question by Senator Reed Mr. Oxnard replied that he himself had in mind the formation of a new sugar trust, but one not organized in violation of law. About 40 per cent. of the country's sugar-growing interests would be represented, he said, and he had been advised by counsel that the organization would not be unlawful.

Mr. Oxnard said that the books of the American Beet Sugar Association, which comprised nearly all the producers of beet sugar, had been destroyed. He had told W. J. Pardoner, Treasurer of the association, to destroy them, as they were useless. To a question as to whether it was his custom to destroy his books, Mr. Oxnard answered that many private books and much private correspondence were destroyed.

"We don't have any books now," he said.

In response to questions designed to show that $50,000 had been contributed by Mr. Oxnard and his organizations toward the expenses of the propaganda against free sugar at this time, Mr. Oxnard denied that such a large amount had been given. He suggested $10,000 as the correct amount, but promised to produce more accurate information.

Mr. Oxnard denied also that the $10,000 salary he received was paid to him for legislative work. He said he did not know how much the American Beet Sugar Association had spent, as the books had been destroyed two years ago. These books, he declared, were so poorly kept as to be practically worthless. No books had been kept since these were destroyed.

The witness said that in the last twenty years the American Beet Sugar Association had expended about $5,000,000 in its fight against free sugar.

Mr. Oxnard told how New York bankers who helped to organize the American Beet Sugar Company had insisted upon putting about $15,000,000 "water" into that $20,000,000 corporation, and how he and his brothers had made about $1,000,000 by the sale of much of their share of this watered stock.

The witness testified that the company was organized with $5,000,000 preferred and $15,000,000 common stock. He declared the latter was "water," now represented, however, by plants and betterments. Bankers took $4,000,000 preferred and got $5,000,000 common as a "profit."

"Don't you think you did a great moral wrong in putting all this water in the common stock?" asked Senator Nelson.

"You know Wall Street's conscience," returned Oxnard.

The committee got a surprise to-day when A. Y. More, owner of The Fargo (North Dakota) Courier-News, and A. M. Baker, general manager of that paper, gave their testimony about an editorial recently printed in The News, which Senator Gronna thought was a reflection upon him and which led to their being subpoenaed. Both men made the long trip to Washington in answer to the Senate summons, and then declared under oath that they knew nothing of the editorial until they saw it in print. It was written, they said, by James A. Metcalfe of Glendive, Mon., temporarily employed while Baker was away from Fargo. Both More and Baker said that they had no reason to doubt Senator Gronna's political and private integrity and honesty, and More said that a retraction might be printed. Metcalfe had written the editorial, they thought, merely in a flippant way.

Another witness was Hiram Gove of Denver, employed at $5,000 a year by the Great Western Sugar Company, who said he had given up the last eight years to a study of the economic side of sugar and to convincing Congressmen of the soundness of his views for a duty on that article. He had not talked with many Senators, he said, but he remembered a dinner with Senator Bristow, at which he had tried to convince the Senator of the necessity of the "Dutch standard" in sugar. Instead of convincing Mr. Bristow, he explained, he came away convinced that the Dutch standard was unnecessary.

Harry A. Austin, employed by Truman G. Palmer, the Washington representative of the United States beet industry, was the last witness. The committee spent nearly two hours in an attempt to find out just what happened to "Sugar at a Glance" after the Senate ordered much of the material in it printed as a public document and its actual appearance in pamphlet form. They endeavored to find out what he knew about an alleged order of the Senate regarding the printing of the pamphlet, which does not appear in Senate records, but is printed on the title page of "Sugar at a Gdance." The best information Austin could give was that this alleged order, which has aroused the indignation of the committee, must have appeared in proofs received at Palmer's office from the Government Printing Office. Officials of that office already have explained to the committee that they knew nothing about this order, but they have not been put on the stand. They probably will be heard later.

PLANNING CANAL OPERATION

Goethals Is Drafting Recommendations as to Permanent Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Secretary Garrison and Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama Canal, have taken up the question of the government of the Canal Zone after the formal opening of the canal in January, 1915.

Until then the canal will be controlled by the army engineers under a provisional government practically the same as that now maintained. The canal will be in use more than a year before the formal opening, and the present form of government will, therefore, be retained for that period.

Without indicating his own ideas, but with full confidence in Col. Goethals, Secretary Garrison has asked the latter to submit his ideas about the permanent government of the canal, and Col. Goethals has taken an office in the general offices of the Canal Commission here temporarily to formulate his recommendations.

One matter that presses for consideration is the adjustment of the Panama Railroad with its steamships to the new conditions that will follow the opening of the canal. It is expected that the railroad will lose some traffic, but it will still do a large business. Two of the steamships owned by the railroad company are to be turned over to the navy, and later it is expected that the other steamships will be disposed of.

TWO WOMEN CLAIM ESTATE.

Juanita Miller Says She Is the One Referred to in Probasco Will.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 16.—Miss Juanita E. Miller of this city is a second claimant for the $60,000 estate left by William Probasco, a nonogenarian, who died here in September last. She says that she was married to him by what she calls a Quaker ceremony. She says that Probasco himself pronounced the words of this ceremony.

Miss Janet L. Stout of Jersey City said yesterday that she had been married to Probasco.

Miss Miller is a daughter of Mrs. Alice Rowland Miller of 703½ Fourth Avenue, which is the rear of the Probasco house. She lays claim to the estate on the ground that it was she and not Miss Stout who was referred to in the will as his "beloved wife."

Miss Miller, who is a trained nurse, 25 years old, is now visiting a sister in Cody, Wyo. Her sister, Mrs. Edward Brand of 407 Third Avenue, this city, is in charge of her case. She has written to her, inclosing what Mrs. Brand says is a written proposal of marriage and other documents to prove that Probasco acknowledged her after the Quaker ceremony as his wife.

Mrs. Miller, the young woman's mother, who was with Probasco when he died on Sept. 1, 1912, says that there can be no doubt that her daughter is the person referred to in the will. Two weeks before the old man's death, she says, he told her that she and her daughter had been well provided for in the will.

FRIENDS OF HAMILTON MANY

They Hear from His Mother, Lady Pinero—Burial Here To-morrow.

The funeral of Angus Hamilton, war correspondent, author, and lecturer, who killed himself on Saturday morning at the Hotel St. Louis, will be held at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the Funeral Church, 241 West Twenty-third Street. The Rev. Dr. James B. Wasson of the Church of the Strangers will conduct the services. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery in East New York.

The body was taken from the Morgue on Sunday by Richard Harding Davis and Gouverneur Morris, two of his friends, and was removed to an undertaker's establishment. Cable dispatches were sent to Mr. Hamilton's mother, Lady Pinero, wife of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, the playwright, in England, by Mr. Davis and by Herbert Parsons. A letter directed to Mr. Parsons was left by Mr. Hamilton when he ended his life.

Late yesterday word was received by Mr. Davis that the New York representative of the Central News, Limited, of London, a news association with which Mr. Hamilton was at one time connected, would take charge of the funeral. A cablegram had been received from Lady Pinero asking that arrangements be made for the funeral and interment in America.

Mr. Hamilton had no relatives in this country, but he had made many friends, and a number of them will attend the funeral. None of Mr. Hamilton's friends had had any idea that he was in financial difficulty as a result of the failure of his lecture tour, Mr. Davis said last evening.

Ferndale Burned; Children Missing.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 16.—The entire business section of Ferndale, three miles south of Liberty, was wiped out by fire this evening. The fire was started by the explosion of an oil stove in a grocery store. Loss, $150,000; insurance, $60,000. Two children are missing, and it is feared they were caught in the flames.

Kills Himself in His Store by Gas.

Joseph Levene, aged 60 years, was found dead yesterday morning on a table in his dry goods store at 5 Walker Street, a gas tube in his mouth. He had been suffering from melancholia, due to the death of a favorite sister six months ago, and had lately entertained fears for his own health. Levene's father celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday yesterday, and the dead man had promised to be present.

OUTBREAK FEARED ON CABIN CREEK

Miners Charge That Operators Have Broken Pledge and New Strike May Start.

HEAD DETECTIVE ON STAND

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, June 16.—A report that a strike had started in the upper part of Cabin Creek reached here to-night and disturbed the Senatorial investigators, but a group of miners who came from that region denied the story emphatically. They said many miners had been discharged for joining the union, and mass meetings were being held, but no strike was sought. The miners look to Gov. Hatfield to enforce the agreement with the operators, and if he fails to do so a strike may follow.

"The local union of the United Mine Workers of America has not called a new strike on Paint and Cabin Creeks," said Thomas Haggerty, a member of the International Miners' Board, to-night. "But we cannot be sure of the men who are working up in the field," he said. "The operators have not lived up to the agreement under which the men went back to work. We have tried to prevent a further strike, but I am convinced that the miners up there have decided not to continue to work under present conditions. Meetings were held in the Creeks yesterday, and the men expressed dissatisfaction with conditions. If they decide to strike the union cannot control them."

A committee of miners from Cabin Creek came to Charleston to-day to urge the United Mine Workers officials to call a general strike. They bore the instructions of a mass meeting held in the hills yesterday.

The testimony presented to the Senate committee to-day was largely routine and cumulative. Thomas L. Feltz, Vice President of the Baldwin-Feltz Detective Agency, which supplied the mine guards during the strike, was the principal witness.

Mr. Feltz told the committee that when the trouble was at its height on Paint and Cabin Creeks his company had 110 armed men on Cabin Creek and about thirty-five men on Paint Creek. He also said that his company had from six to ten men working in the strike district as "secret service operatives." These men, he said, furnished information to the operators and his agency.

"Did your men make a list of those men who were organizers for the United Mine Workers and those men who were active in the union?" asked Seymour Stedman, attorney for the miners.

"Yes," said the witness.

"One of the objects of your organization," asked Mr. Stedman, "when it is employed, is to prevent the organization of branches of the United Mine Workers?"

"Yes, that is one of our objects," said Mr. Feltz.

"Was that one of the objects of your men in this field?"

"Yes, that was one of the objects of our employment on Cabin Creek."

Senator Kenyon ascertained from Mr. Feltz that men were employed "to join the unions to find out what was going on" in order to carry out the purpose of preventing union organization.

Senator Martine was interested in the character of men employed as guards, and questioned the detective as to the instructions issued to the men he hired.

"When it was a question of whether a man possessed physical courage or moral courage, which way did you deside?" asked Senator Martine.

Mr. Feltz was not quite sure and the Senator asked rather impatiently:

"When a man came to you for a place, and it was a question as to whether he could shoot well or pray well, which did you choose?"

With a smile the detective replied:

"Well, I think to shoot well would be the qualification needed in a controversy such as there was in the Creeks."

Mr. Feltz told the committee his company received something over $500 a day for the services of its men on the Creeks.

Scores of witnesses testified that the principal trouble in the strike district was caused by the conduct of the guards.

Before the operators began their case to-night Senator Swanson warned the attorneys that advices from Washington indicated that the committee would be forced to leave Charleston on Wednesday, and urged that they endeavor to put on their principal witnesses as soon as possible. The attorneys urged that the committee plan to return to Charleston if the trip to Washington was necessary, but the committee reached no decision.

Lee Calvin, the ex-mine guard who described the armored train's trip to Holly Grove, was recalled for cross-examination by counsel for the operators.

"Did you say to Quinn Morton, the mine operator, after the train passed Holly Grove, 'Didn't we give them hell?'" asked Attorney Knight.

"No, I never said anything like that," said the witness.

He denied that he had been employed as a detective by the United Mine Workers of America.

Elizabeth Fish, a pretty mountain girl, said she and May Claypool, in company with another girl, were met by nine mine guards, ho ordered them to wade the creek, enforcing their order by their guns. One of the girls tried to remove her shoes and stockings before entering the water; which at that point was waist deep.

"She got one shoe off," said the girl, "when the guards told her she was 'too darn slow' and drove her into the water."

W. H. Adkins said he saw a group of guards climb the hill above Holly Grove on the morning of Feb. 8, and a few minutes later, he said, shots were fired into the miners' tents. Under cross-examination Adkins admitted that he had a gun and was arrested with it in his possession.

DEFENDS JAPANESE SISTERS

Miss Tsuda Says They Are Misrepresented—Here on a Visit.

Umeko Tsuda, the "Americanized Japanese woman," as she is known in Japan, has come to this city on a visit. She is the guest of her old student, Mrs. Okamoto, at 440 Riverside Drive. Miss Tsuda is the President of the Japanese Young Women's Christian Association, which she represented at the conferences of the International Y. W. C. A. held lately at Lake Mohonk. She is the founder and President of Miss Tsuda's College for Girls in Tokio.

Miss Tsuda was educated in this country. She is one of five Japanese girls who were sent here in 1851 to obtain their education. They were the first to be sent. She was the youngest of the five, being only 6 years old at the time. She received her elementary education in Washington, D. C., and later was graduated from Bryn Mawr College.

"I am very sorry that our women are so misunderstood by some Americans," said Miss Tsuda. "To some Americans, if I can judge from their writings, Japanese women are meek little things without any high ideals. I know how these Americans got such a poor opinion of our women. They met women of the lower order and they thought that they represented all Japanese women. If these Americans really knew Japan they would have different ideas.

"Our women are of strong personality. They do not talk much, nor do they dress so conspicuously as some of their Western sisters, but they think more than many of these Western sisters and dress more gracefully.

"Of course, everybody knows that the kimonos that one sees in this country are not really Japanese kimonos. They are fashioned to meet the American taste. Japanese women wear nothing of the kind. I dare to say that women of no country have a more refined or stronger personality than the Japanese women.

"It is very difficult to obtain the entrée to the best homes in any country, and especially so in Japan. If you hear Americans who have made a tour in Japan say that Japanese women are coarse or that Japanese women have no high ideals of womanhood, you are not mistaken when you think that these persons have met only girls at tea houses. They were not admitted to the good Japanese homes. There they would see the best types of Japanese womanhood."

BRINGS STRANGE CREATURES

Iguanas, Who Like Whistling, with Mr. Schmidt from Colombia.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday on the Albingia from the West Indies and Central America, was J. J. Schmidt, who has been living in the wilds of Colombia, he said, for the last five months, collecting reptiles and birds. He brought with him six boa constrictors, the biggest being twelve feet long; four iguanas, twelve macaws, 100 monkeys, and 1,000 parakeets.

The iguana, Mr. Schmidt said, was very fond of whistling. "Sometimes," he said, "when I was alone in the Colombian forests I would whistle a bar or so of a popular air to cheer myself up a bit, and within a few minutes there would be a dozen or so iguanas 6 feet tall walking toward me on their curved hind feet. The iguana is not sociable beyond his enjoyment of whistling.

"I had to live on iguana for several weeks. The meat tastes like chicken." After a few minutes' deliberation, Mr. Schmidt added that he preferred chicken.

WM. G. WHITE SHIRTMAKER

Thousand-pleat Shirts for dress or business $2.75

The thousand-pleat as I make it is no relation, not even a cousin, to the Shirt of the same name elsewhere. Mine is a "pedigree" shirt with the "blue blood" of expert knowledge behind it.

In white, for evening dress—a soft, yielding, "comfy" shirt that looks the part—every inch.

The workmanship and finish of every "White" thousand-pleat is the final word of high-class shirt production.

Playing a Part Which Was Written for Them

THERE is more than the keen edge of witty description about the cut of Weber and Heilbroner clothes.

They were not ironed into metropolitan shape by the irony of words.

There is a very serious side to their smartness—a distinct aim and singleness of purpose which we believe does not apply to any other ready-to-wear clothes.

They are playing a part written expressly for them.

The cutters who cut them and the tailors who tailor them have their eyes on the work of a few justly celebrated tailors of this city.

Our peculiar success is in presenting, at $20 to $40, ready-made clothes so nearly like these that they answer the same purpose.

They are made to meet the exact demands of New York—the most discriminating market in the world.

Saks Flannel Trousers

¶ We specialize on flannel trousers, plain and striped, at $4.50, even though making them at higher prices, too; and, of course, you can buy flannel trousers elsewhere even lower than that.

¶ We ourselves bought a pair of lower-priced flannel trousers recently, in order to see whether we were quite as superior as we like to think we are.

¶ And we discovered that we are superior to a degree which we had not hitherto suspected.

¶ It seemed good after that to take hold of a pair of Saks flannel trousers and dote on the excellence of the tailoring and finish.

¶ There is teamwork in them—they have dash and finish and style and a perfect lay of the course from hip to heel!

¶ And the man who wants a perfect pair of white or striped flannel trousers does not need to pay more than we ask, and cannot afford to pay less.

QUEEN MARY TRIES TO GET A BARGAIN

OFFERS THEM AS A GIFT

Queen Refuses It, and Finally Consents to Pay the $750 Demanded for Stafford House Treasures.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—That Queens and Duchesses are not above taking delight in a good piece of business was shown by a recent incident at Stafford House.

Queen Mary invited herself to take tea with the Duchess of Sutherland there, principally with the object of looking over the furniture and bric-à-brac, which are to be sold, as Sir William Lever has taken a lease of the historic mansion.

The Queen is an amateur collector of old English furniture and possesses a nice collection of Chippendale. While looking around she noticed two Chippendale chairs, which she considered would make a handsome addition to her collection. Her Majesty asked the Duchess the price. Her Grace said the reserve was £150, ($750,) and that her Majesty was welcome to them at that figure.

"Oh! A hundred is as much as I want to spend," said the Queen.

"I am sorry," said the Duchess. "I can't go below the reserve."

Her Majesty dropped the subject for a time and looked at other articles. Just before her departure she said to the Duchess: "I would like to have those chairs. Can't you really let me have them at a hundred?"

"I am sorry, Ma'am," replied the Duchess. "I cannot sell below the reserve price. If your Majesty would accept them as a gift—"

"Oh, no, I couldn't think of it," said the Queen. "Well, if you can't sell for less, I'll send you a check for £150."

Thus two chairs were added to the Queen's collection of Chippendale. The auctioneers, who are now removing all the furniture and other objects from Stafford House for the sale, consider that the Queen made a good bargain.

COULDN'T RETURN CHEERS.

Evans Tells Why the Terra Nova Remained Silent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Mrs. Evans, widow of Petty Officer Evans, who was the first member of the Scott expedition to die, and Miss Woods, a cousin of Capt. Oates, another of the victims, were present at a reception given to the officers and crew of the Terra Nova, the Scott expedition's vessel, by the Lord Mayor of Cardiff to-day at the Cardiff Exchange.

Commander Evans, replying to a speech of welcome, said the reason the officers of the Terra Nova did not return the cheers with which they were greeted on Saturday was that they had two noble women aboard—Lady Scott and Mrs. Wilson. He added:

"We could not cheer. Our respect for them was too great."

BUYER OF FAMOUS ROMNEY.

Lord Michelham Said to be Purchaser of Work Sold for $206,850.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns on good authority that Romney's portrait of Lady de la Pole, sold to Duveen Brothers at Christie's last Friday for the record sum of $206,850, is not going to America.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Inquiries made by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent show that Frederick Townsend Martin was somewhat mixed in his facts when he stated that there had been tango dancing at Sunderland House, the London residence of the Duchess of Marlborough.

The Duchess has not given any tango party, but Mrs. John Astor has given such a party.

DENIES GRAVES'S STORY.

Ackland Says the Spy Never Had an Interview with Grey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Speaking in behalf of the Foreign Office, Francis D. Ackland, Under-Secretary, repudiated in the House of Commons to-night all knowledge of the spy, Karl Graves. He said that the statement which Graves made in New York that he had had an interview with Sir Edward Grey was "quite untrue."

AERONAUTS FALL INTO SEA.

Tug Picks Up French Balloonists Near the Isle of Wight.

LONDON, June 16.—Emile Dubonnet and Welby Jourdan, aeronauts, who were participating in a long-distance balloon race from Paris, were picked up to-day by a tug twenty-two miles south of Ventnor, Isle of Wight.

They were clinging to the wreckage of their balloon, which had collapsed.

Steamer Rams a Car Ferry.

SWINEMUENDE, June 16.—The Greek steamer Menelaus to-day rammed the car ferry while it was conveying a train loaded with passengers from Swinemünde across the Swine to the opposite landing place, a half hour's trip. Although the side of the ferry was crashed in, the skipper managed to beach the vessel in time to save the passengers.

TRIBUTES TO E. D. MOREL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—The final meeting of the Congo Reform Association to-day was attended by a representative gathering, including Sir Gilbert Parker, Sir A. Conan Doyle, Anthony Hope, John Galsworthy, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Winchester, many Members of Parliament, the Earl of Cromer, Lord Channing, and the Earl of Mayo, while others equally prominent sent cordial letters.

The meeting was a great national tribute to E. D. Morel, who has given many years of his life to the freeing of the Congo from the slavery scandals. The Earl of Aberdeen sent a telegram declaring that Mr. Morel had earned a notable place in the true roll of fame.

Speeches by the Bishop of Winchester, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and Sir Henry Johnson were full of praise for Mr. Morel, who was too much moved adequately to express his appreciation. He declared that the Congo atrocities had disappeared with the cause of them; that a native of the Congo was once more a free man, who could gather the products of the soil and dispose of them; that the rubber tax had been abolished, and freedom of trade introduced; that the concessionary companies had been annulled or their powers destroyed, and that the Congo was now African territory administered on normal lines.

In the crusade, said Mr. Morel, they had forced the doors of six of the world's legislatures. "What all Europe should have taken in hand," he said, "and what it was the duty of all Europe to take in hand, this association, rising as a small cloud on the horizon of a tyrant's will and gathering into a tornado which swept him from his African throne, has in large measure been able to accomplish. We have struck a blow for human justice which cannot and will not pass away."

DENIES HE'S A HYPOCRITE.

Ex-Member of Parliament, Named in Divorce, Answers Critic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Eliot Crawshaw Williams, the Liberal Member of Parliament who resigned his seat when he was named as co-respondent in the divorce suit of a fellow-member, has sent a remarkable letter on Public life and private morality to The Leicester Mail, which criticised his action in resigning his seat, with the suggestion that he had proved himself guilty of hypocrisy in his past political actions.

"With a strange confusion of thought," he writes, "you seem to think that because I find myself involved in a divorce case I therefore am a hypocrite because I denounced the laws which enable men to extract personal profit from public misery. I have done so, and I hope I shall do so again.

"Whenever I see one man exploiting others to their detriment, and for his own private gain, be he monopolist, white slaver, yellow press magnate, or anyone else, I shall denounce the law which enables him to do so. But to say that I ever presumed to interfere in the matter of a man's domestic concerns, or even that I censured the personal morality of those who do what the law allows them to do, is utterly false, and I defy any man to produce proof that I have done so.

"As a politician I have been concerned not with individual rectitude, but with national legislation, and, in my opinion, the latter and not the former constitutes the sphere of politics."

MARQUIS WHO KNITTED DEAD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—The Marquis of Northampton, who died suddenly at Acqui, Italy, yesterday, aged 62, was a talented musician and the possessor of a magnificent voice. He was also a firm advocate of the idea that every man should have his hobby. He himself spent much time in knitting, embroidering, and wood carving. A door that he carved is to be hung in his Northampton mansion.

There was a romance about the Marquis's marriage. The late Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, Queen Victoria's youngest son, was at one time deeply in love with the Hon. Mary Baring, and Queen Victoria favored the match, but Miss Baring's choice fell upon her less distinguished admirer.

PRINCESS A NURSE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 16.—The Archduchess Isabella, who was married in February, 1912, to Prince George of Bavaria, from whom she ran away before the honeymoon was over, has since the annulment of her marriage become a hospital nurse.

She is now undergoing training at one of the large Vienna hospitals for the poor, and will afterward join the Red Cross organization.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 16.—Loading of the old whaler Karluk, which is to carry Dr. Vilhjalmar Stefansson's exploring expedition into the arctic, was completed to-day, and the Karluk probably will sail to-morrow. Nome, Alaska, will be the first port of call.

Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, and D. M. Everts, Speaker of the House, visited the vessel to-day.

Decathlon Prizes to Swedes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 16.—The King of Sweden yesterday at the Stadium, on the occasion of the trial matches to select Swedish competitors for the coming English championships, distributed the Olympic prizes for the Decathlon, which after James Thorpe's disqualification, according to the Olympic meeting action at Lausanne, was awarded to the three Swedes, Wieslander, Holmer, and Lomberg. There was immense enthusiasm as three Swedish flags went up, and the Swedish total in the Olympic record was raised three points.

MILITANTS SPOIL PRECIOUS BOOKS

Three Hundred Volumes in a Cambridge College Mutilated by Suffragettes.

MRS. PANKHURST OUT AGAIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—About 300 volumes in the library of St. John's College, Cambridge, have been found mutilated by cutting. A card found hanging at the end of a bookcase bore the words "Votes for Women."

Many of the damaged volumes are valuable.

Mrs. Pankhurst was to-day again released from Holloway Jail and removed in an ambulance to a nursing home. She is in a very weak condition.

Judgment has been entered in the King's Bench Division against the suffragette leaders in another action arising out of the window-smashing raids. Ninety-three West End tradesmen sued Mrs. Pankhurst, Christabel Pankhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, and others for £1,600 ($8,000) for damage to plate-glass windows.

On the defendants announcing that they were ready to submit to judgment for £1,423, the Judge awarded that amount to the plaintiffs.

LONDON, June 16.—It was a "hunger strike" that once more brought about the release from jail of Mrs. Pankhurst. Although the period during which she had abstained from food was very brief, the physician in attendance said that she never before had been so exhausted.

The license on which Mrs. Pankhurst was released will expire on June 23.

St. John's is one of the oldest of the Cambridge colleges. It represents a foundation even earlier than that of Peterhouse, having succeeded St. John's Hospital, established in the twelfth century. The existing college was founded in 1511 by Lady Margaret Beaufort, mother of King Henry VII.

The library of the college contains over 35,000 printed books, including many incunabula, and 400 manuscripts. Among its treasures are a vellum copy of Coverdale's Bible and an Irish Psalter.

SILENT ON MILITANCY.

Woman Suffrage Congress Declines to Express Opinion.

BUDAPEST, June 16.—The congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance started its real work to-day under the Presidency of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York.

An early effort was made to obtain an expression of opinion from the congress in regard to militancy, but the delegates passed a resolution declining to commit the congress for or against militancy, on the ground that the constitution of the alliance forbids interference in questions of national policy. The resolution, however, declared that a sincere revolution, accompanied by disorder, had never been construed as an argument against man suffrage.

The congress then passed a vote of protest against the practice of the opponents of woman suffrage in utilizing the militant methods adopted by a minority as a reason for withholding the vote from women throughout the world.

ARMS FOR MEXICAN REBELS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 16.—It was learned to-day that a large schooner laden with rapid-fire guns and much ammunition sailed from Havana for Mexico last Friday night. The vessel is in charge of the Mexicans Vicente Segura and Alfredo Rodriguez.

The schooner was bought and loaded at New Orleans. She took on a number of Mexican revolutionists here.

Passengers arriving from Mexico to-day report that four newspaper men have been executed by the rebels at Oaxaca.

ROBERTS LAUDS POLOISTS.

Tells Ritson Defeated Team Upheld British Sportsmanship.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Lord Roberts has sent the following cable to Capt. R. G. Ritson, who was in charge of the English polo team, defeated by their American opponents on Saturday:

"My heartiest congratulations upon your splendid fight and upon the way in which your team upheld the finest traditions of British sportsmanship."

DIES ODDLY IN LONDON.

Mrs. Violet McK. Hudson of Chicago Found Dead in Her Flat.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—The tragic death of a young American woman, Mrs. Violet McKenna Hudson of Chicago, in her flat in St. George's Mansions, Vauxhall Bridge Road, will be the subject of an inquiry by the Westminster Coroner to-day.

Mrs. Hudson, a pretty woman, 26 years old, was found dead in the kitchen of her flat by the housekeeper of the mansions on Sunday evening. The tap of the gas stove was turned on and Mrs. Hudson was evidently asphyxiated by the fumes from the stove as she bent over it.

"It is understood," says The Daily Express, "that Mrs. Hudson, who had independent means, enjoyed a private income from America. On the back of an envelope was found a scribbled notification that, 'being of sound mind,' she revoked all former wills and left legacies to certain of her friends. Among these was one of £1,000, which was bequeathed to an Oxford undergraduate. A similar gift was left to another friend, while £20 was bequeathed to the wife of the housekeeper of the flat. It is strange that Mrs. Hudson, who was an educated woman, spelled the word pounds "lbs."

"Mrs. Hudson usually was in the best of health and spirits. She had not been living at the flat long, having previously lodged in Bloomsbury."

BIG PRICES AT CHRISTIE'S.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—At the sale at Christie's to-day of French furniture and miscellaneous objects of art collected by the late H. M. W. Oppenheim a pair of Louis +VI. commodes of oak, with fronts and ends of mahogany veneered with amboyna wood, mounted with ormolu borders and surmounted by white marble slabs, brought the remarkable price of £2,730 ($13,650.) Seligmann was the purchaser.

A Höchst porcelain group representing a lady and gentleman seated on a balustrade brought £367, and an Italian faience bust of a knight of the Golden Fleece was knocked down for £121.

EX-PREMIER NOW POLICEMAN

Basil Thomson Succeeds Sir Melville Macnaghten in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Basil Thomson, Inspector of Prisons, has been appointed successor to Sir Melville Macnaghten as Assistant Commissioner of the London metropolitan police.

Mr. Thomson, who is a son of the late Archbishop Thomson of York, has had a picturesque official career. After leaving Oxford he went to Fiji, where he was head of the Native Department. At the age of 29 he became Premier of Tonga.

FOR MASSENET MONUMENT.

Committee Formed in St. Etienne, the Composer's Birthplace.

ST. ETIENNE, June 16.—This city has decided to erect a monument in honor of the memory of Jules Massenet, the composer, who died in Paris last Summer. The movement is being supported by some of the best-known musicians, artists, and statesmen of the French Republic, and copies of an appeal for funds are being sent out from St. Etienne, where Massenet was born.

The fame of Massenet is world wide, but nevertheless the members of the Massenet Monument Committee decided to approach first those who lived with the composer in his native city. The committee says:

"We appeal to the inhabitants of St. Etienne, to the people of the Department of Forez, to all Frenchmen who are proud of having been compatriots of Massenet, and, finally, to all men and women who have vibrated to the sounds of the divine music of the author of 'Manon.'"

Ready for Canal Fortification Gun.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, June 16.—The big gun for the Pacific fortification of the Panama Canal is due to arrive here this week. The steel foundation which was cast here by shifts working day and night is now ready for placing.

AMERICANS ROUT THE REBEL MOROS

Mount Dagsag Taken—We Lose Six Men Killed and Seven Wounded.

BATTLE A FIERCE ONE

Natives to be Pursued—Gen. Pershing Enthusiastic in Praise of His Troops.

MANILA, June 16.—A complete rout of the rebellious Moros on Mount Dagsag was accomplished by the American forces during the night with the loss of six men killed and seven wounded.

Reports of the engagement, reaching here by wireless from the Island of Jolo, are but meagre. All the Americans killed were members of the several companies of scouts. In the first advance upon the mountain last week, when the Moros were nearly dislodged from their position, six Americans were also killed. The number of dead among the Moros is not known.

Last night's battle began just before dark. The fighting was fierce, but the American advance was so determined that the Moros at last stole away and left the mountain clear. They are now at large and will be pursued ceaselessly.

Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, commanding the Department of Mindanao, is leading the forces and is enthusiastic in praise of the conduct of his men.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The War Department had no report to-day of the latest fighting in Jolo.

A belated report from Brig. Gen. Pershing received to-day gave further details of the fighting last week as follows:

"Friday at noon Capt. Patrick Moylan of the Philippine Scouts, with the Thirty-first and Fourteenth Companies, Philippine Scouts, took Mount Bunga after a hand-to-hand fight. One scout, Thirty-first Company killed.

"Mountain side very precipitous. Gun carried up by hand."

WORLD'S NEED OF TREES.

French Minister Addresses the Foresters' Congress in Paris.

PARIS, June 16.—Minister of Agriculture Clementel to-day uttered a warning as to the grave danger which threatens the world unless reafforestation is properly organized in all countries and the wanton destruction of trees is stopped. He was presiding over the opening session of the International Foresters' Congress, in which 700 delegates are participating, including Mr. Woolsey from the United States.

M. Clementel warmly welcomed the foreign delegates and in his speech announced that the French Government was devoting $200,000 to the work of reafforestation.

VIEWS

A man of views is a man who assimilates other people's views to supplement and improve his own.

The greatest building enterprises in this country have been undertaken by men of broad views, who saw the wisdom of utilizing the views of an organization which was best qualified to speak with authority on building construction in all its phases.

And our views must have been sound, or these greatest of all building enterprises would not have been placed under our control.

FIND ENGINE REPORT 'BRAKES NO GOOD'

HIS COMPLAINT IGNORED

Roundhouse Record Also Shows His Predecessor Wrote "Pumps Won't" Work—Test Locomotive To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 16.—A brown paper book smeared with engine grease was brought forward to-day as the chief bit of proof on which Charles S. Dougherty, the engineer who operated engine 1,338 when it plunged into the Pullman car Skylark last Thursday, hoped to have his version of the Stamford wreck accepted rather than that of witnesses for the railroad, who have attempted to break down his story.

The book was laid before Coroner Phelan this afternoon after a string of witnesses, brought to the inquest by Benjamin I. Spock, a lawyer for the railroad, had attacked Dougherty's narrative. These witnesses had sworn that they saw Dougherty stop his engine at South Norwalk in fine shape on the day he had testified he ran past the station.

Mr. Spock had issued a statement on behalf of the railroad that Dougherty never had complained about the air of the engine, although the engineer had testified that he had complained about the brakes and had written out a statement to that effect in the work book.

The charge of President Mellen that Dougherty alone was responsible for the wreck and had disregarded signals, had found supporters among railroad officials who had testified that Dougherty bore down upon the first section of the Boston express at a speed of forty to fifty miles an hour, and struck the Skylark at that speed. Dougherty had said that he was running at a speed of ten to fifteen miles an hour when the crash came.

When the last of the railroad witnesses had testified, Coroner Phelan called for the work book. Mr. Spock handed it to the Coroner.

"I see," remarked Coroner Phelan, "that there are printed words at one side of the page, with spaces to write after them, and that after the word 'air' there is no comment by Dougherty. Is that right?"

"That is right," said Mr. Spock.

Dougherty Points Out Record.

Dougherty, who had been sitting back in the courtroom, approached the Coroner's desk.

"Pass on down to the words, 'Other Repairs Needed,'" said the engineer.

The Coroner passed over various comments upon the page, and then came to the final space at the bottom. "Brakes no good," he read, and then he held the book up so that all in the courtroom could see the large, sprawling letters.

There was suppressed applause for Dougherty as this evidence supporting his story came out.

Coroner Phelan then began to question the railroad witness about Dougherty's notation in the book, and brought out the fact that the proper inspectors had seen the engineer's complaint, but had done nothing to remedy the defects in the brakes of which he had complained.

J. J. Gash, a mechanic employed in the Stamford roundhouse of the New Haven Railroad, was put on the stand. It was his duty, he said, to read the work book and take note of every complaint made by the engineers.

On the Tuesday before the Stamford wreck, he said, he received engine 1,338 from Dougherty, and gave the engine the overhauling called for by the engineer's notations. One of them was that some parts needed oiling and another was that a valve had become heated. He told of making these repairs.

"And did you read that line, 'brakes no good?'" asked the Coroner.

"Yes, I read that complaint," said Gash.

The Coroner led Gash stey by step through all that he did to the engine on the Tuesday before the wreck. He then developed in detail the actual handling of this complaint about the bad brakes.

Q.—When did you first see that complaint? A.—Before I went to work on the engine.

Q.—Was it your duty to read the "work book" before overhauling an engine sent to the roundhouse? A.—Yes, it was my duty to make the repairs called for by the complaints of the engineers.

Q.—Then you knew all the time you were working on Engine 1,388 that the brakes, in the opinion of the engine driver, were no good? A.—Yes, I took full note of that complaint before starting to work.

Ignored the Brakes.

Q.—And now tell us all that you did in handling this complaint of bad brakes? A.—I didn't do anything to the brakes. I looked them over, that was all.

Q.—And did you consider that enough to do? A.—I saw that the piston rods were connected up all right. I thought they might be a little long, but I found them all right, so I concluded Dougherty was wrong about the brakes. I let it go at that, thinking Dougherty was wrong.

Q.—And then you thought you knew more about the brakes of this engine than the man who was driving it; is that the impression you wish to convey? A.—Well, hardly. I thought Dougherty was fooled. I greased up the engine and screwed up a bolt or two. That's all I did.

Q.—And was there any other person who might have repaired these brakes? A.—No, I was the only person likely to touch the engine on account of a complaint by the engine driver. I was the only person who touched Engine 1,338 last Tuesday.

Q.—You met Dougherty when he came to take his engine away after turning it in with bad brakes? A.—Yes, I met him when he came to the roundhouse.

Q.—And did you ask him what he meant by reporting the brakes were no good? A.—No, I did not.

Dougherty was called to the stand frequently and asked about various points in the testimony of witnesses regarding the complaints of engineers and the repairs that were made in response to these complaints. Dougherty surprised every one by making important assertions in his own behalf which he had failed to make when he first told his story to the Coroner.

"What we expect about engines," he said, "we are taught to expect by the traveling engine foreman—that is by engine foremen who enter our cabs with us and tell us about the rules of the road and our duties."

Q.—And did any traveling foreman teach you about Engine 1,388? A.—Yes, Engine Foreman John Francis Carroll advised me before I first drove Engine 1,388 three days before the wreck.

Q.—And what was the nature of this instruction? A.—He said, "For God's sake be careful. Harmon got his yesterday. He got suspended because he went past a signal. The engine brakes aren't holding. Begin to do your braking earlier than usual. Watch out for your water glasses also, because the water glasses in these new engines aren't working."

Coroner Phelan took notes on this statement, because he had received from the offices of the New Haven Road a statement that Engine Foreman Carroll had warned Dougherty to set his brakes earlier than usual for the reason that the new Pacific type of engine was heavier and more powerful and needed a longer distance in which to stop.

Recalled His Warning.

"And when I got back from my first run," added Dougherty in leaving the witness chair, "another thing happened. The engineers, who knew it was my first run, wanted to know how I got along. I told George Reiner that the engine's brakes hadn't held at Bridgeport. Carroll, who was in hearing distance, spoke up. He said, 'I told you you'd get into trouble. I told you to begin braking early because the brakes weren't holding.'"

The day's testimony opened with the appearance of employes of the Adams Express Company at South Norwalk. These man had seen the effort of Dougherty to avoid running over a little boy on Tuesday. On this occasion he had thrown his engine into the reverse and in doing so had wrenched his back until it was not able to repeat the performance when the emergency came a few seconds before the Stamford wreck.

H. E. Pratt, the express company's agent, said that he heard Dougherty's train whistle when the engine was 200 feet east of the spot where the boy stood, and yet it was 300 feet west of that point before the train came to a stop. The locomotive finally stopped right in front of his office, he said. Wallace Force and R. F. Kane, express employes, told the same story. This agreed with Dougherty's testimony regarding the incident.

Dougherty was recalled to tell what he thought was a proper distance for a normal stop under an emergency application of the brakes. He said that 200 or 300 feet ought to be plenty of distance in which to bring a train to a standstill with good brakes.

Mr. Spock brought forward some of the work book records made by Harmon, the engineer who preceded Dougherty. He also said that Dougherty ran the engine back to New Haven, after complaining about the brakes, but did not renew his complaint at New Haven. The engine also went to Springfield after that, Mr. Spock said, and no complaints were made.

"I wish to contradict the railroad lawyer," spoke up John Dillon, Dougherty's brother-in-law, who put up the bail on which the engineer was released. Dillon asserted that the engine never had made any Springfield trip, but had gone back to Stamford on its fatal journey of Thursday.

Spock looked up the records he had brought with him, and admitted Dillon was right. Dillon then protested that when some witnesses were on the stand the lawyer had nodded to them, and that they had answered according to his signals.

"Pumps Won't Work."

Mr. Spock asked Coroner Phelan to observe that Engineer Harmon had not complained about the brakes. The Coroner looked over the page in the work book where Harmon had made his report.

"Ah! And what is this?" he asked. "Nothing about brakes, but here's an entry, 'Pumps won't work,' and a cross mark through it. Now, you bring to our next hearing, Mr. Spock, the man who repaired those air-brake pumps, so we can see if he made any better job of it than the man did who repaired Dougherty's bad brakes."

Coroner Phelan brought out statements to the effect that when an engine's air pump would not work it could not be depended upon to stop a train, because it could not keep its air pressure up to the proper point.

The Coroner developed a series of flat contradictions between railroad employes who worked on the wrecked car, Skylark, and citizens who saw the car taken from the scene of the wreck. George Tappan, a roundhouse employe; John F. Buckley, an instructor of engineers, and E. J. Aiken, local agent at Stamford, testified that Engine 1,338 never was interfered with after the wreck, and that when it was moved away a wrecking train was towing it.

E. E. Risley, a citizen who helped in clearing up the wreck, testified that he saw a railroad man enter the cab of Engine 1,338 and throw the lever into the reverse, after which the engine, with the Skylark over its boiler, backed sixty feet or more up the track.

Andrew Schlechtegg, a policeman who worked on the wreck, testified that he saw a large man enter the cab and put the engine in motion.

Q.—Did you see him throw the engine into the reverse in order to make it back away? A.—Yes. It was all he could do to do it. He braced both feet against the end of the cab, then put his two hands on the lever, and pulled with all his might. It came over so hard I thought the wreckage must have damaged it.

James Heffernan, a police Sergeant, who was Acting Chief of Police on the day of the wreck, testified that he saw Engine 1,338 move a long distance under its own steam and with the Skylark on its back.

William J. Malone, a citizen, who worked on the wreck, also testified that he saw the engine steam away from the wreck after a railroad man had entered the cab and pulled the reversing lever over with great effort.

E. C. Wilkinson, a freight engineer, who said he was the first railroad man to reach Dougherty's engine after the wreck, testified that when he entered the cab he found the brakes set at the emergency.

"And if Dougherty set those brakes at emergency 500 feet back from the scene of the wreck, where he said he did, was there any reason why they should not have held?" he was asked.

Wilkinson testified that if Dougherty's story was right something surely was wrong with the brakes.

Surely Something Wrong.

John Bannon, the engineer of the first section of the Boston Express, of which the Skylark was the last car, testified that Dougherty's brakes simply could not have been in good condition if the train went as far as Dougherty said it did after applying them.

Mr. Aiken, the local agent, volunteered a remark that he could see Dougherty coming into Stamford and that he was making all of forty miles an hour. This brought Dougherty to his feet.

"Why, if that big Pacific engine had struck the Skylark at forty miles an hour it would have bored its way clear through the train, instead of only through the last car," he asserted.

The next session of the Coroner's inquest will be on Wednesday, when President Mellen may be a voluntary witness.

No session of the inquest will be held to-morrow. Coroner Phelan intends to join inspectors from the Inter-State Commerce Commission and the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission in a test of Engine 1,338. Repairmen have been busy with the engine since Saturday preparing it for to-morrow's experiments. It will be taken to Glenbrook and attached to the same cars it was pulling on Thursday when it was wrecked. From Glenbrook into Stamford an effort will be made to duplicate the conditions of Dougherty's final run.

The test will be undertaken to demonstrate whether the brakes applied at such points as Dougherty described will stop the train in a shorter distance than that over which Dougherty ran.

Another feature of the tests will be to demonstrate how stiffly the reversing lever works and whether a man of normal physical power would have any difficulty in throwing the lever over into the reverse while the engine is under way.

Following the tests of the engine the Utilities Commission and the Inter-State Commerce Commission will begin a joint investigation of the wreck with public hearings at the Hotel Stratfield.

AFTER UNSAFE RAILROADS.

Service Board Plans Inquiry Into State Roads Based on Accidents.

ALBANY, June 16.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, is to make a general investigation into the safety of railroads within New York State, having special reference to conditions indicated by railroad accidents in the last few years in this and adjoining States.

The matter was considered at a meeting of the commission to-day, the purpose of the proposed investigation being to "lay the basis for such order or orders as may be warranted by the existing transportation situation and found necessary to the safety of passengers and railroad employes."

WON'T AID BISHOP BREWSTER

Dr. Drury Again Declines to Assist Connecticut Prelate as Suffragan.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 16.—The chosen Suffragan Bishop of the Connecticut Episcopal Diocese, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Smith Drury, rector of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., again refused to-day to accept the proffered position of assistant to Bishop Chauncey Bunce Brewster, as he did a year ago. Bishop Brewster came to Connecticut from Brooklyn, N. Y., and was one of the officiating clergy at the funeral of J. Pierpont Morgan.

The present friction dates back four years, when Bishop Brewster first asked that his diocese be divided. He gets a large salary and has one of the finest houses in this city, but he wants a smaller territory, though the annual conventions, after refusing to grant his request, are willing to elect a suffragan.

The Rev. Dr. Chauncey B. Linsley of Torrington, who was elected last year, refused to serve.

EXPECT SQUELCHING OF CURRAN REPORT

Majority of Two Against It Is Figured in the Board of Aldermen.

WILL COME TO VOTE TO-DAY

Buckner and Curran Answer Waldo's Statement, Both Insisting It Amounts to Nothing.

The special report of the Curran Aldermanic Police Investigating Committee, which recommends many administrative changes in the Police Department, and which includes a recommendation for the removal from office of Police Commissioner Waldo, will come up this afternoon for consideration before the whole Board of Aldermen. In spite of the fact that the report has received the indorsement of the Bureau of Municipal Research, the Citizens' Union, the Federation of Churches, and the Laity League Conference, it is not considered probable that it will pass the Board.

A hard fight is expected at the meeting. The report was adopted in the committee by a five to four vote. The margin is expected to be equally as close to-day in the full board of 78 members.

Ordinarily, the Fusion members would have 41 out of the 78 votes. However, one of the Fusion members, Alderman Shipley of Queens, has sided already with the Tammany side. In addition, Borough Presidents Steers of Brooklyn and Connolly of Queens are expected to vote against the anti-Waldo movement. This would give a majority of two to the antis.

May be Moderated.

There is a possibility, however, that the report may be accepted in moderated form. There are forty-four recommendations, and most of them are constructive. If the anti-Waldo recommendation and several others aimed at Waldo are eliminated, it is probable that Tammany would sanction the remainder. Such a programme, however, would not be favored by Alderman Curran, Chairman of the committee, or by any of the other Fusion leaders, it is thought.

The final shots in the verbal battle involving the Curran Committee, the Mayor, and the Police Commissioner were delivered yesterday by Emory R. Buckner, counsel for the committee, and by Chairman Curran. Their remarks were called forth by the statement of Commissioner Waldo, which appeared in yesterday's newspapers.

"The report is based upon the records of the Police Department and upon sworn testimony," said Mr. Buckner. "A vote for the report can not make the facts any more true. A vote against the report can not make the facts false. With all the opposition talk in reference to the committee's report, no member of the Board of Aldermen has come to the Chairman or counsel and asked to have the evidence pointed out to him. With this in mind, is the opposition to the report political or sincere?

"As to Mr. Waldo's reply to the charges against him, no number of votes can change the indorsement on a single complaint which he sent to those complained against for their own investigation. If he denies the charge of permitting self-investigations—which is one of our most serious counts against him—then he goes against the records which are in his own office.

"If he made independent investigations, where are his records? We have asked for them and have been denied them. We have been unable to find any record of any self-investigations. The truth is that there are none."

Charges Testimony Was Chosen.

A part of Mr. Waldo's statement was devoted to a criticism of the methods employed by the Curran Committee in obtaining testimony. He charged that testimony favorable to the Police Department was not desired and that witnesses for the department were not given an opportunity to testify.

"I'll tell the truth about that if I must," said Mr. Buckner. "One day I met Rabbi Magnes and Harry L. Newburger, attorney for Rabbi Magnes and the Kehillah. They told me about their work on the east side, and they told me how the Police Department was cooperating in that good work. I asked both of them to testify, but they thought they ought not, lest the publicity cause them to lose the good support of the police. And thus they were not called. Mr. Newburger is now the Third Deputy Police Commissioner. If Mr. Waldo has any others in mind who could have testified favorably for the Police Department, let him give us their names, and we'll incorporate their names in the report."

Mr. Curran made a long statement covering Mr. Waldo's reply in detail. He said, in part:

"So far as I have been able to study Mr. Waldo's answer, I find no facts, no evidence, to refute our charges. The whole thing is a mere statement of his opinion about himself, and in that respect resembles the statements of Lieut. Becker, Inspector Sweeney, and others, about themselves, when Mr. Waldo referred directly to them, for their own investigation, letters from citizens accusing them of grafting."

YOUNG ELOPER CONVICTED.

Not for Eloping, but of Stealing Auto to Carry the Girl Away.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Earl Scott, also known as Lloyd Williams, 17, who was arrested May 29 at Lewistown, Penn., in the company of Ethel Roe, daughter of a Boston railroad official, with whom he had run away, was convicted in Quarter Sessions Court to-day of stealing an automobile belonging to Paul Clayton of Haverford, while the machine was standing at Fifth and Ranstead Streets. Judge Finletter will make a closer investigation before passing sentence.

Scott said he and the girl were on their way to Chicago, where he expected to obtain employment. They came from Boston, and, being almost penniless when they reached Trenton, walked to Germantown. The girl became exhausted, and he took Clayton's machine to continue their journey westward. He said he intended to return the car. The girl has been sent home to her parents.

MRS. FITZHUGH GUILTY.

So Pleads After Refusing to Take the Advice of Her Counsel.

After first discharging her counsel, Abraham Levy, because he advised her to plead guilty, Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh, known as "the Woman of Mystery," broke down before Judge Swann, in General Sessions, yesterday, and pleaded guilty to stealing a gold mesh bag valued at $550 from Miss Dorothy Fiske, daughter of Pliny Fiske, the banker.

The theft was committed in St. Bartholomew's Church on Feb. 13. Following her arrest on this charge, Mrs. Fitzhugh was also indicted for stealing $40 and a bracelet valued at $75 from Irene Munsey, an actress. The case was brought to trial on Friday, when Miss Fiske and other witnesses for the prosecution testified.

Yesterday Mrs. Fitzhugh came into court resolved to testify in her own defense, and, after a short conversation with Mr. Levy, stood up and demanded the removal of Mr. Levy. Mr. Levy then resigned as her counsel, and Mrs. Fitzhugh asked if she might communicate with a lawyer in Washington, D. C. Judge Swann allowed her to do so by telephone, but she said she could get no reply, and Louis Spiegel was assigned to defend her. After a consultation with his client, Mr. Spiegel told Judge Swann she desired to plead guilty, and this plea was accepted.

Following her plea she gave her name as Caroline Fitzhugh, said she was born in Virginia, and was married. She also said both her parents were living, but refused to give their name. She was remanded to the Tombs until Thursday for sentence, when Judge Swann expects to learn more about Mrs. Fitzhugh.

AGED TWINS CELEBRATE.

Mrs. Banks and Miss Hawxhurst Were 83 Years Old Yesterday.

Mrs. Maria Hawxhurst Banks and Miss Elizabeth Hawxhurst, twins, celebrated their 83d birthday yesterday at Mrs. Banks's home in Sea Cliff, L. I.

Mrs. Banks and Miss Hawxhurst were born at Searingtown, near the village of Roslyn, L. I., on June 16, 1830. Their parents were Robert Townsend and Rebecca Searing Hawxhurst. They were born Quakers, and have continued members of that sect throughout their long lives. Some five months before they were born their father died. Their mother had a hard struggle to get along, but gave her daughters a good education. As soon as they were old enough they became school teachers. They instructed children both in this State and in Virginia.

It was while teaching in Virginia that Mrs. Banks met her husband, to whom she was married on June 21, 1855. Her husband is a year her junior. He will celebrate his 82d birthday on July 29. They have three children, Nathan Banks, an entomologist employed at Washington, D. C., and Caroline and Annie, who live with their parents at Sea Cliff.

For some time after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Banks lived at Roslyn. A quarter of a century ago they moved to Sea Cliff.

IS SACCHARIN HARMFUL?

An Appeal to Follow Conviction Here of Using It in Syrups.

Isaac Lefkowitz of 154 Delancy Street was fined $10 in Special Sessions yesterday after he had been convicted of adulterating fruit syrups with saccharin. He was arrested on March 16 by Inspectors from the Board of Health who said they had visited his store and had seized a jar of strawberry jam which they analyzed and found contained saccharin.

Lefkowitz's arrest followed the passing of an ordinance forbidding the use of saccharin despite the fact that the United States Government had considered the question and had appointed a commission to pass upon it. This commission was made up of the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Commerce. The first two said saccharin should not be used, but the latter dissented and an appeal was taken to the United States Supreme Court. The Board of Health then passed the ordinance forbidding the use of saccharin.

Lefkowitz said he intended to appeal from his conviction and ten other men charged with the use of saccharin pleaded guilty and received suspended sentences.

M'ADOO-M'CORMICK LICENSE

Couple First Try Baltimore and Are Directed to Towson.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 16.—Miss Ethel McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Isaac E. Emerson, and Francis H. McAdoo, son of Secretary William G. McAdoo, obtained a license to marry this afternoon. In the sizzling heat the couple traveled in to Baltimore from Brooklandwood, the country estate of the Emersons, for the certificate.

Both young McAdoo and his bride-to-be were greatly surprised when City License Clerk O'Neill informed them that the Maryland law required that the license must be taken out in the city or county in which the marriage was to take place. Then the couple embarked in their touring car for Towson and appeared before the County Clerk. Miss McCormick gave her age as 18. Mr. McAdoo said he was 24 and his home in New York City. The marriage will take place at Brooklandwood, in the Green Spring Valley, Saturday afternoon.

SUICIDE AT AGE OF 79.

The Body of Missing Samuel Ely Found Off Rye Beach.

ROSLYN, L. I., June 16.—The body of Samuel Ely, an aged man who disappeared on Thursday last from the home of Oscar Seaman, with whom he lived here, was found early this morning in the water off Rye Beach. It is believed that Mr. Ely committed suicide. He was 79 years old. He was formerly attached to the New York Custom House. His father was the first Presbyterian minister here.

Mr. Ely had been worrying over financial matters. He had spoken of taking a trip to Rye Beach. It is believed he jumped overboard. The body was injured, and it is believed he was caught by the paddlewheel.

EXPECT NEW MOVE IN MUSICA CASE

Grand Jury to Investigate the Circumstances Under Which Steamship Was Bought.

HAD MANY ADVENTURES

Vessel, Which Arrived Here a Wreck, Used Her Boats and Woodwork for Fuel.

It was learned at the District Attorney's office yesterday that Assistant District Attorney William Embree would ask the Grand Jury to-day to find one, and possibly two, indictments as a result of his investigation into the story told by Philip Musica, President of the United States Hair Company.

Musica pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with stealing more than $200,000 from the United States Hair Company, and he made a complete confession to Mr. Embree. The names of those whose indictment is expected have not been mentioned in connection with the Musica scandal, but it is understood that they had something to do with a 900-ton steamship which Philip Musica bought early in October, 1912. This ship is called the Evelyn, and is at present dismantled in New Bedford, Mass., where she was laid up by her commander, Capt. Frederick Alesse.

The testimony involving the steamer was given before the referee in bankruptcy for the United States Hair Company. This testimony showed that on Sept. 12, 1912, Philip Musica met Capt. Alesse, who bought and sold old steamships, and commisioned him to buy a cast-off ship. As a result of this commission Capt. Alesse went to England, where he bought an unseaworthy boat called the Fortuna, which once belonged to the Cunio Importing Company, but had been out of commission for some time. Capt. Alesse paid $20,000 for this steamer, with the understanding that he was to retain a share in the ownership of the boat. The Fortuna was then taken to Genoa, where the name Fortuna was painted out and that of Evelyn substituted. There she was overhauled.

After this Capt. Alesse took the ship to New Bedford, where the authorities made him put new boilers in her. He then sailed for the West Coast of Africa to pick up passengers. He took 275 passengers to Cape Verde at $15 each, and brought back a boatload of 300 negroes at $30 each. This was after he had cruised about for some months trading along the African coast. It was while carrying passengers that the Evelyn floated the flag of Uruguay, because she could not sail under either the American or English flags on account of her unseaworthiness.

On the return trip from Cape Verde the Evelyn met with many adventures. First the passengers complained of the lack of food, and at Bermuda Capt. Alesse was forced to quit the ship and turn her over to the first mate. After quitting Bermuda the coal supply gave out, and in order to keep the ship afloat all of her woodwork and boats were consumed. She arrived in New Bedford, a dismantled wreck, and then the United States Hair Company failed, the Musicas fled from the city and the Evelyn was tied to a pier. Capt. Alesse asserts he still owns a share in her.

The charges which the District Attorney is investigating are against men who were connected with financial transactions both preceding the buying of the Evelyn and after the arrest of the Musicas and the bankruptcy proceedings started. Mr. Embree in speaking of the Evelyn yesterday would only say that we have no extradition treaty with Uruguay for the crime of grand larceny. From other sources it was learned that once beyond the three-mile limit the Musicas would be subject only to the laws of Uruguay, as the Evelyn carried the flag of that Republic.

Philip Musica was indicted with his father, Antonio, and his brothers, George and Arthur. After their indictment they were arrested in New Orleans, where they had fled after the failure of the United States Hair Company. It was charged that they obtained large sums of money from various bankers and brokers upon false invoices. These invoices consisted of statements to the effect that the United States Hair Company had received large shipments of valuable human hair, when in reality it was of a very cheap and inferior quality.

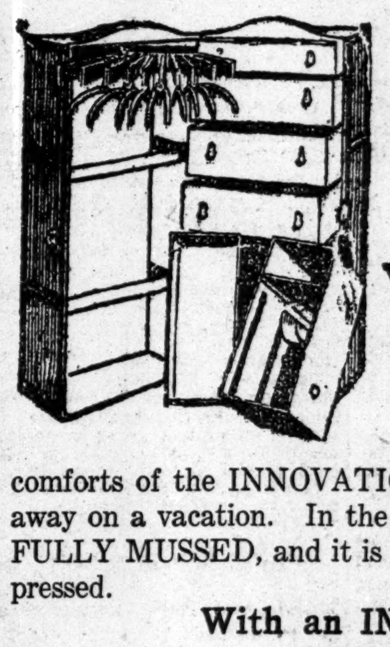
It Is Unexpected Good News That Brings This Extraordinary Sale Just Before Vacation Time Of the Famous Convenient



INNOVATION Wardrobe Trunks

At Savings of $5.50 to $20 on Their Regular Fixed Prices

If there is one time more than another that the comforts of the INNOVATION Trunk are most appreciated, it is when you are away on a vacation. In the ordinary Trunk YOUR CLOTHES GET FRIGHTFULLY MUSSED, and it is usually inconvenient and quite expensive to get them pressed.

With an INNOVATION Wardrobe Trunk Clothes Need No Pressing

Every garment is carried on its hanger, just as though it were in your wardrobe at home, and turning the Trunks upside down cannot muss the clothing carried. The drawers, shown in the picture, take care of other articles. A Wardrobe Trunk pays for itself in a few trips, in the pressing that it saves, and in the wear and tear on clothing.

Now the INNOVATION Ingenuities Co. is making a slight change in their models, and we have purchased the entire Spring of 1913 stock to sell at THESE BIG REDUCTIONS from regular prices:

(The lowest price for which a NEW and PERFECT INNOVATION Trunk has ever been sold.)

Increase Your Summer Sales—Appeal to New York's Visitors.

Hundreds of thousands of Summer visitors (prospective purchasers, every one,) will arrive in New York during the coming months, at the rate of 100,000 daily.

You can get your share of their patronage and greatly increase your Summer sales if you will but tell this great army what you have to offer.

A great proportion of these visitors stay at the leading hotels, and they depend upon the hotel newsstands for their daily newspaper—their only source of the news of the day.

A careful canvass of the newsstands of New York City hotels shows that the sale of THE NEW YORK TIMES greatly exceeds the sale of any other metropolitan daily.

Here are some examples of daily sales:

HOTEL ASTOR

Times	70	Fourth	30
Second	40	Fifth	15

HOTEL McALPIN

The figures showing the newsstand sales at all of the prominent New York hotels indicate clearly that THE NEW YORK TIMES is the newspaper most generally read by out-of-town visitors.

Thousands of these buyers are unfamiliar with New York and will welcome suggestions through their morning newspaper which will enable them to buy to the best advantage.

A MAXIM SILENCER ON ELLISON BOOM

DIDN'T KNOW WHO ASKED 'EM

"I Just Found Myself Here," Said Toastmaster—Ellison's Speech Implied That He Was Receptive.

What sounded like a mayoralty boom with a Maxim silencer attached, in favor of ex-Corporation Counsel William B. Ellison was heard faintly yesterday afternoon at a dollar luncheon at the Hotel St. Denis. The luncheon was attended by clergymen for the most part, but a few lawyers and business men were present. An air of uncertainty pervaded the feast. No one seemed to know just who had engineered the luncheon or what it was all about. Even John Whalen, who was toastmaster, confessed he did not know who had asked him to preside.

"I just found myself here," he said. And Bishop Luther Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who was among the speakers, admitted that he did not know under whose auspices he spoke, nor why he had been invited. The ignorance of the guests as to the reason for their presence was exceeded only by that of a press agent who seemed to be in charge of the arrangements.

All that was definitely known was that cards had been sent out inviting those who received them to a dollar luncheon at the St. Denis, where addresses would be made by Bishop Wilson, the Rev. Dr. M. H. Harris of Temple Israel, and William B. Ellison, on "Our Civic Needs—How Obtainable." The cards of invitation bore the names of the Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell, the Rev. Dr. Robert Bagnell, Edward Lauterbach, Henry Hill, the Rev. Dr. Daniel G. Wylie, the Rev. Dr. A. F. Campbell, William A. Prendergast, John Elek Ludvig, and J. F. Calderwood.

While Bishop Wilson and Rabbi Harris confined themselves to generalities and pleaded for idealism in government and more unselfish patriotism, Mr. Ellison had come armed with a printed speech six newspaper columns long on the subject of the city's financial situation and the ways of improving it. From the general tenor of his speech it was inferred that, like Barkis, he was "willin'." None of the other speakers mentioned Mr. Ellison's name as a possible candidate for any office in the gift of the people, but after the luncheon, when Bishop Wilson was asked whether there really was a boom for Mr. Ellison, he said:

"I cannot answer you completely at this time."

Edward Lauterbach, too, was vague in explaining his presence. He said he guessed Mr. Ellison would make a good Mayor. Mr. Whalen was even more non-committal.

"I don't know anything about it. All I know is that we had a good luncheon and that everybody was happy, and that the speakers all spoke to their own satisfaction, at any rate," he asserted.

Some of the guests said they thought the luncheon might have been given to Mr. Ellison in recognition of his services to the Anti-Saloon League at Albany and elsewhere. It was pointed out that the Rev. Dr. Bagnell, whose name appeared on the printed invitations, was President of the Anti-Saloon League, but, on the other hand, it was pointed out that many of those present tempered the heat of the afternoon with highballs and foaming steins. This seemed to disprove the anti-saloon theory. Still others said they understood the luncheon was conceived by the Rev. Dr. A. F. Campbell of the Nostrand Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church; that it was just a civic luncheon, which, it was hoped, would be the forerunner of an organized civic forum at which municipal problems would be discussed.

Mr. Ellison, in his address, pleaded for retrenchment and economy in the conduct of the City Government. He said steps must be taken at once to improve the city's financial position. He charged that gross extravagance was shown by the increase in the budget from $77,473,084 in 1898, to $102,700,342 in 1913. He referred to the Ashokan Dam and the whole project of bringing water from the Catskills as a needless extravagance and waste of $200,000,000. He asserted that there was plenty of water to be had right near home.

"If I recollect correctly, we have already passed every considerable city in the United States in the per capita cost of government," he said, "and it is the per capita cost that shows extravagance or economy."

'BUS LOSES ITS CONDUCTOR.

Bargain Hunters See Need of Wireless Communication.

Any intimation that the Fifth Avenue omnibuses were going to be equipped with wireless would probably be denied by the company which owns those vehicles and the speaker's sanity questioned, but there were times yesterday morning when the passengers on one particular omnibus wished that the driver had some means of communicating either with the company or with the terminus at 137th Street. Lack of this gave them a two-mile joy ride, but joy rides don't count when your heart is set upon reaching a bargain counter and you are going at top speed in the opposite direction.

It was about a quarter before 9 o'clock when a man, who was waiting near Grant's Tomb, swung on a southbound bus which had slowed up to half speed at that point. Down Riverside Drive sped the vehicle, with few seats vacant above or below. Not a stop did it make until it reached 118th Street, where a woman was waiting to board it. She ascended the step successfully, and the passengers sat back with a sigh of relief and prepared to resume the rest of the journey.

But nothing happened. The bell did not ring. The seconds passed. One woman passenger said to her neighbor: "Goodness me! Why don't they go on? If we do not get there before 9 o'clock there'll be such a crowd around that counter that we simply won't be able to get anywhere near it."

Her neighbor looked uncomfortable. Then she took a little box from her bag and powdered her nose. The other craned her neck until she could see past the other's new Summer hat.

"Mercy! Where is the conductor?" she demanded. All sorts of answers were given. Nobody remembered having seen the conductor at all. Several men with gunmetal watches, which in these days seem to be an indication that your office is situated somewhere near the Stock Exchange, pulled them out and looked at them anxiously. Still the bell did not ring.

Somehow it finally struck the driver of the vehicle that he had either lost the other half of the bus' crew or had started away without a complement. He began looking back anxiously, and at last he started ahead to the accompaniment of sighs of satisfaction. These did not continue, for the big car almost immediately began to turn and then headed back northward. Impromptu indignation meetings immediately convened both upstairs and down. One man on the top jumped up angrily, rushed back and pushed the button at the stern. The car kept on going. When he reached the lower platform the passenger took hold of the bell rope and yanked at it until the driver brought the vehicle to a stop. Then the car continued its course uptown to look for the conductor it had lost.

DR. RATHBUN IS CITED.

Ordered to Explain Why He Said Mrs. Sherman Is Incompetent.

Surrogate Cohalan ordered Dr. H. Fuller Rathbun of 174 West Fifty-eighth Street, sole executor and trustee of the estate of Mrs. Anette Wagner Haynes, who died on April 25, to appear in court yesterday and give reasons why his allegations attacking the mental capacity of Mrs. Haynes's daughter, Mrs. Anette Wagner Sherman, should not be stricken from the petition he had filed with the mother's will.

Mrs. Sherman received practically the entire estate of her mother in trust of the executor, Dr. Rathbun, during her life and that of her husband, Harry Taylor Sherman. On the affidavit of Dr. Rathbun, to the effect that he believed the daughter incapable of protecting her rights, Elwood J. Harlem was appointed as her special guardian in all matters concerning her inheritance.

When Mrs. Sherman attempted on May 13 to file objections to the will's probate, through her private counsel, Halstead H. Frost, the question arose as to whether a person for whom a special guardian had been appointed could institute such proceedings without the guardian's consent. Asserting that the affidavit declaring Mrs. Sherman an incompetent was without basis of reason, the attorney applied to the Surrogate for an order citing Dr. Rathbun to appear in court.

Mrs. Sherman, in the papers, declares that the allegation is an absolute falsehood, and that there was never before any imputation cast upon her mental capacity. The allegation has already embarrassed her in the management of her business affairs, she says, and she does not believe that the executor, Dr. Rathbun, is a proper person to control the estate without security being required of him.

HERE TO WED ARMY CAPTAIN

Miss Gardner, Scotch Actress, Gladly Gives Up Stage Life.

The arrival of the Anchor Line steamship Columbia from Glasgow yesterday brought happiness to Capt. P. L. Smith, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky., who was on the pier to meet his bride to be, Miss Janet Gardner, recently a member of Graham Moffat's company of Scotch players. As soon as the steamship was made fast Miss Gardner ran down the gangway into the arms of the tall broad-shouldered soldier, who was awaiting her. Capt. Smith said that the wedding would take place to-night at the home of some friends, at 120 West Seventy-second Street. Miss Gardner said that she was quite happy to forsake the stage and start housekeeping at Fort Thomas. The romance began a year ago at Louisville, when she was playing in "Bunty Pulls the Strings." Four months ago Miss Gardner returned to Scotland to ask her father's consent to the marriage.

The bride-elect was placed in charge of Capt. John Black, the commander of the Columbia, by her father, and brought with her enough household effects to start her new home in Kentucky.

RAISE $3,000 FOR SUFFRAGE.

Active Work for the Women's Cause Centres at Syracuse.

Mrs. Stanton Blatch of the Woman's Political Union said yesterday that $3,000 was collected at the big meeting in the Arena following the suffrage parade in Syracuse on Saturday last. The Woman's Union has opened permanent headquarters in the city and this sum will help to maintain it. Miss Caroline Lexow, who is in charge of a suffrage campaign centring at Syracuse, will be in command of the headquarters. Miss Mildred Taylor and Miss Elizabeth Freeman will be associated with her.

Names of women who while absent on their vacations will work for suffrage, are constantly coming in at the State headquarters. The State Association has practically every county in the State organized. Active work is going on in fourteen counties. Miss Harriet May Mills, the State President, who has just returned from a visit to the upper part of the State, says there is great interest in suffrage. Many men, she said, had told her that the women would carry the State in 1915.

AUTOISTS FINED $25 EACH.

Long Island Speeders Punished — Car Rowdies Go to Jail.

Magistrate Harry Miller in the Long Island City Court yesterday, heard the casces of thirty-seven persons accused of violations of the speed limit clause of the new automobile ordinance. Of the accused, twenty-nine paid fines amounting to $700, while the cases of eight were adjourned in order to give them an opportunity to appear with $25 each with which to pay the fines. While most of those arraigned were described as chauffeurs, it is understood that several were owners of their cars. The violators of the ordinance were arrested between Saturday afternoon and Sunday night. The fines made the largest total ever collected in that court.

Seventeen car rowdies were also arraigned in court, and eleven received sentences of thirty days' imprisonment each. The remaining six were sent to jail for ten days each.

SELL SMUGGLED DIAMONDS.

Nearly $17,000 Worth Brought In by Nathan Green at Auction To-day.

Unset diamonds to the amount of 247 carats and estimated to be worth $16,845.40 will be sold at public auction this morning in Room 56 of the Federal Building, at 11 o'clock, by Marshal Henkel. They were smuggled into this country by Nathan Green, of the firm of Green Brothers of 284 Pearl Street, from Amsterdam.

They were sent here last January concealed in a registered package containing the photograph of a woman in a black leather frame, inscribed "In Memoriam." The package happened to be damaged in the mails, and Newell Brackett, a clerk in the registry division, examined it to see to what extent it was injured. Then he found the diamonds, and this led to the arrest of Green.

When the man was arraigned before Judge Mayer on March 14 his counsel represented that he was on the verge of insanity, and the court let him off with one day's detention in the custody of Marshal Henkel and a $3,000 fine.

CARPETS DAMAGED BY STICKY PAVING

McAneny Says Correction of the Trouble Is Up to the Street Cleaning Department.

The condition of the wood block pavement in Broadway, between Fifty-ninth and Seventy-ninth Streets, was the cause of general complaint yesterday by hotel managers and storekeepers. The warm weather and the bright sunshine brought the creosote oil with which the wood blocks were treated bubbling to the surface, forming a sticky coating. Some of the hotel men said that their patrons were complaining. They had told their troubles to the city officials before, they said, and felt that little had been done in answer to their complaints.

During the hot weather early in May, said one of the hotel men, portions of the roadway had been covered with sand, which absorbed the sticky coating. Yesterday but one section was treated with the sand—a stretch from Sixty-sixth Street to a point just north of Sixty-seventh Street. In other sections where the sun shone brightly on the pavement the surface was very soft. A TIMES reporter saw a dozen people stop to kick the tarry substance from their shoes after crossing the street or walking from the Subway station at Seventy-second Street.

At the office of Borough President McAneny it was said that the job of sprinkling the street with sand was, by the provisions of the charter, within the jurisdiction of the Street Cleaning Department. Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards was not at his office when a reporter called, but it was said that the department was ready to do whatever was necessary. Sand had been placed on the street when the first complaints were made in May, it was said, and, if conditions justified it, it would be sprinkled on the street again.

None of the hotel men wanted to talk for publication yesterday. They said they were confident the city would do something soon. One who wrote to Borough President McAneny, hoping in that way to hurry things along, had this to say:

"There is no use for us to talk about it, for you can see for yourself what the conditions are. Just walk across the street and you will find your shoes all covered with the stuff. People bring it into the hotels on their shoes, and it ruins the rugs and carpets. It certainly does seem that the city ought to be more generous with the sand. The condition now is a shame."

This is the first Summer season this wood block pavement has had a trial on Broadway. At the office of the Highways Department in the Park Row Building it was said that the trouble with the pavement would only be temporary.

The pavement is of long-leaf yellow pine blocks treated with creosote oil and laid on a sand cushion and a 6-inch concrete foundation. The work of laying it was begun July 1, 1912, and was completed in December last. The blocks used, it was said at the Highways Department, were of the best grade.

The warm weather, it was explained, caused the blocks to swell, and this resulted in the oil being pushed to the surface. It was called the "bleeding" process. After a reasonably short time, it was said, if sand was used to absorb the oil which came to the surface, the "bleeding" would stop. The wood block pavement was used because it was considered a "long life" pavement and "noiseless." The work was paid for by bond issue, as it was a repaving job for which property holders could not be assessed.

GET 111 IN PROSPECT PARK.

Police Overworked Arresting Sunday Violators of Ordinances.

Ordinance violations in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, on Sunday caused the police so much trouble that they were compelled to arrest 111 offenders, who were arraigned in the Flatbush Police Court yesterday before Magistrate Reynolds.

The matter has become so serious to the police and the Park Department that a conference was held in court yesterday between Inspector Hughes, Magistrate Reynolds, and Thomas F. Reilly, Secretary to Park Commissioner Kennedy. They were of the opinion that amendments to the park ordinances would have to be made. Magistrate Reynolds agreed with the others that a fine of $10, which is the maximum punishment, should be increased to $25. It was also agreed that an amendment to the park ordinances should be passed, prohibiting the carrying of newspapers or other reading matter into the park on Sundays, and making violation punishable by arrest.

Four patrol wagons were kept running on Sunday, and Inspector Hughes said that many more persons would have been arrested if he had more wagons and additional policemen. Those arrested were taken into custody for similar offenses committed by other persons on the preceding two Sundays, as playing ball, throwing papers around and destroying the shrubbery.

Four of the 111 offenders did not appear in court, and warrants were issued for their arrest. All of this number, with the exception of twenty, were fined $10.

Workmen of the Park Department were kept going all day yesterday in cleaning. The park officials declared the condition of the grounds was disgraceful on Monday morning. By noon twenty-five bags of rubbish, papers and fruit skins had been gathered. It was said that the park lawns, where most of the Sunday crowd congregated, were so battered and torn that it will take several days to get them in shape.

The appraisal of the estate of Lorillard Spencer of New York and Newport was filed yesterday. It accounted for assets valued the day of his death, March 14, 1912, at $881,478. Mr. Spencer had his legal residence at Newport, and the only part of his estate taxable under the New York laws was his realty and the personal effects in his house, at 7 East Eighty-sixth Street, valued at $372,148. Under the law, his accounts in New York banks, amounting to $77,574, were exempt from taxation.

Chastellux, Mr. Spencer's Newport home, was valued in the Rhode Island appraisal at $150,000. On this there was a mortgage of $75,000. His holdings, 1,387 shares, in the Illustrated American Publishing Company, of which he was at one time sole owner, were marked as worthless in the Rhode Island appraisal.

Mrs. Caroline S. Spencer, his widow, received bequests amounting to a third of the estate, and his son, Lorillard Spencer, Jr., profited to the same extent. Under the will of his brother, Charles G. Spencer, Lorillard Spencer had received a one-third interest in a farm at the junction of the Boston Post Road and Williamsbridge Road, with injunctions to divide this interest upon his death. The bulk of his interest in the property, which was valued at $240,000, Mr. Spencer gave to his son, directing his executors to convert the remainder into trust funds, of which he gave $25,000 to his grandson and an annuity of $200 to Elsie Lurette of Paris, France, the principal, upon her death, passing to his widow. He also gave to each servant in his employ $100 for each year of such service, and distributed the remainder of his estate in bequests to distant relatives.

RECOVERS $1,500 BROOCH.

Mrs. Jenkins's Advertisement in The Times Leads to Restoration.

Mrs. Spalding Jenkins of Baltimore lost a $1,500 diamond horseshoe brooch on the polo field at Meadow Brook during the match of last Tuesday. Richmond Talbot found it. House Detective McLaughlin of the Plaza put an advertisement in THE TIMES, offering a reward. Mrs. Jenkins got her brooch back and the finder would not accept any recompense.

Mrs. Jenkins came on for the polo matches, and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Stevenson at the Plaza. She first missed her brooch upon arriving at the polo field at Meadow Brook on Tuesday afternoon, when she removed her wrap after the dusty ride in an automobile. Then she came to the conclusion that she had not worn it at all, but had left it at the Plaza, and when she could not find it at the hotel she decided it had been lost there. So the matter was turned over to the house detective, and he put this advertisement in THE TIMES:

> $300 REWARD for diamond horseshoe pin, large size, lost between Plaza Hotel and Meadow Brook Club Polo Field, Westbury, L. I., Tuesday to Friday. Apply J. McL., Jr., Plaza Hotel; no questions asked. J. McLaughlin, Jr.

It happened that Mr. Talbot on Tuesday had picked up the brooch near the west stand, where, it seems, Mrs. Jenkins may have dropped it on the way to her seat. He immediately notified the polo officials, but there had been no inquiries, and it was not until the advertisement appeared in THE TIMES that he had any clue as to the owner.

The pleasures of smoking without its drawbacks—

without "tobacco breath" or nicotine-stained teeth—

Teeth so clean, white and lustrous your smile is an introduction in itself!

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

preserves as well as beautifies them. It overcomes the mouth-acids that with 95 out of 100 cause decayed teeth.

Yes, even as you read this, the acids in your mouth may be little by little eating into the only protection your teeth have —their enamel—till the decay-germs find a weak place, penetrate into the softer interior and utterly destroy the whole tooth.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD FOR BRAZIL'S ENVOY

Dr. Muller and His Suite, Guests of the Nation, Have Arrived at the Knickerbocker.

WILL SEE THE CITY TO-DAY

After Calling on the Mayor Party Will Lunch at the Plaza and Visit Art Museum.

The special Brazilian embassy, headed by Dr. Lauro Severiano Müller, which was sent here to return the visit made to Brazil in 1906 by Elihu Root, then Secretary of State, arrived in New York last night and went to the Hotel Knickerbocker, where the entire ninth floor was reserved for the party. The Special Ambassador and his suite came on from Washington, where they arrived last Wednesday and where they were entertained by the President, the Secretary of State, and other officials of the Government.

Dr. Mueller and his party arrived at the Knickerbocker at 11 o'clock. The approach of the string of automobiles containing them was heralded by a motor cycle sent ahead to clear the path. The confusion of the arrival and the rush of friends to greet the nEvoy brought all Times Square hurrying to the front of the hotel, so that in a twinkling the street was thronged.

When the reporters sent word that it was customary for all distinguished visitors to see them immediately upon their arrival, Dr. Muller replied that he had been waiting for them. Greetings were exchanged all around, with Capt. L. V. Coleman acting as interpreter, as Dr. Mueller spoke in French. The envoy said he had not had time to form an impression of the city.

In Dr. Müller's party are Dr. Helio Lobo, Secretary of the special embassy; Frigate Captain Antonio Sampais, Alberto da Ispanema Moreari, Naval Aid; Capt. Antonia da Fonseca, Military Attaché of the Brazilian Embassy in Washington; Lieut. Euclides Hermes da Fonseca, son of the President of Brazil, Military Aid, and Custodio Alves da Lima, private secretary to the Special Ambassador. The members of the party are the guests of the United States Government, and Dudley Field Malone, Third Assistant Secretary of State, has been assigned to entertain them. American military and naval aids accompany the special embassy.

A long programme has been arranged for the Special Ambassador and his party for their two days' stay in New York. A Reception Committee from the American Manufacturers' Export Association will call upon Dr. Müller this morning, and he and his party will be escorted to the City Hall to call on the Mayor. Next they will be shown around the city in automobiles. This trip will include a visit to the Stock Exchange. Luncheon will be served at the Plaza, and then the visitors will be taken to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The Pan-American Society of the United States, of which Lloyd C. Griscom is President, will give a dinner to the Ambassador and his suite in the main dining room of the Hotel Knickerbocker to-night, and later the party will attend a performance of the Follies at the New Amsterdam Theatre. In honor of the Special Ambassador, the Chamber of Commerce will give a dinner on Wednesday night.

Among the guests at the luncheon at the Plaza to-day will be W. H. Marshall, President of the American Locomotive Company; Alberto da Ispanema Moreira, Secretary of the Brazilian Embassy; F. R. Thorns of John Boyle & Co., John Hays Hammond, Capt. Antonio Sampayo of the Brazilian Navy, M. J. Ferreira da Cunha, Consul General of Brazil; John Purroy Mitchel, Collector of the Port of New York; R. Regis de Oliveira, the newly-appointed Brazilian Minister to Cuba; E. F. Sweet, Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Dr. M. de Moreira, President of the American Manufacturers' Export Association; D. Field Malone, Third Assistant Secretary of State; James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation; J. C. Rodriguez, owner of the Journal de Commercio; Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A.; Capt. Antonio da Fonseca of the Brazilian Army; Alba B. Johnson, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Company; John Barrett, Director General of the Pan-American Union; de Barros Pimentil of the Brazilian Embassy, C. L. Cooke of the State Department, W. J. Marsden of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, and Capt. Woodward, aid to Major Gen. Barry.

While the luncheon to Dr. Müller is in progress, Mrs. M. de Moreira, wife of the President of the Export Association, will entertain the women of the Ambassador's party at luncheon at the Plaza.

DIES TRYING TO SAVE CHUM.

Lad Swims to Rescue and Is Held by Other in Deadly Embrace.

A crowd on the boardwalk at Bergen Beach, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon saw a young man lose his life in a vain attempt to save a chum from drowning in Jamaica Bay. The would-be rescuer was dragged down by the other. Raymond Pyret, 17 years old of 1,229 Van Cortlandt Avenue, Queens, and Edward Adams, 16 years old of 449 Bleecker Street, Brooklyn, were the victims.

Pyret and Adams, with Carl Anderson and Walter Smith, went to Bergen Beach together. The four went into the water, and young Pyret, who was a good swimmer, was showing his friends some tricks. Suddenly there was a cry for help from Adams, who could not swim, and who had waded out beyond his depth. Pyret struck out to the rescue. Adams was making desperate efforts to keep afloat when his friend reached him. Pyret sought to catch hold of Adams to swim with him, but the other seized him in such a way that both sank. John Riordan of Smith Street, Evergreen, who was on the beach, took to the water and dove for the two lads, but failed to reach them.

A launch in command of G. Bjores went out from the Bergen Beach Yacht Club and, using grappling hooks, recovered the bodies.

MRS. G. R. SHELDON DEAD.

Wife of Republican National Treasurer Succumbs After an Operation.

Mrs. Mary E. Seney Sheldon died yesterday after a long illness at her home, 21 East Thirty-eighth Street. She was the wife of George R. Sheldon, the banker and for several years the treasurer of the Republican National Committee. She was the daughter of the late George I. Seney, banker and philanthropist.

Mrs. Sheldon had been ill for many weeks, and on June 4 she was obliged to undergo an operation, which Dr. Joseph A. Blake performed. She rallied for a few days, but recently her life had been despaired of and relatives had been summoned to her bedside. She had planned to sail for Europe with Mrs. Sheldon Fuller on Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. Sheldon was born in the Columbia Heights section of Brooklyn, and after the death of her father she took a personal supervision of his many benefactions. Mrs. Sheldon's own benefactions showed her special interest in music. She reorganized the Philharmonic Society and obtained the services as conductor of Gustav Mahler and Josef Stransky. Many musicales of great distinction were given at the Sheldon home. The Sheldons were married in December, 1881.

OPPOSE CURBS ON WEDLOCK

Boston Health Experts Differ on More Marriage Restrictions.

BOSTON, June 16.—Opposition to further impediments to marriage was expressed by some speakers when the State Boards of Health and Insanity, which are investigating the subject, met in joint session to-day.

Charles H. Adams of the State Board of Charity said that he was not greatly in sympathy with the movement to establish further legal restrictions upon wedlock, though he thought the present agitation would be a good thing from an educational standpoint. He thought that the thing most to be desired was to change the public attitude toward the afflicted. At present, he said, the aim seemed to be to punish those who suffered rather than to assist them to get well.

Dr. Lillian G. Perry of Cambridge feared that legislation along the line proposed would not do much good, but it might do a little toward protecting the innocent party in a marriage.

A contrary view was held, however, by Harold K. Estabrook, who said that twenty years' experience in work among persons of little means had convinced him that there should be further restrictions as to those who might marry.

The Rev. Samuel W. Dike, secretary of the League for the Protection of the Family, suggested that it might be well for the Bureau of Statistics to detail an agent to study all the divorce cases heard in the courts of the State, in order to learn the real causes lying behind the technical reasons for each divorce.

COLLEGE MEN DISHWASHERS

100 Graduates in San Francisco Union, Earning $10 Weekly.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—The 700 men who compose the San Francisco Dishwashers' Union include 100 college graduates. This, it is said, is a greater proportion of college men than can be found in any other labor organization in the country.

The statistics were compiled by two members of the union, one of whom says he is a former instructor in mathematics in an Eastern college. He resigned from that position, he said today, to engage in a small business in Oswego, N. Y.

"Naturally, I do not care to reveal my name," he said. "We present a case of men who have found themselves unable to cope with some of the harsh requirements of life.

"I was absolutely unfitted for business, but I might have succeeded if I had had even a rudimentary knowledge of business affairs. I was unmarried and came West with just enough money to keep me a week. At first I tried rough work, but I was unable to endure the hardships of the men who had never known any other sort of toil. So I became a dishwasher."

The union is said to be the only one of its kind. A dishwasher gets $10 a week.

LIFT BAN ON TURKEY TROT.

Lenox Country Club Yields to Demand for New Dances.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., June 16.—Following the demand for fancy dances in Lenox, the Entertainment Committee of the Country Club of Pittsfield met this afternoon and agreed to allow turkey-trotting and fancy dancing at the clubhouse this Summer. Last year the committee, following "trotting" by a party of Chicagoans, posted a notice putting the ban on all fancy dances.

The Entertainment Committee consists of Mrs. William H. Hall, Chairman; Mrs. W. Murray Crane, Jr., Mrs. George A. Southard, Jr., Mrs. Willard D. Edminster, Mrs. L. Pomeroy Russell, Mrs. John Ritchie, Frances Colt, Charlotte Titus, Mrs. William H. Eaton, Mrs. Brace W. Paddock, Mrs. James W. Hager, Miss Helen Ferry, Mrs. Frank D. Taylor, Mrs. W. S. Smith, and Miss Margaret H. Hall.

KEEP NAVY YARDS BUSY.

Daniels Favors Continuous Building at Those on Atlantic Coast.

BOSTON, June 16.—At least one ship under way at each of the three yards, Boston, New York, and Norfolk, all the time was the naval building programme which Secretary Daniels, who made his first official visit to the Charlestown Navy Yard to-day, said he approved.

"I am convinced that it is bad business policy to have the Government invest $20,000,000 in such a property as this and then practically abandon it," said he. "I am informed by the Commandant and Congressman Roberts that they have the plant and the skilled men to run it, and I favor having the building of ships at Boston, New York, and Norfolk.

"There is very little competition now, because the private builders combine in their bidding for Government work, and this makes the running of the department very expensive. I believe that this yard should have the equipment asked for, if for no other reason than to show the private interests that the Government can do its own work."

KILLED AT ONCE ON NEW JOB

Falls from the Fourth Story of Hospital While Cleaning Windows.

Five minutes after he got a job washing windows at the Presbyterian Hospital yesterday afternoon Charles Zwirner, 20 years old, of 1,489 First Avenue, fell from a window on the fourth floor to the areaway and was instantly killed.

Zwirner applied for work about noon, and, as he appeared greatly in need, saying he had no friends or relatives in this country, a lifebelt and cleaning rags were handed to him and he was told to begin work on the fourth floor. He was resting back on his lifebelt when one of the bolts to which it was attached in the window frame gave way.

The Eye of the Owner

Here is one letter selected from many received from satisfied owners:

Dear Mr. Thompson:

Although you have only been looking after the work on our factory building, now in the course of construction, for about nine weeks, the operations took a marked impetus with the beginning of your supervision.

We are firmly of the belief that had you and your organization been on this work from its inception, the results would have been of far more benefit. However, for the comparatively short time that you have been connected with this work, same has progressed in a most satisfactory manner, and we are glad to express our appreciation of your untiring efforts to accomplish the work which you originally set out to do. Very truly yours, [Signed] SIMON ZINN.

I do not draw the plans. I am not a contractor. My business is the architectural and mechanical supervision of building construction. I represent you, the owner, and I see that you get everything your plans and specifications call for. I have saved money for many owners. I have helped others get their buildings on time.

Write me. Let me send you a specimen of my daily reports. Or telephone me. An interview will place you under no obligation and it is sure to interest you.

BREEDING OF POLO PONIES IS PROMISING

Wyoming Rancher Explains New Possibilities for the Horsemen.

HAVE TO HUNT MOUNTS

American Players, Says W. L. Flanagan, Have to Pick Them Up Wherever They Can.

While the international polo games of last week did not demonstrate the superiority of American polo ponies to those of English origin—rather the opposite, some think—the result ought to be a great impetus to the breeding of polo ponies in this country, according to William L. Flanagan, formerly of New York, but now of the F. F. Ranch, near Sheridan, Wyo., who came East about two months ago with a string of 100 ponies.

"The systematic raising of polo ponies is a new thing in this country," said Mr. Flanagan at the Vanderbilt yesterday. "In the United States we have about 22,500,000 horses. If we cannot mount our own team there must be something wrong. Yet of the ponies which were on hand for the American team's use, less than one-half were American bred. There were forty to fifty for Saturday's game, and I should say that of the number actually used, fewer than half were American ponies by breeding.

"Even now there are only two or three persons who are breeding polo ponies. I have been in the business only three years, so that none of my own are ready yet, and those I brought on to New York were ponies I had picked up at different places.

"While I don't believe many Western men will admit it, there is a great scarcity of American polo ponies just now. The demand is far greater than the supply of good material. We are in an experimental stage. I have been breeding the same thoroughbred stallion to a number of different types of mares in order to get the best result. To my mind we shall eventually get a good type of pony by crossing a thoroughbred stallion with a mare three-quarters thoroughbred and one-quarter range horse. Perhaps after fifteen or twenty years we shall succeed in coming down to a type. Of course the first crossing might accidentally give results, but it would not be possible to obtain a consistent type therefrom. One trouble about the supply of American ponies offered is that so much inferior stuff is shoved off on legitimate buyers.

"No, Burlingame, Cal., is not the only big polo centre in the Far West. The game is played to a surprising extent through the Rocky Mountain States. Every once and a while you run upon a little colony of former New Yorkers, Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen, and in such a case you will find polo. We have an excellent team in our neighborhood, of which Malcolm Moncreiffe is the Captain. In Wyoming there are still many horse ranches, though these are not going in for breeding thoroughbreds so much as formerly. On a ranch where a few years ago they might run a racing stud with 1,200 or 1,500 horses they are now turning out draught animals, though these are usually general utility horses, and the result is too many of one kind and not enough really high-grade draught horses.

SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE

The old time but wise merchant once in every six months disposed of, at one price or another, every article on his shelves that bore the stamp of the season.

To-day, with Fashion's more rapidly changing pulse, the wisdom of the former day custom becomes more apparent and necessary.

We stick to the old custom! Twice a year, some time in June and January, we hold a General Clearance Sale—but we go the old time merchant "one better"—not only getting rid of merchandise of the season's fashion whims, but also closing out what is known as "Staples."

That is, standard articles of all the year round use, such as Table Linens, Towels, Hosiery and the like.

Thus we are able to carry out our resolve to open each new season with the largest and most varied stock of fresh merchandise in patterns or styles that have but the imprint of the last minute.

This Season's General Clearance Sale Begins To-day and Continues from Day to Day

Thousands of seasonable articles for personal or household use—for utility or adornment. The opportunity to save many a dollar is now yours. Every department contributes largely for this occasion. Space permits only the mention of a small part daily.

NEWS BY THE MAYOR WITH HIS COMMENTS

A Few Remarks on J. Hampden Dougherty and His $5,000 Verdict Against the City.

THE BILLS OF GOOD CITIZENS

Astonishing, Says the Mayor, How Quick These Are to Turn Up with Big Bills for 'So-Called Services.'

Mayor Gaynor was asked yesterday if there was any news. This was his reply:

"Any news to-day, you ask me. Yes, and it is right under all of our noses. Did you never hear of a man who calls himself J. Hampden Dougherty? He seldom knows exactly how to vote. Unless a man actually treads the solar walk and milky way of the heavens he is not nice enough for J. Hampden to vote for. I understand his name is Joseph H. Dougherty, a good honest name, but he is not satisfied with it, and that is how he comes to call himself J. Hampden Dougherty.

"But all I meant to say about him was that for several days he has been suing the city in the Supreme Court, and the jury rendered to-day a verdict in his favor of $5,000. He sued the city on two counts, one for $40,000 for that taxpayers' action in the matter of acquiring the Croton iron mine up in the Croton watershed, which he brought to help the Corporation Counsel out. I thought he was doing it to help the city from being fleeced.

"The other count was for $7,500 for helping to draft and revise the new charter which was before the Legislature two years ago. He worked like a Trojan helping to draw it and finish it up. But, lo, and behold, one day I picked up the papers and found he had gone up to the City Club and made a great speech denouncing the Mayor and the charter and everybody connected with it.

"But that did not prevent him from afterward bringing a suit for $7,500 for helping to draw it up.

"The court pitched this claim entirely out. And the jury reduced his estimate of $40,000 for his services in the other case to $5,000, and even that was allowed only after a hard tussle. Isn't it astonishing how these people who love the city so much that they want to help it as good citizens, turn up with such big bills for so-called services every chance they get? I suppose we will hear from J. Hampden this Fall again in the municipal campaign. He will be able to see no virtue anywhere within the horizon except right at his own elbows or in his own looking glass."

The Mayor would not discuss his own political future. Since his announcement that he would accept a nomination from the Fusionists or that he might run for Mayor again on a petition, he has received many letters from citizens expressing the hope that he will be in the race this Fall.

The fact that George W. Perkins called upon the Mayor at the City Hall yesterday led to the rumor that the Progressives were considering the feasibility of nominating the Mayor. It was denied, however, that politics had anything to do with the visit.

CONSULAR JOBS BY MERIT.

Mason's Resignation Causes Wilson to Indicate His Attitude.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The resignation of Frank H. Mason, Consul General and special commercial expert at Paris, has led President Wilson and Secretary Bryan to indicate the policy of the Administration in filling high places in the Consular Service. Mr. Mason has been in the service 33 years. The vacancy will probably be filled by promotion.

In a statement, issued from the State Department to-day, Mr. Bryan says that the President has had under consideration the matter of appointments to the Consular Service and has authorized him to say:

"The civil service was by an executive order issued June 27, 1906, extended to the Consular Service, and the President is entirely in sympathy with the purpose which the order was intended to subserve. He believes that Consular appointments should be made upon examination and that promotions should be made upon merits. If vacancies occur they will be filled from within the service, where this can be done without injury to the service. If a vacancy occurs in one of the higher positions, and he does not at the time find within the service a person entirely qualified to fill such position, he will feel at liberty to exercise the right vested in him to suspend the executive order in respect to that particular appointment, but such an appointment will be an exception to the rule, and will be made only when he is convinced that the good of the service clearly requires such an exception."

MITCHELL CASE IS HEARD.

Court of Appeals Takes Labor Appointment Under Advisement.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 16.—The Court of Appeals heard arguments to-day in the case to test the Governor's right to appoint John Mitchell State Labor Commissioner during a recess of the Legislature. By advice of Attorney General Carmody, Controller Sohmer had refused to pay Mr. Mitchell any salary, on the ground that the Governor was not within his rights in naming Mr. Mitchell.

For Mr. Mitchell, D-Cady Herrick argued that there was no vacancy occurring or existing in the office while the Legislature was in session, and gave many citations in support of his contention. He said that the Governor was making only a temporary appointment to expire twenty days after the next meeting of the Senate, and that upon such an appointment the advice and consent of the Senate were not intended to be required.

Attorney General Carmody contended that the office was vacant during the sitting of the Senate, and that upon two separate occasions the Governor had attempted to fill it by sending to the Senate Mr. Mitchell's name. He pointed to the fact that, as the Governor could summon the Senate to convene at any time to pass upon his appointments, the public was completely safeguarded.

The court took the papers, reserving decision.

HELD ON CHECK CHARGE.

Spencer Said to be Wanted for Swindles in Boston.

Detective Lieut. Boyle of the West Thirtieth Street Station and Assistant Supt. Donnelly of the Pinkerton Agency arrested a man yesterday whom they accused of having passed worthless checks in amounts totaling several thousands. At the police station the prisoner said he was John Spencel of Mills Hotel No. 3, at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street.

The checks complained of were all drawn on the Boylston National Bank of Boston. In Boston and New York, the police say, Spencer gave worthless checks in payment of hotel bills and to business men to whom he represented himself as a buyer or promoter. He refused to talk in the police station.

TOO WARM FOR ROWING.

Crews on Thames Only Paddle Around to Keep on Edge for Races.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 16.—Light work from now until race day was the announcement regarding the attitude of coaches toward the Yale oarsmen. The men are trained down to the finest point and no further hard work is required. The past few days of warm weather has been beneficial, excepting to-day, when it was too warm for training.

With the exception of Gore, the 'Varsity bow, all of the oarsmen are in fine trim. His rowing Saturday reopened the cut in his finger, which it had been attempted to heal by keeping him out of the boat for the two previous days. Titus of the second four rowed in Gore's seat to-day when the boat went out for a mile and a half row in easy stretches. None of the men, according to to-day's weighing, have lost weight since coming to the quarters.

Fred W. Allen, Chairman of the Yale Advisory Rowing Committee, and Payne Whitney, an associate on that committee, arrived at Broad View this afternoon.

RED TOP, Conn., June 16.—It was very warm on the Thames River to-day and the Harvard 'Varsity eight and freshman eight were permitted only to paddle slowly for short stretches. The 'Varsity four had racing starts over a mile and a half of water. The second 'Varsity four and the freshman four worked out on starts by themselves, in which the older oarsmen had the better of the argument.

President Hears Lecture on Scott.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Wilson went to the Belasco Theatre this hot night to hear the illustrated lecture on Capt. Scott's south polar expedition. With him were Miss Eleanor Wilson, Miss Bones, Miss Brown, and Prof. Stockton Axson of Princeton University, Mrs. Wilson's brother. Mrs. Wilson attended a public welfare meeting at the residence of Arthur Jeffrey Parsons.

PENNSYLVANIA BOAT WRECKS WISCONSIN

Quaker Four, Rowing Time Trial, Crashes Into Westerners Crossing Course.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 16.—A serious smash-up occurred between the Pennsylvania and Wisconsin fours on the Hudson this morning, the Quaker oarsmen just escaping going down in the wrecked shell. The Syracuse coaching launch was near the scene of the mishap, and went at full speed to the rescue of the Pennsylvania oarsmen, taking two aboard the launch and towing the remains of the shell to the float. The entire deck of the Quaker boat was ripped off, while the offending Badger shell suffered but little damage.

The fault of the collision lay with the Wisconsin oarsmen, who were resting at their oars in mid-stream waiting for swells from the ferryboat to subside. When the steersman in the Pennsylvania four looked around the Quakers were going over the course in a time row and had the full right of way. The Badgers, however, tried to cut across with disastrous result. Coach Vail immediately afterward offered to the Pennsylvania oarsmen the use of an extra four-oared shell which the Badgers used in 1905, when they last had a four entered in the intercollegiate regatta.

The Quakers were not the only ones to feel the effects of Blue Monday, however. Coach Courtney found his oarsmen in a decided slump when he took them out on the river this morning, the first coach to send out his men for the morning practice. He found them rowing off form, and so decided to send them down over the course for a hard time row in the morning to try and work it out of them. The result was the red and white 'Varsity eight showed a minute and three seconds slower than in their former trial, according to a statement made by Coach Courtney when he returned to the float. He refused to divulge the time of the row, but he was not pleased with it. The trouble seems to be in the forward part of the boat, the bow four not rowing in as good shape as the stern four who are up to the true Cornell form. This slump will mean that the Ithacan crew will have plenty of hard work for the next two days to get them back into top form.

Coach Rice went after his 'Varsity four this morning, making further changes in its boating order. Laubor was taken from No. 3 and his place filled by Cronenberg. The four is now rowing Herkert, bow; Sanborn, 2; Cronenberg, 3, and MacCarthy, stroke. Coach Rice feared the heat, which kept the thermometer up around 100 degrees most of the day, and gave his crews light work above the boathouse. He tried no time trials.

The Washington eight had a trial over the course this morning and did not show up as well as they did a few nights ago, when the conditions were peculiarly favorable for fast time. They covered the second mile in 11:10 and the entire distance in 21:36, as against 19:28 in their former trial. Coach Connibear did not seem very much perturbed, blaming the slower time to the heat and a slight head wind, which, however, was hardly perceptible.

Two of the Syracuse freshmen, Bassett and Moore, are suffering severely from boils. They became so serious last night that Coach Ten Eyck had them sent to the Vassar Brothers' hospital in this city, where they were treated. Bassett seemed better this evening, and was sent out in the first year eight, but Moore will be kept off the boat until to-morrow evening. The Orange crews were sent over the course this evening, despite the heat, and seemed to be making fast time. Coach Ten Eyck, following his custom, would not give out the time, but he seemed satisfied with the work.

The Wisconsin crews held a time trial this morning, picking up their freshmen eight at the two-mile mark and beating them out by a wide margin. This was better than the Quaker 'Varsity did in their time trial, the youngsters beating out the veteran eight by a length of open water.

AUGUST BELMONT HOST TO POLOISTS

August Belmont was the host last night at an informal dinner in the Meadow Brook Club which he tendered to members of the American and English polo teams, who last week took part in the international struggle for the world's championship, and a number of other sportsmen to the number of forty-four, all of whom were men well known in the polo world.

The banquet room of the club was tastefully decorated with the light blue of Meadow Brook, the blue and white of the Polo Association, and the dark blue of the Hurlingham Club, under whose auspices the challengers made the invasion.

The dinner board was in the shape of a horseshoe and so arranged as to provide twenty-six seats on the outer rim, seventeen on the inner side, and one at each of the ends.

There were no set speeches, the function taking the form of a general good time, in which winners and losers were felicitated and condoled with. Among those in attendance, aside from the host, were: Harry Payne Whitney, Captain of the American team; Devereux Milburn, Louis E. Stoddard, James M. Waterbury, Jr., Rene La Montagne, members of the winning team; Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape, Capt. Vivian Lockett, Capt. R. G. Ritson (Captain of the English team), F. M. Freake, Capt. A. Noel Edwards, Lord Wodehouse and Capt. E. D. Miller, all of the challenging division; H. L. Herbert, Chairman of the Polo Association; William A. Hazard, Secretary; August Belmont, Jr., James A. Burden, John G. Milburn, Jr., J. Watson Webb, Joseph G. Grace, W. Goadby Loew, Morgan Belmont, Oliver W. Bird, Seward Cary, Thomas Cary, H. C. Phipps, J. Newton Scatchard, F. Ambrose Clark, Hamilton Hadden, John E. Cowdin, Frank Gray Griswold, S. A. Warner Baltazzi, James Park, Henry F. Godfrey, Charles L. Appleton, Fred H. Prince, Foxhall P. Keene, Allan Pinkerton, Joseph B. Thomas, Surrogate John J. Graham, Thomas Le Boutellier 2d, Joseph S. Stevens, Fred H. Prince, Jr., Malcolm Stevenson and Philip Stevenson.

NO POLO REBATES.

Rumor That Team Sponsors Were to be Reimbursed Not Verified.

No information was vouchsafed yesterday as to what disposition would be made of the vast amount of money which accrued as the "gate" at the two world's championship games at Meadow Brook last week. Rumors to the effect that rebates to both the Duke of Westminster and Harry Payne Whitney for part of their expenditures on behalf of the English and American teams would be given those sportsmen could not be verified.

It is known that the cost of the English invasion was borne solely by the Duke of Westminster, and those who are in close touch with his plans for the future in relation to the lifting of the cup anticipate that a challenge for next year will be forthcoming directly he has had an opportunity to confer with his standard bearers who were recently defeated.

It was stated yesterday that, although Mr. Whitney had spent a small fortune on behalf of the most recent successful defense of the cup, it was not he alone who was behind the financial gun, and that if any rebates were to be given and accepted more than Mr. Whitney would be participants.

The American and English poloists contended themselves yesterday with a little knockabout work with no organized line-ups in either case, and all appeared to have fully recovered from the strenuous play of last Saturday. With the exception of Lord Wodehouse all the members of the English team will leave for home on Thursday on the White Star liner Adriatic.

University Accepts Carnegie Gift.

NASHVILLE, June 16.—The trustees of Vanderbilt University to-day unreservedly accepted the recent gift of Andrew Carnegie of $1,000,000 to the medical department. For the Governing Board of seven provided for in the deed of gift Henry S. Pritchett of New York, President of the Carnegie Foundation, was the only one announced to-day.

GREAT NECK POLO STARTS.

Cooperstown Leopards Defeat Freebooters, 9½ Goals to 6¼.

The first polo match in the Great Neck challenge cup tournament was played at Great Neck yesterday, the Cooperstown Leopards defeating the Great Neck Freebooters by a score of 9½ to 6¼. The Leopards were handicapped at 13, and the Freebooters at 11.

At times the play of the Leopards was fast, and Rene La Montagne, playing No. 2, scored six goals for his team. On the Freebooters were Hobbs and Burke, players from California. Each team was penalized half a point for fouls, and the Freebooters also lost ¼ of a point on a safety.

The challenge cup tournaments began in 1908, and the trophy will become the property of the team winning it three times. The Great Neck team has won it twice. The second game will be played to-day between the Great Neck and Cooperstown teams. The lineup and summary:

SIMPLEX

A Limited Output

The production of Simplex chassis is limited and always will be, for the reason that the principle around which our entire business fabric is constructed is Quality. The smaller the production, the more careful the inspection, the more rigid the test and the more satisfied the owner.

Experience has shown that for the past three years we have been compelled to refuse orders in the Spring and Fall seasons because of shortage of cars for quick delivery.

From the orders for Fall delivery now in hand it would indicate that the same condition will prevail when the next season opens, and consequently we would impress on prospective purchasers the advisability of ordering now so that their preferences and requirements may be entirely satisfied, in addition to obtaining prompt delivery at the time specified.

GIANTS AND SUPERBAS WIN--YANKEES LOSE TO DETROIT--METROPOLITAN LAWN TENNIS--GOLF

YANKEES BLOW UP IN NINTH INNING

Del Gainer's Long Drive Puts Tigers on Winning End at Polo Grounds.

Hughey Jennings, Ty Cobb, and Del Gainer closed their first visit to the Polo Grounds yesterday by grabbing off a victory when the Yanks and some 4,000 fans were fully satisfied that the game was ready for insertion in the Yankee win column. Gainer is mentioned in company with the more illustrious Tigers because his timely stickwork again buried the Chance men in defeat as it did on Saturday last. Taking Gainer's work out of the series it would be difficult to locate the Tigers at all. The final score was 5 to 3.

The Tiger first sacker had the distinction of driving in the only run in the first game with a sacrifice fly. In the second game a solid smash by Del was responsible for the only two runs picked up by the Jungaleers. In Saturday's game his triple blasted the Yankee hopes in the tenth inning after he had previously figured in three of the five runs scored by the Tigers during the regulation period of play. Yesterday it was a colossal clout to the right field gate that Gainer inserted into the matinée with the Yanks one run ahead and a Tiger runner resting on first base. All told Gainer figured with his bat in nine of the fourteen runs which the Tigers picked during the series. Ty and Sam, regarded as the bulk of the Tiger attack, were completely overshadowed by Gainer throughout the series.

"Get Ty out of the way" was the advice to Schulz when the noted Georgian started Detroit's half of the ninth inning. With Cobb properly shelved the rest was considered easy, as the Yanks went into the last frame with a 3 to 2 score in their favor. Ty was easy enough with a grounder to Peckinpaugh for an out at first base. Then the trouble began. Veach hit along the ground to Borton, and just as the New York first baseman was ready to take the ball on an easy bound it struck a pebble and shot above his head for a single. Manager Jennings immediately removed Veach from the game and substituted Lefty High as pinch runner. Even then Yankee hopes ran high.

"At-a-boy, Del, youcandoit, e-yah, touch all the bases," sang out the peppery Tiger chieftain from the coacher's box, and the rooters yelled back notice to Hughey that it was all off with the Tigers. But Gainer followed the boss's instructions to the letter and he touched 'em all before going back to the bench. Incidentally he also furnished the excuse for High to touch 'em all, clouting one of Heinie Schulz's twisters high and far away to the right field gate. Bert Daniels and Harry Wolter started toward the fence almost as soon as the ball was hit, but they could not get it back in time to flag the fast-stepping Gainer, and the apparent defeat of two minutes before had been turned into a Tiger victory. After the big hit had put the Yanks in the rear they cut loose with three errors that pushed George Moriarty around the bases with a run that was not needed. Up to the ninth inning Chance's men had played errorless ball.

The fifth inning was the only time that the Yanks showed any activity with the stick. In this frame they pushed three runs across with three of their four hits, a pass, and a sacrifice. In the other eight innings not a Yankee got to second base. In the fifth Hartzell led off with a single to right field and Derrick walked. After McKechnie had advanced both with a sacrifice Sweeney bounced a sizzling grounder off Vitt's shins and both scored. Bert Daniels chased Sweeney home with a triple to right field after Schulz had fanned for the second out. Bert was stranded at third.

The Tigers got their first two runs in the sixth inning on Stanage's scratch hit past Derrick, a pass to Dubuc, Bush's single to left, and Vitt's infield out. In the opening inning Crawford was thrown out at the plate trying to get a home run on a hit to deep right centre field. Schulz was in trouble in both the seventh and eighth innings, but escaped safely each time. Keating succeeded Schulz with one out in the ninth. The score:

Wood Wins His Own Game.

BOSTON, June 16.—Boston made it four straight on St. Louis to-day, winning a twelve-inning contest by a score of 3 to 2. It was a pitchers' battle between Wood and Leverenz, with the hits evenly divided. Wood drove in the winning run with a sharp single, scoring Engle, who had walked and gone to third on Wallace's wild throw to second when Wagner bunted. The score:

Plank Outpitches Falkenberg.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The Philadelphia team defeated Cleveland in the last game of the series to-day by the score of 3 to 2. The game was a pitching duel between Falkenberg and Plank, and the Athletic southpaw had the better of the argument by nine to six hits, and two of the nine were for extra bases and both were turned into runs. On the other hand, the only pass that Plank gave resulted in a run, while neither of the two issued by Falkenberg was costly. The home team won the game by collecting two hits in both the seventh and eighth innings. The score:

Senators Support Groom Poorly.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—McBride's error in the third inning after two were out to-day paved the way for Chicago to score two runs and win the final game from Washington and secure an even break on the series. The score was 4 to 1. Russell and Bodie later in the game making home runs. Washington's only tally was scored on Henry's double and Groom's triple. Both Russell and Groom pitched good ball, but the support of the latter was very poor. Foster, who has been out of the game seven weeks with typhoid fever, resumed his position to-day and had three errors on as many chances. The score:

Home Run Demoralizes Cornell.

HANOVER, N. H., June 16.—Dartmouth defeated Cornell in a loosely played game to-day by a score of 11 to 8. With two men on bases in the eighth inning and the score 8 to 3 in favor of Cornell, Donahue, the Green's second baseman, made a home run. This demoralized the visitors, and five more runs were scored before the third man was put out. Taber, shortstop for the visitors, made four errors in the eighth inning. The score.

Lafayette Defeats Pennsylvania.

EASTON, Penn., June 16.—Lafayette won a hard fought game with Pennsylvania this afternoon when Capt. Fager hit for a home run in the ninth inning, sending brown in ahead of him and make the final score 10 to 9. Lyons started to pitch for Pennsylvania, but was hit hard and was relieved by Imlay in the sixth. Fager for Lafayette was wild in the early innings, but improved later in the game. The score

ERRORS AID GIANTS IN REDLAND VICTORY

Marquard and Suggs Quite Effective, but Rube Gets Better Support in Field.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 16.—McGraw and his husky Giant pennant chasers swooped down upon Cincinnati to-day and took the first game of the series by the score of 4 to 2.

Grasping every opportunity and shoving through every opening, the Giants soon piled up a lead of three runs, and then, for good measure, dropped in another one.

Suggs kept the visitors' hits pretty well scattered. When the Giants did get more than one, a costly error always figured in the scoring.

On the other hand, Rube Marquard pitched superb ball, and while he was touched up pretty lively, the Reds could do nothing with his offerings in the pinches, when hits meant runs.

The Giants started things in the first, when Burns, the first man up, was safe on Berghammer's error. He was soon retired when Shafer hit into a double play. The Reds could do nothing with Marquard in their half.

Real hostilities began in the second inning, and when the smoke had cleared away the Giants were two runs to the good. Doyle opened the inning with a fly to left. Merkle singled and scored when Bates fumbled Murray's double, the New York left fielder bringing up at third. Big Chief popped to right. Murray scored when Snodgrass singled and the latter was thrown out by a quick relay to the infield, when he overran first.

The Reds got a man on base in the second inning, when Groh walked and then stole second. The Giants went out in order in the third. The Reds got their first hits in this round when Suggs beat out a slow one to third, took second on a wild throw, and came across when Bates singled. The fourth was unproductive of runs on either side.

With one man out in the fifth, Murray fouling to Almeida, Meyers hit down to Groh at second. The ball took a bad bound and got away from the former Giant, and the Indian got a single. Snodgrass hit into left for one base, sending Meyers to second. A wild throw by Suggs advanced the runners a base. Marquard grounded to Groh, who got the Rube at first, while the Big Chief scored the third run. Burns was an easy out, Berghammer getting his throw to first in time to nip the runner. One hit was the Reds' share of the same inning.

A double steal that failed spoiled the Giants' chances to make the score larger in the sixth. Shafer singled over second. He went to second when Fletcher sacrificed. Doyle was safe when Groh fumbled his easy roller. A double steal was attempted as Merkle fanned. Doyle started to second. Clarke threw to Berghammer, who promptly relayed to the catcher in time to nip Shafer.

The Giants got two hits in the seventh, but did not tally. The Reds got a run in the same inning on two singles and Murray's fumble. With two runs over and Clarke on third, with one out, Devore was sent in to run for the catcher and Kling to bat for Suggs. Marquard pulled himself out of the hole when Kling fouled out and Bescher died easily on a grounder.

Johnson succeeded Suggs in the eighth, and Shafer greeted him with a single. Johnson threw wild on Fletcher's bunt, Shafer coming in with the last run of the game. The score:

WILSON TO AID BALL TEAMS.

Will Request Diplomatic Corps to Facilitate Four of American Nines.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—When James J. Callahan of the Chicago American Baseball Club, called on President Wilson to-day to explain the proposed world tour of the White Sox and the New York Giants, Mr. Wilson expressed his approval not only because he said he considered himself a baseball fan, but because he thought the movement might result in the creation of an international league in a large sense.

President Wilson promised that through official channels every courtesy would be extended to the baseball teams abroad, and that Consuls and the Diplomatic Corps would facilitate the journey. The trip begins next November, and will include visits to the Philippines, Japan, China, Australia, Egypt, France, and Ireland. The teams will return about March 1, 1914.

Pittsburgh Loses to Boston.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., June 16.—Pittsburgh lost its fourth straight game by a one-run margin this afternoon, Boston winning, 6 to 5. Camnitz and Hendrix were hit when hits meant runs, the former's wildness bringing the latter into the game in the midst of the fourth inning. Rudolph, in addition to pitching good ball, had two timely singles and scored two runs himself. With two men out in the third inning, Camnitz walked two and hit another. McDonald then singled, scoring two runners. Clarke used all his pinch hitters, including himself, but not one made good against Rudolph. In the eighth inning, after Mann's wild throw had given Pittsburgh one run, Wagner was left on third, though he had reached that station on the error with none out. The score:

CHICAGO, June 16.—Chicago to-day defeated Philadelphia in the first appearance of the league leaders here this season. The score was 13 to 3. Incidentally, the visitors' lead was cut down a full game, inasmuch as New York won from Cincinnati. Cheney pitched invincible ball in the pinches for Chicago, while the locals found Alexander easy at critical times. The Philadelphia star retired after five innings, when Chicago held a commanding lead. Three other pitchers were thrown into the breach by Manager Dooin, but they were unable to stop the scoring. Marshall, a recruit pitcher, walked five men in a row in the seventh inning after Mitchell had made a circuit clout to the club house. Zimmerman ended the inning by striking out with the bases full. Philadelphia used seventeen men. The weather was too hot for good baseball and neither team played with much snap. Bridwell was chased to the club house in the eighth for disputing the umpire's decision. The score:

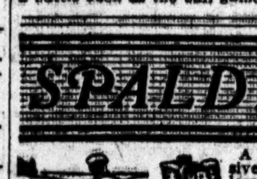
Harvard Nine on Yale Field.

NEW HAVEN, June 16.—The Harvard baseball team, which will play Yale to-morrow, arrived this afternoon. Most of the men were taken to the field for practice and to get accustomed to the surroundings. The team then went to Morris Cove to spend the night, an ideal spot for a quiet night before a battle such as the ball game here usually is.

SPALDING



A player of extensive vocabulary, but less proficient at the Royal and Ancient Game, was flattered one day by the size of the "gallery."

"I hope," he said, "I play well enough to reward you."

"It isn't just that," one replied. "We came to hear you."

The Spalding Golf line contains a great variety of clubs. A personal selection will undoubtedly go far toward making friends with "Colonel Bogey."

Some specialties—

"Monel Metal" clubs won't rust; 40 styles. Each, $2.50.

"Jacobus-Rigden" clubs have a triple insert where the impact comes. Each, $4.00.

RUCKER WEATHERS STORM AT ST. LOUIS

Cardinals Pound Him Hard in Fourth Inning, but He Pulls Himself Together and Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16.—Brooklyn, by amassing twenty hits for a total of twenty-five bases, won to-day's game with ease from the Cardinals by the score of 10 to 5. To do this it was necessary for the visiting team to overcome a five-run lead the Cardinals had piled up in the fourth inning, when they got to Rucker for the only time during the game.

Both pitchers, Sallee and Burk, proved easy picking for the Brooklyn sluggers, although the latter got only a slight chance in the box, being allowed to pitch to only one batter, Smith.

Rucker looked as if he were in a bad hole in the fourth inning, when the Cardinals found his slants easy, but after that he tightened up and won in a romp.

In the fourth inning Oakes, first man up, was hit by a pitched ball. Mowrey tripled, Koney singled, Evans singled, O'Leary was safe, and McLean also reached first in safety. During this batting rally Oakes, Mowrey, Koney, Evans, and O'Leary scored. This ended St. Louis' chances.

In the fifth Brooklyn started after Sallee and got one run across on a triple by Daubert and O. Miller's single.

But the real fireworks occurred in the sixth, when on six hits five runs came across the pan. Moran, Cutshaw, Stengel, Wheat, Daubert, and Smith each singled, and Fisher's sacrifice fly put over the runs scored.

In the seventh Moran again started the inning as Brooklyn batted around in the sixth, but this time he failed to connect and proved an easy out for O'Leary and Koney. Then Cutshaw singled and Stengel and Wheat did likewise, one run being scored. A quick double play on Daubert's line drive to Harmon resulted in Stengel being caught at third base.

In the eighth and ninth innings three runs were added. In the eighth singles by Fisher and O. Miller and Moran's double brought in two, while in the ninth Stengel's triple and Wheat's single added the last count. The line-up:

Hour Race at Brighton Beach.

Entries closed last night for the one-hour national championship event on the Motordrome at Brighton Beach to-morrow night, and the field which will start in the blue-ribbon long-distance race of the year is composed of the best talent that is racing here. Arthur Chapple of New York, Ray Vedits of Philadelphia, Mike Costello of New Rochelle, Johnny Cox of New York, George Sperl of Brooklyn, Hartley Thomas of Philadelphia, Martin Kessler of Newark, Frank Krebs and Billy Hagan of Brooklyn have signed to compete in the race. Last year's event went to Billy Wray of Brooklyn after a hard fight with the late Johnny Albright for fifty minutes, the winner covering 51 miles in the time. This year the record should go to at least 75 miles if the class of racing that ruled in the fifty-mile race last week can be counted on again.

Le Doux to Box Campia June 24.

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Charles Le Doux, French bantamweight champion, who will meet Eddie Campia, the Pacific Coast champion, on the night of June 24 in a twenty-round encounter, took up light training to-day. Le Doux arrived in Los Angeles last night.

NEW RECORD IN GOLF.

Van Vleck Covers Huntington Valley Course in 75 Strokes.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—C. E. Van Vleck of the Montclair Golf Club established a new amateur record for the Huntington Valley Country Club's links to-day when he covered the course in 75 strokes in the qualifying round of the annual tournament for the Lynnewood Hall Cup. Although Jerome D. Travers, who has two legs on the cup, was unable to compete, more than 100 golfers, including many from out of town, teed off in the medal round.

The former record for the course was held by H. B. McFarland, R. Mott, and W. L. Thompson of the home club, each having made the course in 76 strokes. Van Vleck was formerly a star on the Yale University golf team.

The scores of those who qualified for the first sixteen were: C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., Montclair, 75; E. Satterthwaite, Bala, 77; C. B. Buxton, Huntington Valley, 79; J. P. Burleigh, Philadelphia Country Club, 80; S. E. Sharwood, Merion, 80; H. B. MacFarland, Huntingdon Valley, 81; H. H. Francine, Huntingdon Valley, 81; J. A. McCurdy, Overbrook, 82; R. W. Steele, Merion, 82; G. A. Pope, Baltimore, 82; Dr. J. I. Hay, Whitemarsh, 83; B. W. Corkran, Baltimore, 83; W. L. Thompson, Huntingdon Valley, 83; H. T. Cook, Trenton, 83; H. B. Heyburn, Louisville, 83, and H. C. McCall, Philadelphia Country Club, 85.

NEWS FOR THE GOLFERS.

In addition to several one-day tournaments now being arranged for the next two or three weeks, the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association has been invited by the Deal Golf and Country Club to hold a competition lasting over two days, June 23 and 24, according to an announcement made yesterday. Conditions governing the tournament have not been given out as yet.

Competitors in the invitation tournament of the Glenwood Country Club who qualified for match play last Saturday will tee up in the first match round to-day. The second round will be run off this afternoon with the semi-final and finals to-morrow. All rounds will be at eighteen holes. This method is used so as to permit a man to be away from business only two days instead of three. The draw for the first round follows:

D. H. Tobey, Nassau, the medalist, vs. Harold Godwin, Glenwood; Eben Storer, Nassau, vs. J. W. Haulenbeck, Glenwood; H. C. Severence, Glenwood, vs. J. H. Higgins, Glenwood; Donald McKellar, Midland, vs. H. E. Sayre, Nassau; C. H. Sayre, Nassau, vs. G. W. Beckel, Glenwood; Howard Smithers, Glenwood, vs. D. J. Evans, Glenwood; L. E. K. White, Glenwood, vs. W. S. Silkworth, Glenwood; W. J. Ryan, Glenwood, vs. C. L. Boone, Chevy Chase.

Word has just reached this country of a fine round by Jack McDermott, the American open champion, over the Mid-Surrey links, England. McDermott and Tom McNamara, the metropolitan open champion, played against M. J. Brady, another American, and H. Fry in a four-ball match, the first pair winning by 4 up and 3 to play. McDermott's 68 was within two strokes of the record, held by J. H. Taylor. His card:

In [illegible]—37—68

Apawamis will be the scene of one of the important competitions of the year, beginning on Thursday, when a thirty-six-hole qualifying round will be run off, followed by a match play on Friday and Saturday. A year ago Oswald Kirkby of Englewood won the chief cup, and he is expected to try to repeat again this season. Jerome D. Travers, the national amateur champion, has sent in his entry and probably will be among the competitors.

The links of the Garden City Golf Club will be in first-class condition for the national amateur championship in September, for the club has spent considerably more than $25,000 on improvements, the most important of which is the piping of the entire fairway.

Cranford golfers have issued a schedule of events for both men and women up to and including Nov. 15. The club championship for the men will get under way Aug. 23 with a qualifying round and subsequent match play, while the women will begin their titular competition Sept. 3 with a medal play qualifying round and match play to follow.

George Coburn, the professional of the Glenwood Country Club, recently established a record for that course by going round in 74. He was out in 37 and back in the same figures. The distance for the links is more than 6,400 yards.

Kings County Wins at Tennis.

A decisive victory over the Poughkeepsie Tennis Club was scored last Saturday by the Kings County Tennis Club on the clay courts at Poughkeepsie. The New York players won five out of six matches played. Homer W. Guernsey, the Hudson River champion, was the only undefeated member of the Poughkeepsie team. By his consistent steadiness and ability to make seemingly impossible returns he defeated Henry W. Mollenhauer, Kings County, 6—1, 6—4. The summaries:

Singles.—Homer W. Guernsey, Poughkeepsie, defeated H. W. Mollenhauer, Kings County, 6—1, 6—4; F. W. Anderson, Kings County, defeated Eugene C. Kelley, Poughkeepsie, 6—2, 6—1; Charles Chambers, Kings County, defeated R. G. Guernsey, Poughkeepsie, 6—1, 6—2; W. R. McCarroll, Kings County, defeated A. R. Downing, Poughkeepsie, 6—1, 6—0.

Doubles.—R. K. Tomlin, Jr., and B. H. Dwight, Kings County, defeated Dr. J. T. Harrington and I. Platt, Poughkeepsie, 6—0, 4—6, 6—4; J. T. Allen and R. G. Langdon, Kings County, defeated Homer W. Guernsey and L. J. Magenis, Poughkeepsie, 1—6, 6—1, 7—5.

EWING DEFEATS SMITH AT TENNIS

Seventh Regiment Expert Receives Setback in Metropolitan Singles.

Dr. Ewing Taylor surprised the tennis enthusiasts again yesterday at the West Side Tennis Club when he defeated King Smith of the Seventh Regiment two sets in three in the second round of the metropolitan championship singles. This is Dr. Ewing's second unexpected victory in the tournament. In the first round he defeated Gustave F. Touchard after three hard sets, in which steadiness and accuracy helped the winner. In his match with Smith in the second round Dr. Taylor lost the first set after a close contest. He showed to advantage in the next two sets and ran away from his opponent, winning 6—2, 6—4.

The defeat of Allan Tobey, the former Princeton crack, was also unexpected, but he proved an easy victim for G. A. L. Dionne of the West Side Club. The latter was in excellent form and held the ex-Princetonian safe throughout the match. Dean Mathey, another ex-Tiger, came through to the third round after a troublesome match with R. B. McClare. In the first set the pair kept fairly well on even terms up to the ninth game, when Mathey ran out. The second set was 4—1 in favor of the Princeton player, but McClare rallied and carried the score to 4—3, when he again weakened and Mathey ran out the set.

S. H. Voshell won two matches and will face J. C. Tomlinson, Jr., in the third round. Voshell won from Harry Parker in the first set, his opponent scoring but three games in the two sets. Roundey did not show much improvement and fell before Voshell in straight sets. Tomlinson gained his first match by default and was extended to three sets by J. W. Travell before he reached the second round.

G. C. Shafer was kept busy for three long sets by W. P. Burden, who showed surprising form. The latter swept Shafer off his feet in the opening set, winning 6—2, but Shafer came back strong and defeated Burden by superior placing and accuracy of service.

The draw for the championship doubles was made after the day's play, and twenty-five pairs will begin competition this afternoon in this event. The summary:

Men's Singles, Metropolitan Championship, First Round.—W. M. Washburn defeated L. G. Morris, 6—3, 6—2; C. A. Sparks, Jr., defeated C. G. Chester by default; G. C. Shafer defeated W. P. Burden, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3; L. V. Robinson defeated E. H. Pfeiffer by default; D. E. Roberts defeated F. F. Frelinghuysen, 6—2, 3—6, 6—4; C. F. Watson, Jr., defeated H. P. Homans, 6—1, 6—4; E. W. Leonard defeated R. W. Seabury, 6—2, 6—2; King Smith defeated A. du R. Blanchet by default; T. A. Lightner defeated Leonard Beekman by default; H. W. Robinson defeated F. Vandeventer by default; E. A. Gunther defeated J. J. Armstrong by default; Paul Goold defeated J. S. Koehne by default; T. Roosevelt Pell defeated R. L. Baggs by default; B. B. McLave defeated Marshall Peabody by default; Walter M. Hall defeated F. G. Baggs, 6—3, 6—3; J. S. Cushman defeated Arthur Cragin by default; George S. Groesbeck defeated S. W. Merrihew by default; F. G. Inman defeated Merle Johnston, 6—1, 6—2; W. D. Cunningham defeated A. M. Kidder, 6—2, 6—2; S. H. Voshell defeated Harry Parker, 6—1, 6—2; J. C. Tomlinson, Jr., defeated C. Leonard by default.

Second Round.—G. A. L. Dionne defeated Allan Tobey, 6—2, 6—0; W. M. Washburn defeated C. A. Sparks, Jr., 6—0, 6—1; Dr. Erving Taylor defeated King Smith, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4; T. Roosevelt Pell defeated B. W. Stair, 6—1, 6—2; Dean Mathey defeated R. R. McClave, 6—4, 6—3; F. C. Inman defeated W. D. Cunningham, 6—4, 6—2; S. H. Voshell defeated F. B. Roundey, 6—2, 6—3; J. C. Tomlinson, Jr., defeated J. W. Travell, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3.

Niles Massachusetts Champion.

BOSTON, June 16.—Nathaniel W. Niles of the Longwood Cricket Club successfully defended his title to-day as amateur lawn tennis champion of Massachusetts in singles, after five hard sets with Edward H. Whitney, his clubmate, 7—5, 6—1, 2—6, 4—6, 6—3. After Whitney had dropped the first two sets he changed his tactics and met the terrific service of Niles with soft returns that threw the champion off his game, enabling the challenger to take the third and fourth sets. Then Whitney was weakened by the heat, and, though he made a hard effort in the deciding set, he did not have the stamina to win.

New York Cricket Veterans Win.

Tall scoring and a century by A. Hoskings marked the play in a cricket match at West New Brighton yesterday between the New York Veterans and Columbia Oval, which the Veterans won by 207, declared for seven wickets, to 132.

At Pelham Bay Park, the Anglo-Americans defeated the Brooklyn United Sons of St. George by 55 runs, the totals being 116 and 61.

Billy Gibson Association Outing.

The Billy Gibson Association, of which the boxing promoter of the Bronx is the standard bearer, will hold an outing and games July 6 at Witzel's Point View Grove, College Point. There are more than 1,000 members. The party will start from the foot of East 138th Street at 9:30 in the morning. A steamer with a capacity of 4,000 has been chartered. There will be a sail up the Sound, landing at the grove about noontime for luncheon. During the afternoon there will be several athletic events, including a baseball game.

The Tourist Trophy Two-Speed Model with the Cradle Spring Frame.
Indian Motocycle
for 1913 is being built in both the 4 H. P. single and 7 H. P. twin cylinder sizes. Both have the two-speed gear which permits widest variation of speed and gives the power to start on any hill and ride to the top, no matter how steep the grade.

Pedals are omitted. A firm downward pressure of the foot upon the starting crank starts the machine. Foot boards which can be folded up for storing provide comfortable rests for the feet.

OVER 8,000 IN USE.

A double brake, consisting of both internal and external friction on the brake drum, is operated by a foot lever on the right side of the machine and also by a grip lever on the left handle bar.

A valuable feature in this model is the improved rear hub, which is extra large and runs on special frictionless ball bearings. Knockout axles in both front and rear hubs permit removal of the wheels without disturbing the adjustment of the bearings.

There is no detail of refined construction lacking in the Indian Tourist Trophy Two-Speed Model. It is the choice of those who demand the pinnacle of Motorcycle Perfection.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 17, 1913

PUTTING THE GOVERNMENT INTO THE BANKING BUSINESS.

The new Currency Reform bill, as prepared by Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Representative Carter Glass, and Secretary McAdoo, provides for United States Treasury notes to be issued to the banks in the discretion of a Federal Board of Reserve controlled absolutely by the Government. This takes us back as far as it is now possible to go in the direction of the greenback. The difference is that the new notes would not be fiat money, they would have behind them a gold reserve in banks, shareholders' liability, apparently, and bank assets, and that, of course, is a very substantial difference. It has been the belief of Mr. Bryan, since the free coinage of silver ceased to be a living issue, that the country's currency should be supplied by the Federal Treasury; that belief has been avowed by Senator Owen in speeches reported in The Congressional Record. The Monetary Commission recommended, it will be recalled, that additional currency, when needed, should be issued to the banks by the Central Reserve Association, and that they should have behind them a 50 per cent. reserve in gold or legal reserve money. We do not suppose the difference is vital between notes issued by the Treasury and notes issued by a Central Reserve Association, if we limit the import of the word issue to the mere physical act of sending out the notes or to the legend they bear upon their face. The difference between the Monetary Commission plan and the Owen-Glass plan, however, is vital, it is tremendous, since it involves the differences that lie between sound banking and a kind of banking that the experience of the world for centuries has demonstrated to be radically unsound and unsafe.

The radical departure of the Owen-Glass plan from the Monetary Commission plan may be readily understood by a comparison of the manner in which the central boards of control, respectively, would be organized. The National Reserve Association authorized in the Commission bill would have been a federation of all the banks in the country, controlled by them and representing them. This reserve association would have had a board of forty-six Directors, thirty-nine of which would have been chosen by the Directors of the fifteen district branches of the association, embracing all the banks in the country, with seven ex-officio members, including a Governor to be appointed by the President from a list submitted by the Central Reserve Directors, two Deputy Governors, elected by the Directors, and the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and the Controller of the Currency; and fifteen of these Central Reserve Directors would have been representatives of agriculture, commerce, and industry, men not engaged in banking or interested in banking. To this board, composed chiefly of bankers, would have been intrusted the duty of issuing Central Reserve Association notes, and of regulating discounts, and the other operations of the system, and of maintaining the central reserve.

The Owen-Glass plan provides for a Federal Board of Reserve consisting of nine members. Three of them would be elected by the votes of the regional reserve associations, that is, by the banks; four would be appointed by the President, and the eighth and ninth members would be the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Agriculture. Thus, the Administration at any given time would control six of the nine members. The Government would have two-thirds of the members of the board. And this board, upon the demand of regional reserve associations, of which there are to be fifteen in the country, would in its discretion have authority to issue Treasury notes. Moreover, in each of the fifteen regional reserve districts there would be nine Directors, three elected by the voters of the member banks, three others would be representative business men elected by the banks, while the remaining three would be appointed by the President of the United States. It will be seen at once that the plan effectually provides for putting the Government into banking and for depriving bankers of the control of their own business. What checks and safeguards the plan provides can be determined only by a scrutiny of the detailed provisions of the bill in its final form. But there can be no doubt about the intention of its authors or of the working of the plan in conditions which might at any time arise. If it should happen that the Federal Board of Reserve was at any time in control of an Administration that believed that the cure for hard times or for any financial trouble was the issue of circulating notes in great volume, there can be hardly a doubt that this plan would confer the power to expand the currency in a dangerous degree. With two-thirds of the Central Board in its control, with one-third of the members of each regional board, and with the certainty that many of the regional reserve associations would be active partisans of a greater and always greater volume of currency, nothing but the tax upon the notes would stand in the way of a dangerous expansion of the circulating medium, and this tax, it appears, is, for the first four months, merely nominal.

That danger inheres in every plan which gives a Government control over the issues of currency. The Monetary Commission plan made an intelligent and logical provision for the issue of notes only as indicated by the needs of business, and their retirement when that need was satisfied was made practically automatic. In no possible way could politics interfere with the working of the system, while the Owen-Glass plan creates a system altogether political. In the one case the country's banking and currency would have been managed by experts, by men with the qualification of experience and having the closest possible knowledge of local business conditions. In the other the system would be under the control of political appointees, and we know very well that in this country that means men appointed to the office not because of knowledge and fitness, but for personal or party reasons, just as we appoint thousands of public officers, including our diplomatic representatives.

This would not be a reform of our banking and currency systems. It would be a retrogression, a taking up of what experience has discarded, what we know to be unsound and unsafe. The Commission plan provided for a gradual retirement of the bond-secured circulation and the purchase from the banks of the 2 per cents upon which it is based. The new plan allows twenty years for the retirement of outstanding notes. The Commission plan made a careful provision also for bank acceptances and the establishing of a standard of commercial bills, for the regulation of discounts, for the providing of a gold supply to support at all times the credit of the Government, and for taking charge of the receipts and disbursements of the Treasury. We shall know in what way these matters are cared for by the new plan when the Owen-Glass bill is reported. For one thing, it does not provide for the guarantee of bank deposits, and upon that we must congratulate its authors. The natural fear will be that they have placed too much stress upon the currency supply, upon the mere issue of additional notes, which, while they may facilitate individual transactions, in nowise enable the banks in time of stress to give ampler accommodations to borrowers. The safeguard against the recurrence of conditions like 1907, of course, is the provision, not of currency notes, but of reserve money, the building up of bank reserves that can be used as the basis of accommodation. Inasmuch as something like 95 per cent. of our business transactions are effected by the transfer of credits, it ought to be plain that the central feature of the reform plan should be the establishment of sufficient and available reserve, not the facilitating of the issue of Treasury notes.

MR. BRYAN AT WORK.

Doubtless Secretary Bryan will be able to keep cooler in the Cabinet councils this week than he would on the orators' platforms at Boston and Lowell. The President has requested him to give over his speechmaking a little and do a job or so of work in Washington. The national capital is not the coolest place on earth when the thermometrical records are in the nineties, but one may keep cooler indoors and at a tranquil debate on matters of public policy, which is likely to generate no heat of its own, than in recalling the glories of Bunker Hill, which, after all, was chiefly remarkable for the courage and perfect discipline manifested by the British troops.

Mr. Bryan's gift of oratory needs no new proof. On the other hand, his fitness for the highly important position of Secretary of State needs a great deal. If the President chooses to be his own Foreign Minister, to be sure, it is not likely that the country will complain, but he has plenty of other work to do, and the idea has got abroad that Mr. Bryan ought to stay in Washington and give what assistance he can. What with the Japanese question and the Mexican question, the Administration has its hands full of foreign affairs just now, and the work ought not to be slighted.

ECONOMICS AND LAW IN RATE-MAKING.

The railway rate decisions announced by the Supreme Court yesterday were merely corollaries of the principle of the Minnesota decision. They are therefore of specific rather than general interest, and not final even in the case of the railways named. There is nothing new about the fact that some State rates are confiscatory and others are not, and that confiscatory rates are unconstitutional. There were eighteen suits under the laws of Missouri alone, and nine reached the Supreme Court. In the case of six companies the rates are sustained, and in others they are not sustained.

The dividing line is the ruling laid down in the Minnesota case that the valuations which are the basis of rates must be actual valuations, on the theories of the Supreme Court, and the use of arbitrary "multipliers" cannot be allowed. The multiplier used in the case of the Burlington Railway, for example, if applied to the company's entire system, would have produced a valuation exceeding the capitalization by $115,000,000. The West Virginia, the Arkansas, and the Oregon rates are upheld for various reasons not new, but the intermountain cases are not decided. This leaves the present batch of decisions in the same relation to the inter-State commerce decisions as the Minnesota cases are left with regard to the Shreveport case. That is to say, we have still to learn definitely what the Supreme Court thinks of the conflict of State rates with inter-State rates when declared by Federal authority.

The "lines of legality" are being laid down to the States, in the matter of railway regulation, just as the law is being taught to the trusts in the industrial world. And it may be said without disrespect that the Supreme Court itself is learning while it is teaching. In the trust cases it has contended that its position has never altered, and yet it has seemed to some observers that it has reversed itself. In the trust cases it declared that it had no responsibility for the law, and that those oppressed by the law must apply to the legislative branch of the Government for relief. Yet relief came through the judicial department, and the legislative department cannot improve upon the rule of reason. In the railway cases the court clearly has in effect reversed itself, and still is in a liquid frame of mind. It is vowing that Congress alone can relieve the railways, and yet relief is coming by the clarification of the powers of the States and by instruction to the railways as to what they must do to be saved.

The shadows are deep even over the recent decisions. It would seem that within the same State there may be two lawful rates, or a rate which is confiscatory as to one class of roads and therefore not binding upon them, and yet the same rate may be held binding upon another class of roads as to which it is not confiscatory. The Inter-State Commerce Commission knows better, and the court may yet come to perceive that though it may be law—because the court says so—it is not economic experience. There can be but one rate between competitive companies or competitive points. Permission to charge a higher rate is illusory kindness. It means nothing as to the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway under the Minnesota decision. Those who wish to be amused as well as instructed on these points would do well to read this week's Annalist, where they will find a novel treatment of the most important question before the railway world and the security markets, next to finance.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

The official announcement from the State Department that the system of examinations and promotions in the Consular Service instituted by President Roosevelt and continued in force by President Taft is not to be abandoned by the present Administration is gratifying and timely. There was some justification for the belief that the old system of Consular appointments to reward political services was to be put in force again. In the Diplomatic Service men who have risen from the lower grade to important positions have been superseded by new men who have had no training whatever in diplomacy, and there was good reason for fearing that the many young men who have passed examinations and received appointments to small posts in the Consular Service would be similarly discouraged and the system broken down.

In regard to the Consular Service, however, the Administration now announces formally that vacancies will be filled from outside the service only when they cannot be properly filled from within. We are confident that a complete survey of the service, including the most remote posts, will satisfy President Wilson and Secretary Bryan that all, or nearly all, the vacancies that ocur in the more conspicuous Consulships can be suitably filled by promotions. The retirement from his post in Paris of Consul General Mason will, in the circumstances, doubtless lead to many promotions for merit.

NEEDLESS APPREHENSIONS.

If one chooses to give way to apprehension he has his chance now. With the advent of hot weather there is such a batch of choice forebodings as to make the life of a person like Goldsmith's Mr. Croaker worth living. The Japanese are going to seize Hawaii and then occupy our Pacific coast and destroy the Panama Canal. All the nations of the world are on the verge of bankruptcy. The Americans in Mexico are in danger of massacre, though they persist in attending to their daily routine of business as usual. A certain nun, who died lately in Rome, had a vision of yellow men and black men throwing dice for American girls in Central Park not later than A. D. 1914.

Plagues, famines, earthquakes, disasters of all sorts, rarely happen as predicted. There is some friction in the world to-day, but not much more than there always has been. People know more than they used to of what is going on in other countries, though when the knowledge is intelligently applied it does not cause apprehension, but the reverse. While Germany and all the other nations are hailing the man with the mailed fist of yesterday as the foremost advocate of peace, we may well be thankful for the blessings we have, try to abate our few afflictions by intelligent effort, and command the croakers to hold their peace.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Accepting Only the Glory.

There is a characteristic combination of German sentiment and German shrewdness in the Kaiser's request, which of course amounts to a command, that his people should mark the twenty-fifth year of his peaceful reign, not by giving him costly presents, but by connecting his name with gifts and benefactions of a charitable or philanthropic nature, from which Germany as a whole will profit.

This is an admirable idea, and not its least advantage is that it will save the Kaiser from bearing the weight of obligations that in some instances would probably be heavy or inconvenient. It also avoids the ungraciousness incidental to refusing any tribute, offered perhaps from interested motives, but nominally due to pure respect and esteem. Under the suggested plan everybody has a chance to be as generous as he pleases, and the Kaiser's fame will be increased and perpetuated in a way with which even the censorious and hypercritical can find no fault, since the material advantages will all go to those of his subjects whose deserts or needs have earned them.

All over Germany, it is reported, this fine method of marking the anniversary has been adopted. The great industrial and commercial corporations are making special payments to their employés, either directly or through pension funds, while hardly a town in Germany, large or small, has failed to establish a park or a hospital or a school bearing the Kaiser's name. Of the few gifts to him personally that the Kaiser is accepting, nearly all seem to be from the officers of his army. They are in a manner, if not exactly members of his family, at least theoretical companions in arms, which is much the same thing, and though some of their presents have cost a good deal of money, they are, like the richly jeweled Field Marshal's baton that came from all the officers on the active list—satisfactorily useless except as symbols of devotion.

Of course, the Kaiser did not invent this device for proving that modern representatives of the monarchical idea are not exploiters of their peoples. In both England and Italy the same diversion of patriotic gifts away from the ruler's private ownership has recently been exemplified. It has therefore become almost compulsory with monarchs as intelligent and enlightened as the Kaiser—a fact that renders it only the more commendable, both as regards themselves and as regards the subjects who willingly heed their requests.

An Experiment with a Suggestion.

"Trial divorce," if not precisely a new thing, is a new phrase, and the fact that it has been invented and the plan put in practice marks the advance that always lies in following any given course thoughtfully and with understanding.

It seems that two residents of Missouri, young, rich, and of social standing, in spite of conditions apparently so conducive to marital peace, have found life together at least temporarily impossible. Neither makes any grave charges against the other, but, as the wife puts it, "we just couldn't get along." The too common result of such a situation in these days is for one of the inharmonious pair, usually the wife, to go to a State where divorce is easy, acquire a legal residence by living there for a few months, and then have the chafing bonds severed. In this case, too, the wife has gone to Colorado, but not with the fixed determination to get a divorce. Instead, she is acting under an agreement with her husband that for six months they are to try what the stopping of all relations and communications—except a monthly check from him to her—will do for their tempers and inclinations. If, after this period for reflection, the joys of parting have palled on both, they are to meet at an appointed place and take up life together again. If either does not keep the curious tryst, the other will proceed to make the separation legal and permanent.

This seems to be a rather good scheme. At any rate, it is much better than rash action taken in the heat of anger or irritation, and in many cases, doubtless, such a preliminary trial of divorce would lead to the decision that the troubles looming so large were either small or remediable, and the lesson learned would be heeded, to the edification and satisfaction of all concerned. Even those who view divorce, not as the breaking of marriage but as formal recognition of the fact that marriage in the true sense of the term no longer exists, can view the plan with approval as a protection against hasty action, while it will also commend itself to those who consider every divorce an evil and a scandal.

"Trial divorce" as a custom would have no such antagonism to encounter as would the "trial marriage" which a few are bold enough in these audacious days to propose, and there is, perhaps, a valuable suggestion for our lawmakers in the course followed by these Missourians, with their characteristic desire to see before they decide.

A Boycott Surely Ineffective.

Why the anti-suffrage women should be so particularly enraged against the Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw is not quite obvious to those of us who try to see both sides of this large question. What she said as to the spreading of anti skirts for the protection of various evil persons was, indeed, a harsh and wild exaggeration, if it had any basis whatever in fact, which is more than doubtful. But such statements are, unfortunately, the commonplaces of all political contention, and the men of all parties make them far too often to find anything peculiarly feminine in resort to the bad old device.

The antis themselves are far from careful always to be either courteous or correct in formulating accusation against those whom they consider erring sisters, as was illustrated only a few weeks ago when they discovered and vehemently exploited a wholly imaginary "sex appeal" in the innocent following of the day's fashions by the suffrage paraders. The suffragists resented, as well they might, this charge and its implications, but they were saved, possibly by the possession of humor, from getting very much excited over it. Certainly, with all their capacity for making mistakes, they were not misguided enough to refuse thereafter to argue with any opponent. That is the one error of policy they never commit. Again, the very first quality a punishment should have is that of—punishing.

Dr. Shaw is a veteran warrior who certainly will not be disarmed by such a little thing as anybody's refusal to answer her. She is extremely apt to say that the refusal is itself an answer, and go on with her oratory quite undisturbed.

PROOF AGAINST FIRE.

Commissioner of Dahomey Urged to Yield Up His Secret.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Twice within a week have we had to remedy, as best we could the burns of women whose clothing caught fire while they were engaged in household duties—one poor creature has just died in my own ward from burns so arising.

Yet a week or so ago your correspondent, whose pleasant remarks about the Commissioner of Education from Dahomey you published, brought that very gentleman here to illustrate before a score of doctors a strange quality he possesses, of holding a bunch of lighted wax tapers against his naked skin and suffering no apparent harm. This salamanderlike quality is due to an occasional bath—the last a year ago—in the boiled [illegible] of an ordinary tree in Dahomey.

My colleagues and myself could but think of this extraordinary fire-resisting power which is at the hand of every one in that savage land which, it seems, is yearning for education. The Commissioner from Dahomey could repay what he learns here by letting us have the details of his strange juice. Perhaps it would cure as well as prevent burns.

SANITY IN JOURNALISM.

From The Independent.

People who do not arrive at their conclusions through premises created in a month or a year are noting that the masses of people who are to be classified as "readers" are returning to sanity in their patronage of periodicals. The day of the newspaper or magazine that seeks chiefly to cater to mercurial and diseased tastes has passed—at least, the meridian of that day. A canvass recently made by The New York Times of a number of newsdealers, located in city and suburbs, gives such confirmation of that fact as cannot be gainsaid. It is important to note the results of this canvass, and so I give the figures:

Twenty dealers, located in New York City, Brooklyn, Mount Vernon, and Montclair, N. J., were taken as representative of the whole circulation. These dealers handle 14,498 copies of eight morning New York newspapers. Of this total The Times has 5,545 copies, or 38 per cent. of the total. Of the total, 10,628 are delivered at homes, and The Times gets 4,467 of these, or 42 per cent. There are 7,658 copies delivered to houses where but one paper is taken, and of these there are 3,318 copies of The Times, or 43 per cent.

I have no disposition to boom The Times. Its bright business men are doing that sufficiently and efficiently. But The Times is the conservative paper of New York. It prides itself that it is conservative—so conservative that it prints nothing but "All the news that's fit to print"; which is a matter of opinion. Nothing is fit to print which does not square with the policy of the paper and the idiosyncrasies of the editors thereof, so we are not obliged to believe it is because The Times prints all the expurgated news that it is so in the lead in circulation in the homes. It is in the lead in the offices and in the cars, just the same, among the people who like the kind of newspaper The Times is. But where do the papers with the big and inflated circulations go? Who reads them? They print all the news that's fit to print, also; and then some. Where do they go? I read The Times before breakfast, and leave it on the living-room table. It is read by the ladies of the household—read, mind you. They see more in it than I do, as I find to my cost upon returning to dinner, as I am unable to discuss much that they saw and I did not. I buy another paper at the station as I begin to commute toward the city, and leave it in the car seat. When I return home at night I buy two or three papers—one, and often two or three, that I skim over in the train and leave on the car seat. One that I always take home, read comfortably after dinner, and pass to the ladies, who read it carefully and comfortably after the household is duly regulated for the night.

Now, which of these papers is the good advertising medium for reputable dealers in staple goods? What is true of newspapers is true also of weeklies and monthlies. Which of the two classes are the better advertising mediums for merchants and manufacturers who wish to get into sympathetic touch with the people who habitually purchase staple goods, luxuries, specialties, &c., and who are always looking out to better themselves in price or quality?

The question answers itself. There are several newspapers in New York that have greater circulations than The Times, but it is apparent that there is none that is better read in the homes of people who are able to purchase the necessities and luxuries, and that makes it evident that The Times is a better advertising medium than those papers that, while they may print more copies, are read in the cars and at odd moments in offices, on street corners, and park benches, and then cast aside and forgotten. And it is as evident that those periodicals that place quality ahead of erotic titillation, or the playing up to passing moods or fashions, are immeasurably the better advertising mediums.

The little group of sane periodicals, whose conductors have gamely clung to their sanity, and persistently kept faith in the ultimate sanity of their readers, are now feeling real satisfaction in such an expose as that of The Times, knowing that it is more than an indorsement of the policy of The Times. It is, in fact, a sharply graphic indication of a marked tendency away from sensation in newspaper and periodical literature.

DUFFY JUROR DEFENDED.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read The New York Times for many years and have always admired its fairness and impartiality, but, as a lawyer, I must protest against the article in to-day's issue concerning one of the jurors in the Duffy case as an indirect attack on the jury system, which is one of the foundation stones of our system of judicature. As I understand it, Mr. Whaley is not accused of having committed a penal offense at any time. If he has committed such an offense he should have been prosecuted in the manner provided by law, and should not be held up to public ridicule and contempt at this late date, more than seven years after his alleged irregular conduct. I never heard of Mr. Whaley before, but I sympathize with him.

Furthermore, if a man who is called to serve on a jury cannot vote in accordance with his honest convictions, even though his vote may be against public clamor and against a majority of his fellow-jurors, without running the risk of having his past life raked over with a fine-toothed comb, we may as well abolish the jury system and have people convicted of crimes by acclamation at a public mass meeting. There are very few men who have lived to middle life without making mistakes or committing foolish acts, and very few of them would not be influenced very strongly by the threatened publication of such acts in the newspapers. This reminds me of the lawyer who started to cross-examine a witness with the question, "Is there anything in your past life that you are ashamed of, and if so, what is it?"

ROOSEVELT FOR MAYOR.

A Correspondent's Nomination Is Warmly Seconded.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

And, ladies and gentlemen, (note the reverse order, ladies, please,) I crave the privilege of arising in my place in this convention and seconding Delegate "Bill Mooser's" nomination of Col. Theodore Roosevelt for Mayor of the City of New York. Stripped of the complications of verbiage, it is for us to declare that Col. Roosevelt is the man for the job. Though what we have come to know as "my policies" may not prove of acceptability to us, nationally considered, I feel safe in asserting that the policies of Col. Roosevelt with respect to the governmental affairs of the City of New York would command the approbation of a rousing majority of our citizens.

I move, furthermore, ladies and gentlemen, that the nomination be tendered Col. Roosevelt with freedom as to the planking of his platform. Let this be an exception to prove the rule that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house.

And I submit, ladies and gentlemen, that for the present purposes there is no more need of annexing Oyster Bay, as suggested by Delegate "Bill Mooser," than there was for annexing St. James.

JOHN WORTHY.

New York, June 15, 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Col. Roosevelt has been honored as head of the nation, he has been Chief Executive of the State. Why not prove loyal to his birthplace and redeem it from the conditions which now environ and which, to many minds, have a tendency to degenerate this metropolis?

He might call to his aid New Yorkers—contemporaries of his boyhood—whose fathers, too, could be found in New York Directories in 1850—say, Peabody, Jay, Pyne, Russell—to help advise (better than can City Engineers) on the vast problems of the hour. If police administration is an important factor, his knowledge as an incumbent, as erstwhile Police Commissioner, (and probably none better,) should prove serviceable.

GRAND CENTRAL RULES.

Escorts Kept Out to Prevent Confusion and Cheating.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In The Times to-day there appears a letter signed by Irving Putnam which is a criticism of the management of the New Haven Road for the regulations at the Grand Central Station, which forbid any one without a ticket passing through the gates to the train platforms. Mr. Putnam speaks of this as "petty regulations to annoy its passengers."

The rule in question is not a rule of the New Haven Road, but of the Grand Central terminal, which is jointly operated by the New York Central and the New Haven. It applies therefore to both roads. This rule is enforced in all of the passenger terminals in this country which can with any degree of fairness be compared with the Grand Central terminal. It is enforced at the Pennsylvania Station in this city and at the new Union Station in Washington. To compare either the Grand Central terminal or the Pennsylvania Station, in respect to size or volume of traffic handled, with any of the railroad stations on the west side of the Hudson is of course foolish and does not even require a reference to statistics. It is done chiefly to prevent confusion and insure safety, which obviously the enormous traffic handled makes necessary.

There is still another reason, namely, to prevent people from boarding trains without prepayment of fare, certainly a wise precaution from every point of view in the case of such large terminals. To any one but the unthinking the reasons for such a regulation would seem obvious and to merit approbation rather than criticism, which in this case was both misplaced and unfair.

Commercializing the Referendum.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A bill has been passed by the Ohio Senate making it a misdemeanor to pay or receive money for the signing of initiative and referendum petitions. In some of the States that first adopted the initiative and referendum the obtaining of signatures for proposed popular legislation was at once commercialized. Agencies were established that made it a business to put through the petitions of those willing to pay for legislation they wanted.

Here we see the "peepul," whose emancipation was certainly assured by these new devices, actually jumping at the chance to be corrupt which the new device assures them. No tongue or pen less than a Jeremiah's, a Cassandra's, or a Theodore's could do justice to the hopes dashed by the wickedness whose existence the Ohio Legislature so pitilessly unmasks. They should be "recalled" for exposing the sore.

LENIENCY.

One day they brought into the court
  A little hoodlum lad
Who, if he had been handled right,
  Might not have been so bad.
The Magistrate looked down on him
  With lenient eyes in tears,
And murmured something soft about
  A child of tender years.
The little hoodlum lad confessed—
  The cop had caught him in
The act, and it was up to him
  To take his medicine.
But no. The gentle Judge announced:
  "Boys will be boys, you know,"
And with a few kind words he let
  The little hoodlum go.
Time after time came other boys—
  The Judge would always say
That boys would be boys, and so
  He'd let them go their way.
One night the kindly Magistrate
  Was slugged and robbed, and then
An old cop, with a chuckle, said:
  "And boys will sure be men."

COL. HARVEY OPTIMISTIC.

Making Progress in Solving Our Problems, He Tells Collegians.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., June 16.—Col. George Harvey brought a message of optimism to the University of Virginia to-night, when he addressed the annual joint meeting of the Washington and Jefferson Literary Societies in Cabell Hall.

"Surely," said he, "it is a fact of mighty significance that the South resumes virtual control of the United States after barely fifty years, without evoking from the most rabid partisan so much as a suspicion of the patriotism or fidelity of any one of her statesmen.

"Never before has so great a nation as our nation been so signally blessed with respect to all things that subserve the happiness, the contentment, and the opportunity of its citizens. Yet, for the time, the business of a mighty commercial country is, in a comparative sense, at a standstill, development of natural resources has practically ceased, essential confidence among groups or classes is seriously impaired, and the very air is laden with apprehension of startling and grievous happenings."

Col. Harvey summarized the tangible fears under these six heads: (1) Apprehension of war; (2) Oppression of the poor by the rich; (3) The tariff and the trusts; (4) Common extravagance, (5) The disestablishment of credit; (6) Effects of popular agitation.

The speaker called attention to the history of the country, showing revival after depression far more complete. Summing up, he said he believed that progress was being made along sane and cautious lines, and added:

"I wonder sometimes if we quite grasp the full significance of what happened last year. Men were chosen to fill places of highest authority, but the real triumph was Thomas Jefferson's. His was the mind that evolved the principle of faith in the whole people, and it is to that principle that we returned."

FORDHAM'S GRADUATES.

Degrees for Forty-eight Men—Cardinal Criticises Yale Students.

The sixty-eighth annual commencement exercises of Fordham University were held in the Administration Building of the University last night. Cardinal Farley presided and presented the diplomas to the forty-eight graduates, which is the largest class ever graduated from the institution. Of this number thirty-six received the degree of bachelor of arts, three the degree of bachelor of philosophy, and nine the degree of bachelor of science.

These are the graduates:

Bachelors of Arts.—Edward Amy, Burns F. Barford, Louis X. Bautz, John A. Blake, William F. Cahill, Richard S. Conway, Hugh J. Courtney, John G. Flanigan, Edward P. Gilleran, Thomas J. Graham, John S. Griffin, Anthony B. Isaacs, Edwin A. Kane, Henry J. Kane, John J. Keating, Thomas W. Kelly, Francis A. Lederle, Joseph B. Lynch, John F. McCarthy, Joseph E. McKenna, William J. McLaughlin, William B. Mendes, Patrick A. Monahan, Christian C. I. Oehler, Arthur L. O'Toole, Joseph T. Phelan, James D. Rogers, Edward A. Schmidt, Charles R. Small, James E. Smith, Raymond Smith, Cornelius J. Smyth, Thomas I. Traub, Alexander P. Vincent, Samuel R. Wiley, Alford J. Williams.

Bachelors of Science—Hugh A. Allen, Felix H. Duffy, Walter L. Dunn, William K. Elliffe, John G. Fruin, John J. Murphy, John T. Stahl, Francis J. Sullivan, James P. Timoney.

Bachelors of Philosophy.—John M. McGahren, Walter R. McGahren, Francis J. McNamara.

These honorary degrees were also conferred: Doctor of Laws, ex-Controller Bird S. Coler, and William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of High Schools of New York City; Doctor of Music, John Philip Foley; Doctor of Science, Denis O'Sullivan, and Master of Arts, Thomas McManus, George M. Hayes, Joseph V. McKee, Ignatius M. Wilkinson, and Frederick L. Kane.

The address to the graduating class was delivered by Lieut. Gov. Martin H. Glynn. Mr. Glynn advised the members of the class to take an interest in politics but would not advise them to run for public office. He said that Napoleon's coat of arms, "shirt sleeves," has now become fashionable and that the drones of society are tabooed as the industrial twins of "hoboes."

Cardinal Farley in addressing the graduates referred to a recent happening at Yale University. He read a newspaper clipping headed "Yale Students Apologize." The substance of the clipping was that two students at the celebration of a fraternal society dressed up as Sisters of Charity and each carried a bottle from which they frequently took a drink. The students later made a signed apology for their conduct. The Cardinal said:

SMITH GIRLS PLANT IVY.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 16.—The Ivy Day celebration of the Smith College graduating class was held on the campus to-day under blue skies. Forming in front of the students' building, the seniors marched across the campus to the new library, near which the class ivy was started on its new career. Each of the 381 girls carried an American Beauty rose, and the junior class, acting as escort, bore a chain of mountain laurel.

As the ivy was planted by the class President, Rachel Whidden of West Newton, the seniors sang an ode, the words of which were written by Marion Hines of Albion, Ill., and the music by Hazel Deyo of Hoboken, N. J. Addresses were made by Gretchen Todd of Milburn, N. J., and Elizabeth Pfeiffer of Pittsfield.

COHALAN CASE FOR SULZER.

Bar Association Sends Documents to Albany for the Governor to See.

The Grievance Committee of the Bar Association is not prepared to permit Gov. Sulzer to throw upon it all the onus of bringing the charges against Justice Cohalan before the Legislature. The Justice has himself requested the Governor to take notice of them and has repudiated the authority of the Bar Association, and the Governor has requested the Grievance Committee to forward to him such papers as will throw light on the accusations and also a statement of any conclusions at which it has arrived.

Einar Chrystie, counsel for the Grievance Committee, left last evening for Albany. He went primarily to resist on the part of the Bar Association the attempt of Henry A. Robinson, who was disbarred on account of the scandal over damage cases against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, to be restored to practice. But Mr. Chrysite also took with him some of the papers connected with the Connolly charges, which he hopes to lay before the Governor. These the committee believes go far enough in supporting the accusations to make it impossible for the Governor to refuse to ask the Legislature to look into them in the special session.

Mr. Chrystie is not understood to have an appointment with Gov. Sulzer, but it is not anticipated that the latter can refuse to see him. Justice Cohalan has himself spoken of these charges, and is expected to take a trip to Albany in a day or two to look after his own interests. The action that the committee will take will depend on the attitude of the Governor.

CLASS DAY GAYETY WAKES UP OLD ELI

TAFT MEETS OLD CLASSMEN

Law School Holds Commencement Exercises with Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut as Toastmaster.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 16.—Yale's dignified seniors, sombre and severe in mortarboard and gown of black, to-day hobnobbed with boisterous alumni clad as chorus girls, messenger boys, boy scouts, blue-and-white Greeks and Puritans. In the college commencement calendar this was Class Day, and the academic and Scientific School seniors, with their songs, histories, prophecies, and parades, held the centre of the stage.

"Commencement follows the heat flag," said a "grad" of '83. "When the class was graduated about July 1 we used to catch the first hot week. Now that they have moved commencement two weeks ahead we catch it just the same."

Prof. William H. Taft's class of '78, with headquarters at the Hotel Taft, kept in the limelight, with the former President as general host. Late this evening J. W. Hill of Portland, Ore., seemed to have won the cup for covering the most miles to get here. Among the members registered were: John G. Jennings, Cleveland; Edwin Smith, Pittsburgh; F. B. Lathrop, Minneapolis; Alfred L. Riply, Boston, and Tudor Jenks, Bronxville.

The "Sheff" seniors started the class day exercises this morning. E. Francis White of New York City reading the class history and Allen H. Sheldon, the class President, delivering the class oration. This afternoon the academic seniors had their fun in the amphitheatre erected near Old South Middle. James E. Meeker of Bridgeport read the class history, and Ewing Webb of Cincinnati the poem, while Edward M. Porter of Springfield, Mass., delivered the class oration. The ivy ode was given by Martin Glynn of West Haven.

Only one department to-day held its formal commencement exercises—the law school. In the absence of Dean Rogers, who had gone West to deliver the commencement address at the University of Indiana, Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut, for forty years a professor in the school, officiated as toast master. Toasts were responded to by Prof. William Howard Taft, Justice John Proctor Clarke of New York, Judge Isaac Russell of the Court of General Sessions, New York City; Attorney General Light of Connecticut, and Isadore Shapiro of the Class of 1910.

The commencement address was delivered by Samuel J. Elder of Boston, his subject being "Progress Toward International Accord." He said in part:

"Although the Second Peace Conference failed to agree upon the composition of the judicial arbitration court proposed by the delegates of the United States, it is to be confidently hoped that the coming conference at The Hague will solve this detail. The recent treaties defeated by the Senate for general arbitration with Great Britain and France, which excepted matters of honor and vital interest from arbitration, raise this question: 'Why may not matters of national honor be adjudicated?' With the 'code of honor' no longer in force between men, why should it be between nations?

"The proposal of the President of the United States, (Mr. Taft,) to discard these time-worn exceptions and to arbitrate all differences and the great reception which it met on both sides of the Atlantic erected new monuments to the accord of nations."

FOR WIDENER MEMORIAL.

Cornerstone Laid by Mother of Titanic Victim—Harvard Prizes.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 16.—In commencement week at Harvard, which was opened by President Lowell's baccalaureate sermon yesterday, this was Phi Beta Kappa Day, and it was further distinguished by exercises at the site of the new $2,000,000 Harry E. Widener Memorial Library, in connection with the laying of the cornerstone. These exercises were attended by a distinguished gathering, including Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, who provided the funds for this memorial to her son who was lost on the Titanic. President Lowell presided. Mrs. Widener deposited in the cornerstone a small box containing appropriate records, and then the stone was laid. Judge Francis Joseph Swayze of New Jersey, President of the Harvard Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, and Prof. A. C. Coolidge delivered addresses.

The Phi Beta Kappa orator was the Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers of Cambridge. He compared writings of the seventeenth century with modern productions, holding that at present there seems to be a tendency to return to "the nude and the wild." The poet was George Edward Woodberry of Beverly of the class of 1877.

President Lowell announced the winners of academic distinctions for the year as follows:

Bowdoin Prizes for English—Carey J. Chamberlain of Beverly, senior; Donald E. Dunbar of Springfield, senior.; Winthrop A. Hamlin of Ludlow, Vt., senior. For Greek and Latin—Two prizes, both won by George H. Gifford of East Boston, senior. Dante Prize—Also won by Gifford.

Sargent Prize—Won by Carey J. Chamberlain. Sales Prize (translation in Spanish)—Won by Watson M. Washburn of New York, sophomore. Philip Washburn Prize (history)—Walter F. Whitman of Cleveland, senior. James Gordon Bennett Prize (best essay on politics)—Rush Taggart, Jr., senior. Sumner Prize—Nelson Gammans, Portland, Ore., senior. Jeremy Belknap Prize—Michael L. O'Brien of Brighton, freshman. Susan Anthony Potter Prizes in Comparative Literature—Amos P. McMahon of Mexico City, Scofield Thayer of Worcester Graduate School; in Spanish literature, John Hornicek of Albion, Penn., senior. Harvard Mensrah Society Prize—Edward D. Coleman of New York.

Old Testament Prizes—Philip M. Copp of Burlington, Iowa, freshman; second prize, Edward W. Wilder of Dorchester, sophomore. Elizabeth Wilder Prize—Divided between James E. Hoskins of Gardner, freshman, and William W. Tuttle of Cambridge, freshman. Pasteur Medal—Henry Epstein of Brooklyn. Wister Prize—Ralph Beattley of Roxbury, senior. Henry Russell Shaw Traveling Fellowship—Donald E. Dunbar, Springfield, senior. Frederick Sheldon Traveling Fellowships—Ralph Beattley of Roxbury, senior; Thomas Coggeshall of Allston, senior; Alfred P. Gradolph of Toledo, senior; Sidney F. Blake Stoughton, first year graduate school. Elkas Namburg Fellowship in Music—Timothy M. Spellman of Brooklyn, senior.

Prof. Lebaron Russell Briggs was elected Phi Beta Kappa President.

The senior spread was given to-night in the college yard. Numerous class reunions began to-day.

BURNS A MORTGAGE.

Catholic Club Celebrates the Burning of a $50,000 Incumbrance.

The Catholic Club celebrated last night the payment of a second mortgage of $50,000 on its property at 120 Central Park South by the public burning of the document by Michael J. Mulqueen, the President of the club. The burning of the mortgage marked the payment of $75,000 of the club's indebtedness within the last two years. The club now has 1,500 members.

After the burning of the mortgage the new officers were installed. They are: President—Michael J. Mulqueen; First Vice President—John R. Butler; Second Vice President—Frank P. Lisieck; Treasurer—Alfred M. Barrett; Secretary—Percy J. King, and the following as members of the Board of Managers—Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling, John D. Crimmins, Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission; Thomas P. Fitzsimons, John B. Hasslacher, Clarence E. Cavanaugh, John F. Martin, Peter H. Moore, Thomas E. Murray, John G. O'Keeffe, Michael Blake, John F. Cross, Andrew J. Connick, Jr., John J. Cuskley, Roger P. Kavanagh, and John J. Durkin.

Among those who spoke at the celebration were Mr. Crimmins, Congressman J. V. Fornes, Mr. King, Mr. Barret, and Mr. O'Keeffe.

MISS JENNINGS WEDS F. W. HINE

SMALL RECEPTION HELD

Bride and Bridegroom Leave To-day to Travel in Europe Until Late in the Fall.

Miss Gertrude Howell Jennings, youngest daughter of Mrs. Spencer Augustus Jennings of 226 Henry Street, Brooklyn, was married to F. Worthington Hine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lyman Hine of this city and Glen Cove, L. I., yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. L. Mason Clarke performed the ceremony at 5 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn Heights, which had been decorated with masses of daisies and hydrangeas against a background of palms. Invitations to the reception following were limited to relatives.

The bride's gown was of heavy satin cut with a court train and embroidered in pearls, and she wore a point applique veil. She was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Frederick G. Wacker, of Chicago.

The maid of honor was Miss Althea Gibb, and in attendance as bridesmaids were the Misses Ruth Gibb, Alice Bulkley Moss, Ruth Callender, and Jean Southwick. They were gowned in pale pink satin and deep rose tulle and carried pink peonies, while Miss Gibb wore a gown of lavender chiffon trimmed with silver and carried heliotrope.

A brother of the bridegroom, Lyman Hine, was best man, and the ushers were Ethelbert Ide Low, a half-brother of the bridegroom; J. Frederick Stillman, Jr.; Alwyn Ball, John Parsons, Ronald MacDonald of New York, Robinson Leech, a brother-in-law of the bride, and John Adams of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Jennings was attired in white satin draped with white chiffon and black lace. Mrs. Hine's gown was of blue chiffon.

The bride was educated at Briarcliff. Her engagement to Mr. Hine was announced last December when she made her début. They will sail to-day and expect to remain abroad until late in the Fall.

HARRIS—ROBINSON.

Wedding To-morrow Before Relatives at the Bride's Residence.

The marriage of Duncan Harris and Mrs. Alice Abell Robinson, daughter of the late William H. Abell of Buffalo, N. Y., will take place very quietly to-morrow in the Paulist Fathers' Church. Emmet Harris will be his brother's best man, but there will be no other attendants, and there will be no reception. Immediate relatives only are to witness the wedding and be guests at the breakfast at the bride's residence, 102 East Sixty-fourth Street.

Mrs. Robinson was married when a very young girl to Eugene N. Robinson, and shortly afterward the marriage was annulled in Rome by both the Church and the State.

Mr. Harris is the eldest son of the late R. Duncan Harris and Mrs. Harris, who was Miss Gibert. He is a nephew of Charles N. Harris, who recently married Miss Leontine Marié; of Mrs. James Bliss Townsend and Mrs. Hugo de Fritsch, and of the Misses Clara and Gertrude Gibert. Emmet and Donald Harris are his brothers. He was graduated from Harvard in 1900, is a member of several clubs, including the Harvard and the Racquet, and is a real estate broker.

MISS HUBBARD A BRIDE.

She Weds Lieut. Van Vliet Under a Trellis of Roses.

RED BANK, N. J., June 16.—Miss Sarah Elizabeth Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Hubbard, and Lieut. John Huff Van Vliet of West Point, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Vliet of Shrewsbury, were married at the home of the bride's parents on the banks of the Shrewsbury River here to-night. The Rev. Robert MacKellar, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, officiated. The ceremony was performed beneath a trellis of pale pink climbing roses. The bride was attired in ivory brocaded charmeuse trimmed with point Duchesse lace, and wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. The Misses Charlotte and Margaret Edwards, cousins of the bride, acted as bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was dressed in his army uniform, and was attended by his brother, Frederick C. Van Vliet, Jr., as best man, and by two classmates from West Point, Lieut. Desmore Nelson of Louisiana, and Roland L. Gaugler of Paterson, N. J. The ushers were C. Easton Hendrickson, and William V. Conover, cousins of the bride, and James Hubbard, a brother of the bride.

WEST POINTER MARRIES.

Lieut. Lamb of This Year's Class Weds Miss Hindle.

Miss Agnes Marguerite Hindle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hindle, was married to Lieut. Bernard Peter Lamb of Brooklyn last evening at the home of her parents, 1,339 Pacific Street, Brooklyn. The Rev. Father Fitzgerald performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives, and later there was a large reception.

Miss Loretta Lamb, a sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant, and Lieut. Hiram Ratzkaff, who like Lieut. Lamb is a member of this year's class at West Point, acted as best man.

Miss Sylvia Page Engaged.

Mrs. William Drummond Page of New York and Milford, Conn., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sylvia Page, to Ripley Wilson, son of Mrs. John Richard Wilson, and the late Mr. Wilson of Chicago, Ill. No date has been set for the wedding.

POWDER IN SHOES AS WELL AS GUNS

Foot-Ease to Be Added to Equipment of Hospital Corps at Fort Wayne.

Under the above heading the Detroit Free Press, among other things says: "The theory is that soldiers whose feet are in good condition can walk further and faster than soldiers who have corns and bunions incased in rawhide.

The Government's foot powder order is regarded as the last word in the scientific outfitting of the defenders of the flag."

This foot powder, shaken in the shoes of soldiers, has long been in use in the German army, and Uncle Sam's adoption of this form of treating and easing the feet, is in line with the expressions heard daily for more than twenty years, in all parts of the world, from millions of people who are shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the feet, into their shoes, as the only practical and lasting treatment for easing and absolutely preventing sore feet. It can be obtained from dealers everywhere for 25c. or a trial package will be sent by mail free if you write to Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

8,000-MILE HONEYMOON.

Artist and His Bride Will Travel Through Alaska.

The announcement has been made of the marriage of Leonard M. Davis, painter of arctic scenes and the lakes and rivers of Alaska, to Miss Viola H. Russell, which took place on Saturday afternoon in Grace Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis plan to take a honeymoon trip of more than 8,000 miles from Seattle, and will visit all Alaskan points of interest. They will be members of a party of tourists which includes United States Senators and representatives of ten Eastern publishing houses.

Mrs. Davis is the daughter of the late Henry A. Russell and Julia Mandeville Russell.

Their Wedding a Surprise.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Alice May Flagg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Flagg of New York and West Haven, Conn., to Carroll Wightman Johnson, which took place on June 12 in the Collegiate Church, the Rev. Peter H. Milliken officiating. No announcement had been made of the couple's engagement, and their marriage came as a surprise, not only to their friends, but their relatives as well. The bride is a cousin of James Montgomery Flagg, the artist, and Mr. Johnson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Spear Johnson, is in the insurance business in this city.

Miss Hunter to Wed Dr. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. David Edgar Hunter have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Gertrude Hunter, to Dr. Donald Breckenridge Wells of Hartford, Conn. Miss Hunter is well known in the Oranges for philanthropic work. She is professionally engaged in social work and is on the staff of the New York Charity Organization Society and has been living in the lower east side. Dr. Wells is a graduate of Yale, class of 1907, and of Johns Hopkins, and is a Beta Theta Pi man. Since his graduation from Johns Hopkins he has been on the staffs of the Providence City Hospital and the New York Post-Graduate Hospital, and at present is on the house staff of St. Luke's Hospital.

Mrs. Astor's Cousin Engaged.

The engagement is announced of Miss Adele Force of Brooklyn to Edward A. Cooke of Red Bank, N. J. Miss Force is a cousin of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, her father, Walter Sylvester Force, being a brother of William H. Force, Mrs. Astor's father. Miss Force announced her engagement at a recent reception which she gave at her home, 1,164 Dean Street. Her brother, Walter Bain Force, is engaged to Miss Annie Evans Maires, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Maires of Brooklyn, their engagement having been announced the last of May. No date has been set for the weddings.

Miss Ethel Bowne Engaged.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Ethel Rapleye Bowne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Bowne of 18 Central Avenue, Flushing, and William Henry Morgan of Brooklyn. The wedding will take place at the Dutch Reformed Church, Flushing, to-day, and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Thomas Hanna Mackenzie, the pastor. Miss Bowne is a descendant of one of Long Island's oldest families.

Miss Elise Vignot to Wed.

One of the most notable of the season's weddings in Flushing will be solemnized on June 25, when Miss Elise Vignot, daughter of Mrs. Albert Van Buren of Broadway, Flushing, will become the bride of Harry Lampere of Brooklyn. The bride is a member of Court Santa Maria, Daughters of Isabella, and is well known in Flushing society.

Miss Carrie E. Devlin Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Devlin of 562 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Carrie E. Devlin, to Charles K. Jonas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. W. Jonas of 741 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. Miss Devlin's father is Cashier of the Century Bank of this city.

Miss Wright Is Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wright of 126 East Thirty-fourth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth J. Wright, to Earl Langstroth of Glen Ridge, N. J.

Miss Carroll in a Sanatorium.

No date has been set for the wedding of Miss Susanne Carroll, who was to be married to Major John Philip Hill of Baltimore on June 28, but whose marriage had to be postponed and the invitations recalled on account of the illness of the bride-elect. Miss Carroll was removed on Sunday from her home at 128 West Fifty-ninth Street to a private sanatorium, suffering from a nervous breakdown. Her illness, it is said, while not dangerous, will require long treatment. Even her most intimate friends do not know where she has gone, for the physicians have ordered absolute rest and quiet.

Jack London's Cruise Shown.

Martin Johnson, who accompanied Jack London, the writer, in his cruise on the Snark in the South Sea Islands, began a short engagement at the Criterion Theatre yesterday with a series of moving picture and photographic views taken during the trip. Mr. Johnson stayed with the boat after Mr. and Mrs. London had finished their trip. He spent two and a half years among the natives of the South Pacific islands and made photographic records of everything he saw. The pictures provide interesting entertainment and are accompanied by a lecture by the photographer.

IN OTHER THEATRES.

Attractions which continue at the theatres after more or less extended runs are "Peg o' My Heart" at the Cort; "Within the Law" at the Eltinge; "The Sunshine Girl" at the Knickerbocker; four one-act plays at the Princess; "Romance" at Maxine Elliott's; "All Aboard" at the Forty-fourth Street Roof Garden; "The Kissing Maid" at the Columbia; "The Battle of Gettysburg" at the Grand; "Quo Vadis" at the Astor; "Capt. Scott's Adventures" at the Lyric.

George Barr McCutcheon's "Graustark" is acted by the Cecil Spooner stock company at the Cecil Spooner Theatre this week.

Leo Ditrichstein's version of Hermann Bahr's comedy, "The Concert," is played by the Harlem Opera House stock company.

At the American Theatre the entertainers include Claude Ranf, Beatrice, the Rienzi Trio, and a dozen other acts.

The Four Mortons, in two sketches, head the New Brighton bill, where Edwin Stevens is among the other headliners.

At the Eden Musee the World in Wax, concerts, and the cinematograph offer varied diversions.

The New York Theatre's new policy of semi-weekly change of bill went into effect yesterday, with Robert Hilliard's playlet "The Littlest Girl" as one of the featured acts.

At Proctor's Twenty-third Street Baker and the Turner Twins head a long bill, which includes black and white photo plays de luxe.

"The Cloak Models," a miniature musical comedy, is a feature of Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street programme, where black and white photo plays de luxe and other vaudeville acts are included.

"Cheyenne Days," with its illustrations of Western life, leads the bill at Proctor's 125th Street Theatre, and there is a long bill of other acts, with pictures de luxe.

At Hammerstein's Victoria in the afternoons and on the roof at night Lady Constance Stewart Richardson is the featured dancer, with a number of other vaudeville acts.

At Proctor's Fifth Avenue, Fernande Ellscu appears in a new one-act play, "One of Them," which deals with the White Slave question. A variety of other offerings are included.

NEW 'FOLLIES' HAS MUCH TO ATTRACT

An Extra Illustrated Edition of Vaudeville Bound in Calves.

ERROLL IS VERY FUNNY

Lovely Girls, Good Dancing and Lavishness in Dress, with Well-Known Performers in Good Specialties.

What might be described as an extra illuminated edition of vaudeville bound in calves is provided by the new Ziegfeld Follies, which has come to be as regular a feature of the Summer in New York as, say, the Revue in Paris.

Only, to be quite candid, it must be admitted that in many respects the American producer goes the foreign originators one better. Certainly in lavishness of dress and swiftness of action no Folies Bergère show of recent years is to be mentioned truthfully in the same breath with what is being done over here.

This is not to say that the present show of folly is by any means the best of the series. It is still too early for that. But the show at the New Amsterdam contains some very good features and the usual amount of naïve naughtiness, and with the usual process of amendment through which all these shows must pass, the present series promises to make a place for itself in that history which deals with theatrical successes of 1913.

In the absence of Bert Williams, who has generally been a host in himself, the chief comedy honors of the present performance fall to Mr. Louis Erroll, who, besides being a very facile acrobat, is a good pantomimist with a well-developed sense of humor. He does with Stella Chatelaine a grotesque dance which is amazingly clever, and again, in a scene representing a subway station, he has a drunken act which is excruciatingly funny. Then there is Mr. Frank Tinney, who may be depended upon to provide some laughs whether he is appearing in black face or, as in one instance, in powdered wig and small clothes, doing the heavy husband in an alleged Franch triangle play. Here Miss Josie Collins, frequently conspicuous in the various doings, both by reason of pulchritude, voice, and gowns, has her best song, a lullaby, which pleases greatly. Otherwise Miss Collins's songs are not of the sure-fire kind, being somewhat severely sentimental.

Miss Elizabeth Brice, a general favorite, fares better in this aspect, and in one number she is the active telephone operator in a skit which visualizes much the sort of thing that goes to make up a playlet on the Little Princess Theatre bill. Here, however, an illuminated drop allows the audience to see the various people engaged in the altercation of the crossed wires.

There are color and variety and the noise of big guns to the finale of the first act, which presents pictorially "The Opening of the Panama Canal" and suggests in its congregation of beautiful femininity that Panama may not be as black as it is painted. And there is real beauty in a Palais du Danse scene, with some graceful ensemble dancing by girls very richly clad. Very beautiful, too, is a dance introduced by the versatile Martin Brown and the exceptionally attractive Rose Dolly. And good dancing is provided, also, by Miss Amorita Brown.

Nat M. Wills has several effective numbers, and the show in its entirety contains a varied assortment of turns, many of them elaborate, some of them genuinely striking, and all, on the whole, serving to provide the sort of evening's entertainment which the restless Summer stay-at-home will find to his—or her—liking.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The Duke and Duchess of Richelieu and Mrs. Seth Barton French are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis Scull at Overbrook, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clews will occupy the W. Crittenden Adams place at Glen Cove, L. I., for the Summer, Mr. Clews just having leased the estate, which is one of the finest on Long Island.

Mrs. Philip H. Sheridan and Miss Sheridan of Washington, D. C., are at the Hotel Gotham for a brief visit, also Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy W. Baldwin of East Seventieth Street, who expect to leave shortly for Monmouth Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ross Proctor and Miss Proctor, who have been at the Plaza, have returned to their country place at Shohola, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jourdan, Miss Jourdan, and Mrs. James Jourdan are at Briar Cliff Lodge to remain until the middle of October. Mr. and Mrs. W. V. N. Perine are also at the lodge for an indefinite visit.

DELLA FOX DEAD HERE.

Actress in a Long Stage Career Won Many Triumphs.

Della Fox, the popular American comedienne of two decades ago, and at one time a leading comic opera star, died early yesterday morning in a private sanitarium at 156 West Seventy-fourth Street, of acute indigestion. Her real name was Mrs. John D. Levy, but on the stage she always clung to her maiden name, by which she was known from one end of the country to the other.

Miss Fox was born in St. Louis, Mo., on Oct. 13, 1872. She was the daughter of A. J. Fox, a theatrical photographer, and made her first appearance on the stage as the Midshipmite in "Pinafore" at the age of 7 years. In 1880 she appeared as Adrienne in "A Celebrated Case," and subsequently played children's parts with Marie Prescott. About this time she attracted the attention of Augustus Thomas, then a young newspaper reporter, who had just dramatized Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, "Editha's Burglar," and Miss Fox was engaged to play the leading part in his play.

Later, Miss Fox joined the Bennett & Moulton Opera Company, and this led to an engagement with the Conried Opera Company. In 1889 she made her first appearance in New York, when only 17 years of age, at Niblo's Garden. In February of the same year she appeared as Yvonne in "The King's Fool" at the Broadway Theatre, and the next year played the part of Blanche in "Castles in the Air."

In 1891 she scored her first big success as Prince Mataya in "Wang," in which she appeared with De Wolf Hopper for two seasons. Her next big hit was in the rôle of Clairette at the Casino in 1894 in "The Little Trooper." She subsequently appeared in various comic opera parts, and also played in legitimate drama, mostly comedies. Later she appeared in vaudeville, and for a brief period enjoyed the distinction of being the highest paid performer on the variety stage. Afterward she went on a tour to the Coast with her own company in "The Little Host."

On Oct. 28, 1899, she was reported to be dying of peritonitis, but she rallied, and a few months later returned to the stage. In June, 1900, she suffered a nervous breakdown, and was forced to retire from the stage for six months. The following December she was married in Baltimore, Md., to John D. Levy, a New York diamond broker, after which she retired to private life. She returned to the stage during the past season, and played her last engagement two months ago in the revival of "Rosedale" at the Lyric Theatre.

Thomas J. Grout.

Thomas J. Grout, son of the late Paul and Eliza Snow Grout, died at his home, 415 West 146th Street, yesterday after a prolonged illness. He was born in this city on July 4, 1832. He attended the public school, and graduated from the College of the City of New York in 1853. He was a public school teacher for one year in the building at Ninth Street and First Avenue.

For half a century he was an active worker in the Baptist Church. Mr. Grout was a member of the New York Produce Exchange. He was also a member of the Seventh Regiment, Company A, in the civil war.

Dr. Daniel J. Scully.

Dr. Daniel J. Scully, formerly of Brooklyn, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home in Colorado Springs of bronchial pneumonia. Dr. Scully, who was a tuberculosis specialist and one of the foremost physicians in Colorado Springs, went there from Brooklyn ten years ago. Only last week he was in New York on a visit. He was born in Brooklyn, a son of the late Daniel J. Scully, and was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He was 38 years old, and is survived by his widow.

Dr. Richard F. Van Heusen.

Dr. Richard Fletcher Van Heusen died at his home, 611 West 110th Street, yesterday of Bright's disease, after a long illness. Dr. Van Heusen was born in Albany forty-six years ago, and was graduated at the Cornell Medical College in 1889. For several years he traveled for his health, and obtained certificates as a practicing physician in Colorado, California, Montana, Washington, and New York States. He returned to New York the last time seven years ago. Last year he went abroad for his health. Dr. Van Heusen was a member of the New York County Medical Society.

Gen. Robert L. Kimberly.

LADY CONSTANCE DANCES BY THE SEA

Titled English Performer Seen Here in Three Dances in a Classic Costume

Audience Applauds Her Generously, but She Confesses Great Nervousness in the "Two-a-Day."

Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, the exponent of bare-legged dancing, who some years ago shocked the feminine half of the English aristocracy by exhibiting what was then considered rather daring "art" for the edification of the British species of "tired business man," made her long-heralded American début as a professional at Hammerstein's yesterday afternoon and night, and in spite of the fact that she felt "just too nervous for anything" at her initial plunge into the two-a-day, as she said afterward, and that she suffered from the further handicap of a small stage, she got through her three dances swimmingly, to the evident delight of the audience, which worked hard but vainly to induce an encore on the part of the titled bare-limbed dancer, while files of ushers staggered up the aisles under the burden of American Beauty roses.

Ten years ago, the art censor of the Mr. Waldo of that time might have objected to Lady Constance's dance, but last night the parti-draped, lithe slimness that was Lady Constance seemed quite conventional, at least for a classic dancer. New York, long accustomed to bare feet, and a step further, was not startled.

Amid a scenic setting that represented the strand of the ocean, with huge, gray painted rocks on her right and a clump of bushes at left, Lady Constance interpreted Dvorak's "Humoresque," Delibes's lilting "Valse Lente," and the sprightly "Reed Pipe Dance" from Tchaikowsky's "Nut-Cracker Suite," as she conceived they ought to be danced. Whether the choric bands of Athenian maidens would have done anything even faintly like it, (if Greeks can be imagined dancing to Dvorak, or even Tchaikowsky) was left in doubt. But, after the turkey trot and tango, Lady Constance's dances seemed the quintessence of refinement.

There was a certain sameness of method in all three dances, consisting of much lively prancing about the stage, with ripple of rhythmic arms and body, varied by svelte, plastic poses suggestive of the figures on those fake antique vases that connoisseurs treasure. Only, instead of the ample, flowing white chitons of the classic Greek damsels, Lady Constance was semi-draped in what looked like scanty dark green mosquito netting.

Among those who applauded her last night were Capt. Freake, with several others of the vanquished British polo players, Mr. and Mrs. Guglielmo Marconi, and other notables.

GLOBE TROTTER AT 91.

Dr. Peebles Does Things Instead of Talking of By-Gones.

The only passenger on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnehaha, which arrived from London last night, who did not seem to mind the heat was Dr. J. M. Peebles of Los Angeles, Cal., who will be 92 years old on March 23 next. Dr. Peebles has arranged to start on his sixth trip around the world in the Fall of 1915. Dr. Peebles is over six feet tall, with snow white hair and beard and clear gray eyes. He told the reporters last night that he owed his good health to avoidance of drugs, eating proper food, and regular rest and exercise.

"I have been a vegetarian for sixty years," said Dr. Peebles, "and neither drink nor smoke, but I am not a bigot. I was born in Bennington, Vt., and was one of the seven founders of the Independent Order of Good Templars in New York State. I stayed in the East until I was 28 years old. I contracted tuberculosis and then went to California to save my life, and have lived there practically ever since."

"What is the real secret of your vitality at the age of 91?" he was asked.

"Just behaving myself, proper living, and always being up and doing account for it," said Dr. Peebles. "I have the will power to compel myself to do things instead of sitting in a corner talking about the by-gone days, when I stood on the anti-slavery platform with Garrison and other good men before the war.

"I feel that I am in the morning of my youth, and have no fear of death because I believe that it merely means the shedding of the outer shell and going to sleep, to wake up in a new world."

Dr. Peebles, who was accompanied by R. Peebles Sudall, his adopted son, was anxious to have the reporters know that he was opposed to vaccination and to vivisection. He was in the active practice of medicine for fifty years, and still treats some of his old patients. He served as a surgeon in the civil war, and was appointed a Consul in Asiatic Turkey by President Grant during his first term, but only served eighteen months of his term of office, as he found the life too tedious for endurance.

At the present time Dr. Peebles is a correspondent of thirty-one newspapers and peridocals, of which nine are in India. Two are Mahommedan papers. He made his first trip across the Atlantic in 1865 in the Cunarder Persia, an iron paddle wheel steamship of 3,300 gross tons, with a speed of 14 knots.

Mr. Sudall said that Dr. Peebles when at his home in Los Angeles generally arose about 4:30 o'clock in the morning and breakfasted about 5 o'clock. He is accustomed then to go to his rose garden. He retires as a rule between 8 and 9 o'clock at night unless he has a lecture to deliver. He intended to attend the international convention of spiritualists in Geneva this month, but the London fogs affected his throat. After lying in bed for a week Dr. Peebles got up and said he was going back to California.

There is a great deal of uncertainty among investors over the possible results on July 1st of the Supreme Court Decision, which, coupled with the extremely low prices at which the securities of these roads are selling, makes our analysis of the subject vitally interesting.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Reaction Follows the Violent Upturn of Last Week—The Rate Decisions.

After the handing down of the rate decisions by the Supreme Court the stock market resumed the decline which had been under way in the first hour of trading, and from which there had been a recovery which lasted until early afternoon. The selling which was evoked by the rate decisions was not heavy, but there was no such short interest present in the market to offer resistance as that which was present prior to last week's violent upturn. The decline lasted right up to the close of trading, and the final figures showed a net loss of more than half a point in the general level of prices. That amounted to about one-sixth of the recovery, which took place on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and was not severe enough, therefore, to cause any surprise or even to demand any special explanation.

So far as the real effect of yesterday's rate decisions is concerned, it has to be borne in mind that they were closely in keeping with the expectations which were formed on the basis of last week's decision in the Minnesota case, which was naturally expected to serve as the model for the decisions in the other rate cases, which were then still before the court. As in the Minnesota case, so in yesterday's decisions, several railroads are permitted by the decree of the court to charge higher rates than those which are held to have been legally applied by the several State Commissions to a number of other roads. Railroad men, judging by their practical experience in such matters, very naturally look upon this permission to certain roads to charge higher rates than those which are imposed upon others, as a theoretical, and not as a practical, advantage. Business will not go to a weaker road at a higher rate merely because it is weaker than its competitors, who, by Governmental order, are compelled to charge less. This, of course, does not apply to isolated local business, but it does apply to the business which makes up the great bulk of railroad traffic. The stocks of some of the roads affected by yesterday's decisions were weaker than the average of the market. In some of their cases it may have been hoped that the lower rates would be set aside on the ground that they were confiscatory, but relief on that score was granted by the Supreme Court in relatively few instances. These decisions, like their prototype handed down last week, do not finally settle the questions involved, but they do for the time being leave regulatory power in the hands of the States to an extent which involves much inconvenience to the railroads. But that was last week's news rather than yesterday's, and there was little reason, therefore, for regarding yesterday's decisions as adding any material factor to the sum of stock market information.

It was made clear in yesterday's dispatches that a very earnest effort is to be made at Washington to bring about the passage of a currency reform law at this session of Congress. The little that is publicly known regarding the Senate committee's plan indicates in the light of the outline of the House committee's plan published yesterday that agreement has yet to be reached between the House and Senate on some important details, though, apparently, there is approximate agreement between the two branches on the broad principles of the plans on which the House and Senate committees are at work. This fact was accepted as making easier a final agreement on currency legislation, and hence of favorable import. Money market lines tightened again somewhat yesterday, although call money, in keeping with recent precedent, was in superabundant supply. Time money, however, though again firmer, still reflected to some extent the favorable effect of the letting out of funds which was the noteworthy feature of last week's money market developments.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 1¾@2½ per cent., with the last loan at 2¼ per cent. The renewal rate was 1⅞ per cent.

Time money rates were 3¾@4 per cent. for sixty days, 4½@4¾ per cent. for ninety days, 4½@5 per cent. for four months, 4¾@5¼ per cent. for five months, 5¼@5½ per cent. for six months, and 5½ per cent. for seven months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $218,776,349; balances, $13,209,535; Sub-Treasury debit balance, $2,376,223.

The local banks have gained $1,613,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4 3-16@4¼ per cent. for short and three months' bills; Paris 3¾ per cent., and Berlin 5⅝@5¾ per cent. Money was 3@3½ per cent. in London and 3½ per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 22c., and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 44 pfennigs.

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.8720; demand, high, $4.8685; low, $4.8675; last, $4.8685.

Paris—Cable, 5.17½ less 1-32; check, 5.18¾.

SIXTY AND NINETY DAY BILLS.

London—Bankers', 60 days, $4.8305; 90 days, $4.8140.

London—Commercial, 60 days, $4.82¾; 90 days, $4.81⅛.

Paris—Commercial, 60 days, 5.22½ plus 1-16; 90 days, 5.23¾ less 1-32.

Berlin—Commercial, 60 days, 94 3-16; 90 days, 93 13-16 less 1-32.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

SILVER QUOTATIONS.

Bar silver was 1-16d higher in London, at 27 5-16d., and ⅛c. higher in New York, at 59¼c. per ounce.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Speyer & Co. have been advised by Secretary of State Bryan that their London house, Messrs. Speyer Brothers, has been designated as fiscal agents of the State Department. This firm was appointed fiscal agent of the Navy Department a few weeks ago.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has given notice that, in accordance with the terms of the agreement dated July 1, 1898, the outstanding debenture certificates will be paid upon presentation at the Bankers Trust Company on and after July 1. Coupons due on July 1 will also be paid by the trust company.

Stockholders of the Greene-Cananea Copper Company have voted to increase the par value of the stock from $20 to $100 a share.

J. M. Coward of the Coward Shoe Company and Charles H. Mattlage of C. H. Mattlage & Sons have been elected Directors of the Century Bank.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Sold Off Easily.

The stock market did not act yesterday in a way to encourage its bullish followers, who had hoped for a resumption of the upward movement with the beginning of a new week. There were times when buying appeared to be better than selling, but the advantage was always slight, and after the news tickers began to send out Supreme Court findings early in the afternoon stocks moved downward, to stay around the lower levels until the close. Prices were not far from the bottom in final transactions. A feature of the day's session was the ease with which stocks were forced back under comparatively light transactions. In spite of the moderate upturns of the morning hours, the market's underlying tone was best described at all periods of the day as soft, and when stocks appeared in quantity it required only a few sales of the leading issues to cause substantial recessions. The so-called "newer industrial" group received the full glare of the limelight, after an interval of several weeks in which the general movement of the stock list had been of a degree sufficiently spectacular to draw attention away from them. California Petroleum dropped 5 points, Mexican Petroleum 3½ points, and Rumely 3 points, the last receding this much on sales of only 300 shares.

Commercial Paper Grows Quiet.

Business in commercial paper yesterday was as quiet as on the days preceding the flurry of last Thursday. Brokers said that the action of several of the largest banks in suddenly entering the market for mercantile bills had momentarily stimulated demand in other centres than New York, but that outside institutions had failed to follow up the movement with further purchases. The local banks, also, eased their buying yesterday to a nominal amount. The check administered to commercial paper so close on the heels of a broad demand was interpreted in Wall Street as an indication that bankers were as determined as ever to keep borrowing for repayment late in the year within strictly defined limits. Figuratively expressed, that quarter of the Street which keeps in touch with money conditions thought yesterday that the heavy buying of Thursday was the safety valve pulled open by the banks to relieve the pressure of apprehension in the financial district toward the credit situation.

Bargain Hunters on Hand.

Knowledge that the Supreme Court would, according to precedent, have to hand down several important decisions or hold them over until Fall brought a large number of bargain hunters to the Street yesterday who have not been seen there for a long time. They were not averse to having it known before dispatches were received from Washington that they expected and hoped that the rulings on rate cases would be of the sort to break security prices "wide open." The lesser decisions, they thought, would supplement the Minnesota case, and, by impressing upon the mind of traders the power of the States in making rates, would be likely to cause a secondary break of prices more violent than the first. They watched the market until the close, and then went home disappointed. There was not as much said about investment buying in commission houses yesterday as last week.

No Early Rate Decision.

When the news tickers announced last Saturday that the Inter-State Commerce Commission promised a decision on the railroads' application for a 5 per cent. increase by July 1 many people jumped to the conclusion that the commission had determined to make use of the evidence submitted in the former application, and to hold no public hearings. This conclusion pointed pretty clearly to an adverse decision, since the commission could hardly allow an advance affecting so many interests without giving them a chance to present their side of the matter. Chairman Clark of the commission threw a different light on the matter yesterday, when he said that the commission must first decide whether to reopen Case No. 3,400, which was the application of 1910, or to start new proceedings entirely, and it was rumored in the commission's offices that this point would not be settled for several weeks, so that public hearings, if any are ordered, will probably not begin until September. And this is to be the point of the early decision.

No More "Blue Mondays."

With yesterday's batch of decisions the United States Supreme Court adjourned, not to meet again until October 14. The term just closed has been responsible for several very blue Mondays, and one black Tuesday. Without the possibility of important decisions to come down Monday is expected to lapse again into its old place as the dullest day of the week in financial circles this Summer.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Two Small Failures in London, but the Tone Is Generally Cheerful.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 17.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There were large movements of money yesterday, but the market was very easy.

"The discount rate for three months' bills gave way at the opening, but partially recovered later. The Paris Cheque fell ½c. The bulk of the South African bar gold was secured for the Continent, chiefly for Germany.

"The recovery in the stock markets made further progress, and during the early hours the general tone was distinctly firm. Business, however, was quieter than during the closing days of last week. The initial advances in many instances were not fully maintained.

"Two small failures were announced, but the news had practically no effect.

"The most satisfactory feature of the day's history was the steady stream of investment buying, chiefly in the home railway and foreign railway markets. Japanese bonds also were a firm market, owing to the news of economies effected by the Japanese Government for the current year.

"The American market reflected the more confident tone ruling in Wall Street at the close of last week. Some substantial rises were shown at the close.

"Partly owing to the holiday in Berlin, transactions in Canadian Pacific were on a rather smaller scale than of late."

PARIS, June 16.—Prices were irregular on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 84f. 5c. ex dividend.

BERLIN, June 16.—There was a holiday on the Boerse to-day.

BANKERS FOR MONEY BILL.

Not Best That Could Be Done, but Good, They Say, for a Start.

With the publication in yesterday morning's TIMES of the tentative plans for the Wilson Administration's banking and currency measure it became known that several of the leading downtown bank Presidents have had copies of the proposed new bill for several days. These preliminary drafts were brought by Senator Owen, Secretary McAdoo, and others who have talked with a number of the bankers on the country's needs.

It was the consensus of opinion in the financial district that, while the Owen-Glass measure leaves much to be desired, it is a great step forward in currency legislation, and should be passed.

"We don't expect a perfect bill to be struck off," said a bank President who has led the fight for currency reform in recent years. "If this measure is enacted it will furnish a base on which to build better as time shows what changes are necessary."

Owing to the fact that the advance copies of the new measure were left in confidence and are subject to changes which may materially change the meaning of the new legislation, none of the bankers was willing to discuss it in detail. One of the best-known men in financial affairs in this country said that Senator Owen deserved credit for having tried to get the best advice possible on the currency situation.

"It is not fair to say that the sponsors of the new measure have remodeled the Aldrich plan," he said. "Any one drawing up currency measures must take advantage of the experience of other countries. The original reserve system has been tried out in Europe and in the United States in ante-bellum days. The main lines of any reform are plainly marked out by experience, but the important details can greatly affect the success of the measure. I do not think that the reserve associations would become involved in politics."

Another national bank President said that the bill as shown to him carried greater promise than could be indicated by a brief digest. He said that the necessity which institutions in New York, Chicago, and St. Louis would be under of relinquishing a large part of their out-of-town deposits might produce trouble, but that he believed the bill would allow a period of three years to make readjustments.

Another bank President, whose institution holds a very large amount of deposits for correspondents, said that it was true that the central banks would lose a considerable share of their out-of-town deposits. "And we shall lose them very gladly, if the sacrifice means that we are going to have a decent currency system at last," he said.

The Currency Commission of the American Bankers' Association will meet at Atlantic City Wednesday, when the Owen-Glass bill will be discussed. A. Barton Hepburn, Chairman, and J. T. Talbert will attend from this city.

JAMES J. HILL DROPS IN.

Horse Is Dead, He Says, About Rate Case Decision—Expects Good Crops.

James J. Hill, at one time Chairman of the Great Northern Railway, but now a private citizen, dropped in at the company's New York office yesterday on his way to Ottowa. He appeared not at all disturbed by the Minnesota rate decision, and when asked for his opinion of its effects, remarked indifferently:

"The horse is dead; isn't that enough?"

Mr. Hill said that the Northwest expects another good wheat crop, while perhaps not so good as last year's exceptional harvest. "We could use a little more rain than we have been getting, but no loss has occurred yet, and we ought to have rains in the next two weeks," he said. "We have a long way to go yet before the wheat is put into the barn."

Mr. Hill said that business apeared to be in satisfactory condition, and that he had seen no signs of a let-up in the Northwest. As for the need of more freight cars to carry this year's crops, he said:

"We don't need more cars; what we want is a greater car movement. A freight car travels two hours out of the twenty-four."

EQUITABLE PLANS APPROVED

After alterations suggested by him had been made, Fire Commissioner Johnson approved yesterday the plans for the new Equitable Life Assurance Society Building, a thirty-six-story structure to be built at 120 Broadway. Intersecting walls will divide the building into quarters, and fireproof elevator shafts and doors are provided.

The plans were submitted to Commissioner Johnson three weeks ago. His alterations called for the placing of fireproof walls around the elevator shafts, one in each quarter of the building, and fireproof doors leading to stairways, to open and shut automatically. L. J. Horowitz, President of the Thompson-Starrett Company, the contractors, was in the office of Commissioner Johnson when the plans were approved.

"It is my opinion," said President Horowitz, "that the new Equitable Building will be the nearest to an absolutely fireproof building in the world. The work of construction will begin immediately."

Capital Increases.

ALBANY, June 16.—The following increases of capital have been filed with the State Department: Levine Brothers, Inc., of New York, from $25,000 to $200,000; J. H. Cranford Construction Company, from $2,000 to $50,000; Peoples Bank of Buffalo, from $300,000 to $600,000; Arlington Costume Company, Inc., from $10,000 to $100,000; Fairview Company, from $125,000 to $150,000; Deforest Estate Corporation, from $341,000 to $514,000, and Bronx Grocery Company, from $20,000 to $50,000. The Industrial Distilling Company (New York and Kentucky Company) of Rochester has reduced its capital from $600,000 to $500,000.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the Missouri rate cases were construed unfavorably by traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange and helped to stimulate a selling movement which had been under way from the opening of business. Prices on the 9:30 o'clock opening call reflected a tendency to sag, declines being registered in the leading stocks of ¼ to ⅝ of a point from Saturday's closing figures.

STEEL TRUST'S SIZE SHOWN BY FIGURES

GIVEN IN DISSOLUTION SUIT

32,448 Employes Own $40,690,000 of Stock — Controller of the Corporation a Witness.

William J. Filbert, Controller of the United States Steel Corporation, used some big figures yesterday in testifying for the defense in the suit for its dissolution. He said the total wages paid from the beginning of operation on April 1, 1901, to Dec. 31, 1912, were $1,659,944,622. Taxes have amounted to $66,579,789, interest on bonds, mortgages, and purchase obligations, $377,109,488, and dividends on Steel Corporation stock in the hands of the public, inter-company dividends not being included, were $495,196,490.

In 1911 the Steel Corporation spent $1,276,752 on sanitation and welfare, and in 1912 it spent $1,058,243. Accident prevention and safety devices cost $747,469 in 1911, and $614,367 in 1912. When the voluntary pension system was established $2,000,000 was set aside for permanent investment, in addition to Andrew Carnegie's $4,000,000, and $163,018 has been supplied for working capital and $238,780 to meet deficiencies. The voluntary accident relief plan has cost in three years $5,304,321.

Under the employes stock subscription plan $30,596,400 par value of preferred and $10,099,600 of common has been bought on the installment plan by 32,448 employes.

The chief purpose of Mr. Filbert's testimony was to verify statistics presented by President James A. Farrell when he was on the witness stand, in relation to the growth of foreign trade, the declining percentage of the country's output controlled by the Steel Corporation, and other matters. Mr. Filbert said the figures had been compiled in his office, most of them by himself, but J. M. Dickinson, counsel for the Government, still objected to them. Figures of output, Mr. Filbert said, were made up from reports to him by the controllers and accountants of the subsidiary companies.

"Then they are based on hearsay," declared Judge Dickinson.

"If official reports made in the course of business by those who are required to make them to me are hearsay, then my figures are based on hearsay."

Judge Dickinson also objected that in calculating the percentage of output that of the independent manufacturers had been taken from trade publications.

"These same figures from the same source have been introduced by the Government in this case," retorted Mr. Filbert.

"Are you sure of that," asked Judge Dickinson, dubiously. Mr. Filbert said he was. It developed also that counsel for the Steel Corporation had objected to them at the time just as vigorously as Judge Dickinson did yesterday. The same figures have thus been put in by both sides and both sides have objected to them.

President Farrell had said that one of the chief objects in organizing the Steel Corporation was to effect economy and cut manufacturing costs, and as evidence of this told how comparative cost sheets for the various factories were made up periodically and sent to the mill Superintendents. Each Superintendent tried to reach the top of the list, and if the costs of a particular mill were abnormally high the attention of the general officers were drawn to it.

Mr. Filbert told in detail of this system, which, he said, was started as soon as the Steel Corporation began business. It is now getting out fifty monthly cost statements. In connection with blast furnaces alone, 8,000 items appear on these sheets, which are sent to all the subsidiaries.

Mr. Filbert also reinforced the testimony of E. H. Gary as to the policy of the Steel Corporation in giving publicity to its affairs and as to the protracted investigation of its operations made by the Commissioner of Corporations without adverse criticism resulting. The investigation was begun by James R. Garfield in 1906 and continued for four years. Thousands of pages of records were furnished to the Government, extra clerks being employed for the purpose, and the books were thrown open for their verification by Government accountants.

In 1910 the Government demanded further information, which took nearly a year to compile, and after a lull in 1911 more reports were called for and furnished, after six months' work. These went to the Bureau of Labor, and other departments, and to the Stanley committee. Up to 1910 this work had cost the Steel Corporation $200,000.

Over 100,000 copies of the annual report was distributed each year, Mr. Filbert said, many Government officials and members of Congress being on the mailing list.

"Does the President of the United States get one?" asked D. A. Reed, who examined Mr. Filbert for the defense.

"I don't think he does," said Mr. Filbert.

LEGAL FOR INVESTMENT.

Carmody Rules on M., K. & T. Notes and New Mexico Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 16.—Railway equipment notes, issued under conditional sale agreements, for the payment of which a solvent corporation of the United States or of a State is liable, are legal investments for the surplus funds of life insurance companies, in the opinion of Attorney General Carmody. The question was raised by the State Insurance Department concerning the legality of an issue of $1,900,000 5 per cent. equipment notes of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway. The notes were issued under an agreement of conditional sale between the Central Trust Company of New York and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas.

In another opinion Mr. Carmody advises the Banking Department that bonds issued by the State of New Mexico, pursuant to an act of the Legislature of that State approved June 1, 1912, are legal investments for the savings banks of New York State.

DIVIDEND FOR WIRELESS.

Marconi Starts with 2 Per Cent.—May Pay Every Six Months.

Stockholders of the Marconi Wireless Company of America were notified at the annual meeting in Jersey City yesterday that the Directors had declared an initial dividend of 2 per cent., to be paid on Aug. 1. The payment was not made for any particular period of the year, but President John W. Griggs announced that if the company met with no set-back there would be something for the shareholders every six months.

The growth of the company's gross business in the year ended on Jan. 31, 1913, was shown by an increase in traffic receipts of more than $42,000 over the preceding year and of more than $66,000 above the record of 1910. Total income last year was $109,943. The profit and loss surplus, from which the dividend was declared, amounted to $224,483. The advance in gross income in 1912 was mostly due to the acquisition by the Marconi Company of wireless contracts with a fleet of ships which had been previously equipped by the United Wireless Company.

In reviewing the company's operations President Griggs said:

"There are now equipped by the Marconi Wireless Company more than 450 ships of the American mercantile marine, and, with the addition of the shore stations, there are now equipped by the company over 500 stations on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. We are justified in saying that practically all commercial vessels flying the American flag are equipped with the Marconi apparatus as supplied, operated, and owned by this company.

"The plans of the Directors do not stop, however, with the Anglo-American stations. Already well under way is the construction of co-operating stations at San Francisco and in the Sandwich Islands. From Honolulu we look beyond to service connections with the Philippine Islands, thence to Japan, China, and India—an imperial chain."

The stockholders increased the Directorate to nine members at the meeting. Marcus Goodbody was the new Director elected.

DETROIT, TOLEDO & IRONTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

To the Holders of Said Bonds:

The undersigned, the Committee appointed and acting under a Bondholders' Protective Agreement dated December 1, 1909, as amended February 24, 1911, and March 28, 1913, HEREBY GIVES NOTICE that it has prepared and adopted a Plan and Agreement, dated June 3, 1913, for the reorganization of the properties upon which the mortgage securing the above bonds is a first lien, to wit, the Northern and Southern Divisions of the above Railway Company, and has filed said Plan and Agreement with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY as Depositary thereunder.

Holders of outstanding Certificates of Deposit of The New York Trust Company issued upon deposit of the above bonds under said Protective Agreement, who do not file with the Committee their written dissent from said Plan and Agreement and notice of their desire to withdraw from said Protective Agreement, and who do not surrender their Certificates of Deposit and withdraw the amount of bonds represented thereby and pay to the Depositary, for the account of the Committee, the sum of $125.00 for each bond (which amount has been fixed by the Committee as a fair proportion of the compensation, expenses, and obligations of the Committee), ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, shall be conclusively and finally deemed to have assented to and ratified said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization and to be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

Holders of said bonds and holders of Certificates of Deposit therefor will be permitted to share in the reorganization only upon subscribing and paying to THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, the Depositary, at its office, Number 26 Broad Street, New York, for the purposes of the Reorganization, $350 in New York funds for each bond of the face value of $1,000, with June 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached, deposited by them, the first instalment of the amount so payable, viz.: the sum of $100 for each such bond being payable ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, and the balance in one or more instalments, as called for by the Reorganization Committee, on not less than two weeks' published notice given as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

For such payments to be made by the Depositors under said Plan and Agreement, and in exchange for the bonds deposited by them, the Depositors will be entitled to receive, upon the completion of the Reorganization under said Plan, in case said Plan shall have been declared operative, for each $350 in cash, paid by them, as provided in said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

Two-Year Six Per Cent. (6%) Gold Notes (at 96)....$364.58
Voting Trust Certificates for Capital Stock....$1,000.00

Certificates of Deposit must be presented to the Depositary at the time of the payment of the instalments payable in respect thereof for the appropriate notation thereon of such payment.

Holders of bonds, who have not already deposited the same under the said Protective Agreement, may become parties to said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization by depositing their bonds in negotiable form with June 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached, with the Depositary under said Protective Agreement ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, receiving Certificates of Deposit therefor issued under said Protective Agreement, with appropriate notation showing that the holders of such certificates have assented to said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, and by paying to the Depositary the amounts payable under said Plan and Agreement as hereinbefore stated within the times limited for such payment.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Trying a New Selling Plan.

An interesting sales experiment is being tried by one of the city's largest department stores. Discussing it yesterday, an officer of the firm said:

"By far the largest part of the business of the department stores of New York is done between 11 A. M. and 5 P. M. The average store employes' luncheon period comes between 11 and 3 o'clock. This means that about one-third of the sales force is at luncheon just when the shoppers are most active. To meet this condition we have arranged to have several of our best salesmen come on duty at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and work until 5 o'clock in the afternoon without a lunch hour. This gives them a shorter working day and an opportunity to get a late breakfast and an early dinner. The work is hard and fast while these men are on duty, but the shorter day and larger sales make this staff the envy of the store. While the experiment is still young it is working well both for the store and the employes. I expect to see it taken up generally within the next few years."

A New Suit Fabric.

A new suit fabric which seems likely to make considerable impression on the better class of Fall business in women's wear lines is duvedyn. In appearance it so closely resembles suede kid that experts on fabric construction have confused the two. Tan jackets of duvedyn with white skirts were worn at the Piping Rock races recently by a few women who had just returned from abroad, and attracted considerable attention. It is expected that duvedyn will be used this Fall both in the manufacture of suits and separate coats and jackets.

London Fur Sale Well Attended.

The greatest number of buyers on record attended the public fur sales in London this month, according to a report received yesterday from Phillips, Politzer & Co. of that city. Offerings were exceptionally large for this time of year, but bidding was active and prices on the principal furs kept well up to the levels set at the March auction. While comparative prices for the March and June sales were not given, these furs were reported to have sold above Spring prices: Australian red fox, 10 per cent.; cross fox, 50 per cent.; silver fox, 25 per cent.; white fox, 10 per cent.; fitch, 20 per cent.; wallaby, (furriers',) 10 per cent.; civet cat, 10 per cent., and leopard, 50 per cent.

National Commerce Body to Meet.

A call for a meeting of the special committee on the Department of Commerce has been sent out by the officers of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Secretary of Commerce Redfield will give the committee a hearing on June 23. The committee was organized to consider a plan to broaden the scope of the work of the Department of Commerce. These men make up the committee: J. H. Fahey, Boston; C. M. Smyth, Philadelphia; A. H. Mulliken, Chicago; C. C. Jenks, Detroit; C. H. De Fosse, Worcester; P. B. Fouke, St. Louis; L. W. Parker, Greenville, S. C.; W. H. Cottingham, Cleveland, and I. E. Bennett, Washington (representing the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce). The National Chamber of Commerce was organized in the Taft Administration and now includes practically every trade body of importance in the country. It was formed with the idea of bringing the business and administrative interests of the country into closer relations.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Whisk Brooms Not Woodenware; Truckmen's Bill Reduced.

The United States Court of Customs Appeals decided that whisk brushes made of willow twigs were dutiable under the Tariff act of 1909 at 40 per cent. ad valorem as brooms. The Swedish Produce Company asked to pay at 35 per cent. on manufactures of wood. The Board of General Appraisers sustained the claim. Judge De Vries, deciding for the court, reversed the board.

The court overruled a contention by the Badische Company over samples of coloring results from dye stuffs on cards and rags. The articles were returned under Paragraph 416, as printed matter, at 25 per cent. ad valorem. The importers asked free entry for samples of no commercial value. The board affirmed the Collector's assessment, and the court held that the importers' course should have been to seek a reappraisement.

The court disposed of a case pending for many months over drayage charges on matches imported by Masson & Co. The goods were transported to a Government warehouse as unclaimed, and later claimed. The Collector at Baltimore exacted truckage amounting to 18 cents a case, when the regular commercial rate was only 6 cents a case. The board sustained the protest, and Judge Barber, in a majority decision for the court, affirmed. Judges De Vries and Martin dissented.

BUSINESS NOTES.

J. H. Thompson, buyer of silks for B. Altman & Co., will start Saturday on a business trip to Europe.

Silk imports at New York in the week ended June 7 amounted to $879,861. Of this amount $800,154 worth was entered for consumption and $79,707 worth was entered into bonded warehouses. Withdrawals from warehouses in the same period amounted to $73,070.

The Mutual Film Company, now at 60 Wall Street, will move about Aug. 1 to the Masonic Building, 71 West Twenty-third Street. It will occupy the whole of the fifteenth floor there.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

All of the German commercial newspapers of a recent date reported a serious financial crisis in the potash industry. The funded securities of the leading mining companies of the Polish syndicate, which had been regarded as gilt edged and were selling at high premiums, have fallen below par. The cause of this alarming condition of the industry is overproduction.

The increased demand for oil of vitriol in Russia has necessitated the increasing of production. New factories now are being built with an estimated production of 90 to 126 short tons a day.

The Government of London has ordered from Germany two pairs of lock gates and a swing bridge for the East India dock at the port of London. The lowest tender from firms in England was $250,000. The Gutehoffnungshutte Actienverein fur Bergban und Huttenbetrieb of Oberhausen, Germany, offered the equipment at $81,000 with quicker delivery and obtained the order.

It is probable that hollow concrete blocks will be used extensively in constructing the permanent buildings at the new Balboa, Panama, town site. The blocks will be made on the Isthmus, and for that purpose twelve special machines have been ordered from the United States.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

CHARLES A. NONES.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Charles A. Nones, residing at 73 Riverside Drive, by Sidney Rosenbaum, attorney for creditors. Mr. Nones, it is said, is President of the Quicksilver Mining Company and was formerly President of the Evansville & Terre Haute Railroad Company and of the Evansville & Indiana Railroad Company. Two judgments were entered recently against Charles A. Nones, one for $52,041 in favor of M. F. Carlton and the other for $2,368 in favor of P. H. McLellan.

THEODORE D. KAUFFER, manufacturer of glue and curled hair at 2 and 4 Dover Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $11,196 and assets of $3,490, consisting of stock, $900; accounts, $2,500, and note, $90. Among the creditors are Adolph Lewisohn, $2,419; L. Lewisohn estate, $1,385; Sigmund Borgzinner, $1,339, and Market & Fulton National Bank, $900. He was formerly manager of the American Curled Hair Company and also of the Eagle Glue Company, owned by Lewisohn Brothers, and when those companies dissolved on December, 1901, he succeeded to the businesses and used the style of the Eagle Glue and Curled Hair Company. He formerly had a factory at Central Falls, R. I.

B. MASOR & CO., INCORPORATED.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the B. Masor & Co., Incorporated, Iron Works, at 721 East 133d Street. The business was started twenty-one years ago by B. Masor and was incorporated on Sept. 10, 1907, with capital stock of $10,000.

JONES CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—Judge Hand has appointed Walter L. Bryant receiver for the Jones Construction Company of 1 Union Square. It was stated that the equities in two structures owned by the company might amount to $2,000.

GELLMAN & LIPSTITZ.—Judge Hand has confirmed a composition of Gellman & Lipstitz, dealers in furniture at 83 Avenue C, with creditors at 20 cents on the dollar, payable 15 cents cash and 5 cents in a note at 60 days. Their liabilities were $5,550.

SCHLANSKY & HIMMELFARB.—Judge Hand has confirmed a composition of Schlansky & Himmelfarb, jobbers in women's wear at 531 Broadway, with creditors at 25 cents on the dollar, cash. Their liabilities were $8,331.

FREDERICK B. ALEXANDER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Frederick B. Alexander, who was a partner in the firms of Alexander & Co. and Mitchell & Co., stock brokers of 43 Exchange Place, show liabilities of $97,417, of which $28,716 are personal liabilities and the balance are liabilities of the above firms. Assets are $60,586, consisting of a claim against A. Musica & Son and Rapp, Landsberger & Co. of Paris for $60,000; cash, $1; half interest in a gasoline cruiser, Tuna II., $500; tennis prizes, value unknown; one rifle, three fishing rods and tackle, one mounted fish, golf clubs and bags, all valued at $55. E. B. Alexander is a creditor for $28,000, secured by $24,000 bonds of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company.

ABRAMSON ENGESSER COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Abramson Engesser Company, cabinet work, at 514 West Forty-sixth Street, show liabilities of $22,249, and assets of $240, on a debt due the company. Among the creditors are the Twenty-third Ward Bank, $2,000, secured; Bernard Engesser, as executor of the estate of Adam Engesser, $9,968, secured; Eva Engesser, $2,448, secured, and Joseph G. Abramson, $2,100.

J. W. WILSON & CO., INC.—A meeting of creditors of J. W. Wilson & Co., corporation, importers and exporters of 52 Front Street, mainly in the Mexican trade, was held yesterday at the office of Samuel St. John McCutcheon, attorney, at 128 Broadway. A committee was appointed to make an investigation and report a plan to conserve the assets. The trouble was attributed to the unsettled condition of affairs in Mexico and the recent tight money condition here. The liabilities are about $100,000, and the assets are nominally larger, but the greater part is not immediately available to meet maturing obligations, consisting mostly of outstanding accounts, which are believed to be collectable in time. One account, which it is thought can be collected if sufficient time is allowed, will be sufficient, it is said, to come pretty near to the liabilities. The bulk of the liabilities are to eight banks. The business is an old one, having been founded in 1872, and was incorporated on Dec. 30, 1903, with a capital stock of $500,000. The corporation imported coffee, skins, mahogany, and vanilla, and exported general merchandise. The annual report of Jan. 1 last, it is said, showed assets of $692,816, against liabilities of $117,843. The principal items of assets were: Accounts, $561,477; cash, $18,029; interest in a bottling company at Monterey, Mexico, $40,366, and treasury stock, $67,200.

Discharges from Bankruptcy.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE Union Trust Company of New York:

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to resolutions duly adopted by the Board of Trustees, a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of the Union Trust Company of New York will be held at the office of the Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, N. Y., in the room in which the annual meeting of the Stockholders is usually held, on the 25th day of June, 1913, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

The objects of said meeting are:

(1) To authorize the proposed increase of the capital stock of the Union Trust Company of New York from $1,000,000, divided into 10,000 shares, each of the par value of $100, to $3,000,000, divided into 30,000 shares, each of the par value of $100.

(2) To authorize the offering of such additional stock, to wit: 20,000 shares of stock, each of the par value of $100, for subscription at the par value thereof pro rata to the stockholders of the Union Trust Company of New York of record at the close of business on the 25th day of June, 1913, for such period and under such regulations and provisions as shall be determined at said special meeting of stockholders, and the sale of all additional shares not subscribed, taken and paid for, by the President of the Company to such persons, in such manner, at such time or times, and at such price as he may determine; provided, however, that none of such shares shall be sold for less than the market value thereof nor for less than $100 per share.

(3) To take such action as may properly come before said meeting in relation to the proposed increase of said capital stock, and the disposition thereof.

Dated, New York, June 9, 1913.

EDWIN G. MERRILL, President.
HENRY M. POPHAM, Secretary.

CHANGING NAMES OF AUTO PARTS

Engineers Think It Would Be Better for Fewer Designations of the Same Thing.

Believing that the multiplicity of terms applied to the various parts of a motor car cause confusion, the nomenclature division of the Society of Automobile Engineers reported to the parent body at its recent session in favor of simplification of part names. In studying the subject the investigators discovered that a surprising number of names were used for the same thing; that synonyms were legion. They suggested the lopping off of a lot of these unnecessary words. For instance, they found that the "Differential Gear," was variously known as the "Jack-in-the-box," "Balance Gear," "Compensating Gear," "Differential," and "Equalizing Gear." Their suggestion was that only "Differential Gear" and "Equalizing Gear" be retained, these being chosen as describing the mechanism.

In like manner they would have the terms "Under Guard," "Guard Plate" or "Underpan" substituted for the twelve forms which they found in general use to describe this portion of a motor car, namely "Drip Pan," "Under Pan," "Shield," "Under Protection," "Dust Guard," "Dust Pan," "Mud Pan," "Sod Pan," "Grease Pan," "Guard," "Protecting Shield," and "Cover Box." The investigators advised the use of "Wheel Guard" or "Guard Wing" instead of "Fender," "Wheel Guard," "Mud Guard," "Wing," "Shield for Carriage Wheel," "Dress Protector," "Wheel Fender for Vehicles," "Wheel and Dress Guard" and "Mud Fender for Vehicles," all of which they found in common usage.

In selecting what seemed to them the best term or names for these and other portions of the automobile, the division, of which E. J. Stoddard was Chairman, was actuated by the following general principles:

That the nomenclature of the art, as far as practicable, should conform to the laws and usages of the general language. That there should be no unnecessary exclusively technical terms. That there should not be a multiplicity of names for the same thing, and that derivations should be direct and in good taste, and by preference should express the characteristic function of the part. The belief was also expressed in the division's report that the nomenclature of the different nations should be as nearly alike as possible.

The questions most often asked of H. C. Brokaw, principal of the West Side Y. M. C. A. automobile school, this year relate to economy as applied to motoring. The students are learning to look beyond the first price of the car. "Would it be better to buy a second-hand car of a reliable make than a cheaper car of a more or less uncertain reputation?" and "What car can I buy that will cost me the least money and last the longest time?" are two of the leaders among the queries.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hoosier Motor Club of Indianapolis, it was decided that in addition to the standing reward of $25 offered for the capture and conviction of any one stealing a member's car $10 would also be offered for information leading to the recovery of a member's car.

"Automobile Row" was interested yesterday in the announcement of the resignation of Richard D. Willard, Secretary of the Fiat Sales Company and manager of the New York branch of that company. Willard, who has been on the "Row" for ten years, has not yet made public his new connection.

Weather in Cotton and Grain States

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The following is the forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday, as issued by the United States Weather Bureau, for the cotton and grain States:

North Carolina—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; light to moderate west winds.

South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday; light variable winds.

Mississippi and Louisiana—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday, except probably showers near the coast; light variable winds.

Eastern Texas—Local thunder showers Tuesday, Wednesday cloudy; moderate southeast winds.

Western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Oklahoma, and Colorado—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Dakota, Kansas, and Nebraska—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ohio and Indiana—Probably fair Tuesday. Wednesday, fair; not quite so warm; light to moderate variable winds.

Illinois—Fair Tuesday; not quite so warm in extreme north portion. Wednesday, fair; moderate, variable winds, becoming north and northeast.

Lower Michigan and Upper Michigan—Fair and not quite so warm Tuesday. Wednesday, fair; moderate, variable winds, mostly north.

Wisconsin and Minnesota—Fair and somewhat lower temperature Tuesday; Wednesday fair; moderate northeasterly and easterly winds.

Iowa—Fair and not quite so warm Tuesday; Wednesday fair.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

The demand for slipper garnitures of the buckle type this season has resulted in the introduction of pressed steel buckles that can be retailed at 50 cents and up. They have a cut steel finish, but are much cheaper than buckles of cut steel.

Recent reports from Lyons, France, say that the silk mills of that city are running to capacity. Increased buying on the part of American merchants is one of the things to which the rush of orders is attributed. The general European demand is good also.

The call for sashes in this market continues to increase. Military effects in this merchandise seem to be especially desired.

Russian blouse effects, with double-pleated tunics, will be one of the features of the silk dresses to be worn this Fall. The call for all sorts of silk dresses continues heavy in local manufacturing circles.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat prices closed strong at net gains of 1¼ to 1½c. Corn reached net high figures for the year, showing a net advance of ½ to 1½c. Oats were active and final prices 2⅛ to 2¾c. net higher. New crop positions in cotton reached new high figures for the season, with the close showing net advances of 17 to 24 points. Cottonseed oil prices closed 2 to 14 points net higher.

WHEAT.

In the wheat market weather conditions in the Northwest again furnished the principal topic of interest, and as there was further apprehension of damage to the Spring wheat crop, traders bought freely. There were some good showers in the Dakotas and part of Minnesota over Sunday, but it was thought that the precipitation had not been great enough to be of more than very slight benefit to the crop, and after moving rather feverishly during the morning the market hardened late in the day and closed strong, with a net advance of 1¼ to 1½c. There was heavy selling at times, which suggested profit-taking on the part of leading bulls, but offerings were readily absorbed, and a few courageous bears who sold short on the early reports of showers were anxious buyers late in the day. The weather was very favorable for harvesting the Winter wheat and reports that Texas had already received a car of new wheat, and that Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri were asking for bids, suggested the probability of an early movement and possibly increased hedging operations on the selling side. The foreign markets were rather quiet and barely steady on favorable foreign crop news. The visible supply decreased 1,699,000 bushels, against a decrease last year of 2,043,000. In the local market No. 1 Northern Spring wheat was quoted at $1.04, f. o. b., afloat. World's exports were 13,184,000 bushels, against 15,152,000 last week and 14,768,000 last year.

CORN.

The dry hot weather over the greater part of the corn belt resulted in renewed aggressive operations on the part of bulls, as well as covering by shorts, and prices advanced to new high records, with little resistence aside from profit taking. Cash markets at the interior were about a cent higher. World's exports were 6,141,000 bushels, compared with 7,302,000 last week and 9,128,000 last year. In the local market export corn was quoted at 70c nominal, free on board afloat.

OATS.

The crop scare became more pronounced in oats during yesterday's session and prices became strong on active and general buying, closing at a net advance of 2⅛ to 2¾c. The local cash market was firmer, with standard white quoted at 46½ to 47c; No. 2, 47½; No. 3, 46 to 46½c; No. 4, 45 to 45½c; ordinary clipped white, 45½ to 46½c, and fancy tipped white, 47½ to 48½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision list was firm and generally higher all day on covering by shorts and a fair commission house demand, based partly on the strength in grain. The movement was rather liberal, but appeared to have very little effect. Receipts at Kansas City were 9,000 hogs and in Omaha 7,400.

COTTON.

After a comparatively quiet but steady opening, the cotton market developed considerable activity and strength, with all the new-crop positions making new high ground for the season on covering of shorts and fresh buying for long account. October contracts sold up to 11.62c, or fully $4 per bale above the low level reached at the end of last April, and the market closed steady, at a net gain of from 17 to 24 points for the day. New Orleans was firm after the local close, and private business was reported here late in the afternoon at advances of 4 or 5 points from the official closing figures. The crop review of a prominent New Orleans authority indicated an increase of not over 3 per cent. in acreage, and suggested rather a spotted outlook. These features seemed to hold sellers in check, while bullish sentiment was encouraged by higher Liverpool cables, a continued good English spot trade, a bullish construction of Saturday's supply and distribution figures, reports of a good home demand for cotton goods, and continued uneasiness over the near-month situation in view of the still diminishing local stock.

Southern spot markets officially reported early were unchanged to 3-16c higher, generally unchanged. New York contracts had advanced more rapidly than spots during the past week, and the upper movement has been partly in the way of readjustment between New York futures and other markets.

The local market for spot cotton was steady and unchanged to 12.35c for middling upland; sales nil; delivered on contract, 2,300 bales.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Further strength developed in the market for cotton seed oil with active covering on the part of speculative shorts and further buying credited to refining interests. Longs were good sellers on the bulge, which served to check the advance, but prices late in the day were at the top with June showing an advance of 14 points, while other positions were 2 to 9 points higher.

COFFEE.

A moderate revival developed, although Havre was weak at the start, and the market here opened at a decline of 5 to 7 points, but closed with little coffee for sale and firm, net unchanged to 6 points higher, on total sales of 51,250 bags. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were steady at unchanged to about 10 points lower.

Spot coffee easy; Rio 7, 10⅝c.

Total warehouse deliveries in the United States last week were 85,190 bags, against 58,499 bags the previous week and 77,022 bags last year. Of the former amount New York had 50,850 bags.

Receipts at Rio and Santos last week totaled 100,000 bags, against 91,000 bags the previous week and 85,000 bags last year.

NEW YORK—Catskill Mountains.

The best place to spend your summer vacation is in the Historic, Picturesque and Healthful

Catskill Mountains

The high altitude of this great mountain sanitarium, ranging from 2,000 to 4,000 feet above the sea, is an important factor in the selection of a summer home.

In addition to the private parks there are over 1,000 hotels and boarding houses amid green fields and towering crags in this country of scenic beauty and wildwood charm, known the world over as a paradise for children and a sanitarium for everybody.

THE ULSTER & DELAWARE R. R.

reaches all points in this glorious country, and in connection with West Shore R. R., operate the only through car line, including Pullman service, between New York and the Catskill Mountains.

The popular RIP VAN WINKLE FLYER from New York leaves Cortlandt St., 12:40 noon, West 42d St., 1 o'clock P. M., Weehawken 1:15 P. M., daily except Sunday.

Steamers of the Hudson River Day Line make direct connection at Kingston Point with afternoon trains for all points in the Mountains.

The summer time schedule for season of 1913 will go in effect Sunday, June 22nd.

The annual illustrated book with revised map of the Catskill Mountain Section, also map showing the great Ashokan Reservoir, and containing corrected list of hotels and boarding houses, will be sent free on receipt of 6 cents postage.

Life and Gayeties of the

of New England

A region of wonderful vacation places. Nowhere else in the world will you find such a coast-line—rocky headlands, beaches, islands, lovely harbors. Or so much of the

THRILL and JOY of the SEA

Summer is one round of delightful pleasures. The German Emperor's own yachtsmen are coming over to race. The great yacht clubs will have their regattas and cruises. There will be famous tennis and golf tournaments. Glorious bathing, sailing, fishing, motoring. And, oh, such sea-air!

The social life is brilliant. You will meet people worth knowing.

And you can find just the vacation you want. Modern, up-to-date hotels, or perhaps a smaller hotel or boarding house filled with congenial people. Possibly a sleepy fishing village, or some island paradise. And you can suit your purse.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

11,082. BARBED WIRE.—An American Consul in the Near East reports that a firm of commission agents in his district desires prices on barbed wire. The market is at present supplied chiefly by France and Belgium, and the wire is imported in reels of twenty-five and fifty kilos, measuring about 820 and 1,640 feet. Prices to dealers cost, insurance, freight the port in question are from $5 to $5.40 per 220 pounds. This firm desires cost, insurance, freight prices, cash against documents. Correspondence may be in English.

11,083. RAINCOATS.—A business firm in a Latin-American country informs an American Consulate that it desires to be put in touch with American manufacturers of raincoats. The firm states that it is particularly interested in the style known as "Tower's Fish Brand Slickers."

11,084. COFFEE AND GUM ARABIC.—A report from an American Consular officer in the Levant states that he is informed by the local representative of an American company that one of his customers desires to export Mocha and Abyssinian coffee and gum arabic, and requests to be put in touch with American importers of such articles. Correspondence may be in English.

11,085. AUTOMOBILES.—An American Consul calls the attention of American automobile manufacturers to an opportunity for the sale of automobile buses. A syndicate has subscribed $125,000 to purchase 200 buses during the present year and 350 for 1914, some of which will be double deckers. The Secretary of this organization, whose name is given in the report, will be glad to furnish full information as to the buses desired by this company.

11,086. MOTOR CARS.—A wealthy resident of a foreign country who has ordered several articles direct from the United States, informs an American Consulate that he wishes to be furnished with illustrated catalogues of leading American motor car manufacturers.

11,087. CASINGS, GUTS, LARD, AND BACON.—A report from an American Consular officer in a European country states that a local business man desires to be placed in communication with American firms exporting guts, casings, lard, and bacon. This firm desires representation for the whole country, and prices cost, insurance, freight local ports, terms, conditions, &c., are requested. References are given and correspondence may be in English.

11,088. IRON AND STEEL BARS AND PRODUCTS.—A member of a foreign business firm which has for many years been importing steel bars used for structural work and building purposes recently applied to an American Consulate to be placed in communication with some leading American manufacturers of steel products. This is said to be a well-known firm which supplies a number of builders and contractors with steel bars as well as iron and other metal products and handles about 15,000 tons a year. It is believed that the syndicate which controls the trade in these lines is about to raise the prices of its products 10 to 15 per cent. Copy of the complete report, giving further details, will be sent to interested firms by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

11,089. MOVING-PICTURE FILMS.—An American Consular officer in Italy writes that a local business man desires to be placed in communication with American firms producing and exporting moving-picture films with the object of representing them in that market. Agency for all Italy is desired, and prices, terms, &c., are requested. Correspondence should be in French or Italian. References will be furnished.

11,090. MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.—The American Consular agent at Fort William reports that the City Council of Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada, has agreed upon the following expenditures for this season: Playground apparatus, $10,000; additions to the municipal-owned telephone system, $33,000; steam road roller, $2,700; sewers, with a large amount of rock cutting, $57,000, and waterworks extension, $69,250. Street macadam work and concrete sidewalks have also been provided for. Any American firms interested should address the City Clerk, Port Arthur, for particulars, &c.

11,091. ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES.—An American Consular officer in the Far East reports that the chief engineer of local railways is contemplating the use of a number of additional electric locomotives on a line seven miles long. There are now about twelve of these locomotives in use, each of 300 horse power, all of which were bought in Germany. Because of delay in filling the first order, and for other reasons, it is not believed that the German company will secure the order for the additional locomotives, and American manufacturers might do well to get in touch with the engineer referred to.

11,092. AUTOMOBILE TOPS AND PAINTS.—A large carriage maker in a European city making a specialty of repairing automobiles informs an American Consulate that he desires very much to secure American material used in covering automobile tops. He desires that American houses corresponding with him should send samples and price lists. He is also interested in the special paints, oils, and varnishes used in renovating automobiles. Correspondence is preferred in Russian, German, or French.

11,093. COTTONSEED OIL.—A report from an American Consular officer in a European country states that a local business house desires to secure the representation of a large American manufacturer of cottonseed oil. The firm states that it is prepared to pay for the oil cash against documents under the usual contract of the London market. This firm deals largely in oil seeds, oils, and greases, and states that it is in a position to furnish satisfactory references. Correspondence may be in English.

11,094. ELECTRICAL OVERHEAD TRAVELING CRANES.—The chief railway storekeeper, South African Railways, has advised the American Consulate at Durban, South Africa, that tenders will be invited by the High Commissioner of South Africa for supplying the following: One six-ton electric overhead traveling crane for sawmill at Salt River, Cape Province, and one five-ton electric overhead traveling crane for machine shop at Pietermaritzburg, Natal. Particulars of the cranes and tender forms may be obtained by applying to the High Commissioner of South Africa, 32 Victoria Street, London, S. W., England.

11,095. WOOL TOPS AND NOILS.—An American Consul in Great Britain reports that a local firm desires to act as buying broker on fixed commission in wool tops and noils for American spinners.

11,096. ROWING SHELLS.—The President of a boat club in a South American country informs an American Consular officer that it is in the market for a fast four-oared or eight-oared rowing shell similar to those used by American rowing clubs and universities. Offers are desired on a sample shell, and if satisfactory this would probably lead to a considerable demand. Communications on the subject should be addressed directly to the club, in the Spanish language, with all weights and measurements given in the metric system, and prices expressed in Peruvian currency, cost, insurance, and freight, city of destination.

11,097. PITCH PINE, TIMBER, AND LUMBER.—A report from an American Consular officer in a European country states that a business firm in his district desires to be placed in communication with American exporters of pitch pine, timber, and lumber. The firm states that it is prepared to represent such exporters on the local market, paying draft for material shipped on a basis of 90 per cent. of invoice value less commission, the remaining 10 per cent. to be deposited in bank and paid on arrival and verification of measurements, all claims to be settled by arbitration or friendly agreements. Satisfactory references will be furnished, and correspondence may be in English.

11,098. LAUNDRY MACHINERY AND MILL STORES.—A British firm of commission agents has written to an American Consul requesting him to put it in touch with American manufacturers of laundry machinery. Illustrated catalogues in duplicate for complete equipment are desired. Correspondence is also desired with manufacturers of loom sundries, such as shuttles, shuttle tongues, loom spindles, reeds, &c. This firm has branch offices and other connections in India, being the buying agents for mill stores of various mills in that country. The firm desires to act as export agent on a commission basis, and believes that good business can be developed in the American supplies mentioned.

11,099. HOSIERY, KNIT UNDERWEAR, AND FURNISHINGS.—An American Consul reports that a business firm in his district desires direct relations with American manufacturers of hosiery, silk and other porous knit underwear; novelties in the clothing and furnishing line. Purchases of these goods have been made through European agents, but the firm wishes to buy direct, and, if terms are satisfactory, to assume the sale for the entire country. The firm has high-grade retail store and facilities for wholesale and distributing. Correspondence may be in English, and prices, if possible, should be given cost, insurance, and freight, European port. Goods for both men and women are required.

11,101. SHOES, SHIRTS, AND NECKWEAR.—A business firm in Mexico informs an American Consulate that it desires to buy shoes, shirts, and neckwear from manufacturers in the United States. This firm is said to be a large buyer, paying cash for its purchases.

Time Reduced Nearly ONE WEEK

10 Days Now Takes You to Japan—15 Days to China

These wonderful new ships are the finest ever brought into Pacific waters—nothing like them in the service. Equipment includes every luxury that modern ocean liners can offer, while the service is distinctively Oriental, which means the most delightful in the world.

Voyage is shortened nearly one week, which means two on the round trip, time saved for you to spend at business or in sight-seeing.

If travel lovers knew how cool, refreshing and invigorating is this 10-day cruise on the cool, blue and placid Pacific and what myriad interests and amusements they will find in gay little Japan, everyone with six weeks to spend in touring would make this trip their vacation outing.

Empress of Russia—Empress of Asia

Japan and Return now $300

Accommodation allows you the choice of single or two berth staterooms, or suites with private bath, each elaborately furnished.

Sumptuous library, lounging, smoking and writing rooms, splendid dining salon, unique veranda cafe, spacious promenade decks, a gymnasium and laundry.

Equipmet and voyage fully described in our new folder, just off the press.

SURROGATE CITATION.

PRATCHATT, CLARA E.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Minna W. Mustacchi, Josephine de Ancizar, William Pratchatt, and Edward A. Pratchatt, and the widows, heirs at law, and next of kin, if any, of William Pratchatt and Edward A. Pratchatt, if deceased, whose names and places of residence cannot be ascertained, the heirs and next of kin of CLARA E. PRATCHATT, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Madge E. Betts of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, bearing date October 29th, 1902, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last Will and Testament of Clara E. Pratchatt, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 2d day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last Will and Testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or, if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 7th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

[L. S.]

DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Warm weather continued during Monday throughout the Middle Atlantic States and New England, the interior South, and over the Middle West.

The temperature recorded on Monday at Chicago, 98 degrees, and at Detroit, 96 degrees, equals the highest ever before recorded in June at these points. The highest recorded in the East was 98 degrees, at Baltimore, which is but one degree below the June record.

Somewhat lower temperature is reported from the Southwest and along the Northwestern border.

A disturbance that has moved from the region of the Hudson Bay to the mouth of the St. Lawrence River caused scattered thundershowers in the North Atlantic States and the region of the Great Lakes. Showers are also reported from Southern Texas and the Far Northwest.

Warm weather will continue Tuesday and Wednesday over the Middle Western States and the interior of the South, with warm weather Tuesday in New England and the Middle Atlantic States, followed by a slight reaction to lower temperature Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Except for scattered showers in the Gulf States and Far Northwest, the weather will be generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday throughout the country.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate westerly and northwesterly; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate westerly; South Atlantic Coast, light variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate westerly winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair, not quite so warm Tuesday. Wednesday fair and somewhat lower temperatures; moderate west winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Probably fair Tuesday. Wednesday fair, with somewhat lower temperatures; light to moderate west winds.

Western New York—Fair Tuesday, not quite so warm. Wednesday fair; light to moderate northwest winds.

Northern New England—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday. Not quite so warm; moderate west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	58	67	4 P. M.	65	90
6 A. M.	60	66	6 P. M.	65	88
9 A. M.	62	79	9 P. M.	63	84
12 M.	62	88	11 P. M.	62	78

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 78; for the corresponding date last year it was 62; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 69.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 73; at 8 P. M. it was 85. Maximum temperature, 91 degrees at 4:40 P. M.; minimum, 66 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 65 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 46 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.92 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.83 inches.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved the following:

Employment by the Board of Estimate of Arthur L. Stern, H. L. Lawford, Almens Dawley, Claudia Potter, Harold Pape, Ellen T. Lee, and C. Kintscher not to exceed sixty days in connection with the work of the Committee on School Inquiry.

Request of the Controller for authority to continue the services of Margaret C. Farrell, Mary C. Gavan, and Ellen A. Keane, stenographers and typewriters, in the office of the Committee on Standardization of Salaries and Grades, until the preparation of a new eligible list.

Employment by the Board of Water Supply of Milton Winkarsky as clerk, first grade, at $800 a year.

Employment by the Board of Water Supply of Sidney W. Brewster as Inspector. He passed a non-competitive examination for the position in connection with a previous provisional appointment, but his services were dispensed with Nov. 10, 1912, on account of portions of the work closing down for the Winter.

Request of the President of Richmond that an examination be held by which M. G. D'Agnese may qualify for promotion from second-grade typewriting copyist to second-grade clerk.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House for nautical expert, for men only, on July 16, to fill vacancies as they may occur in this position at entrance salaries of $1,000 per annum in the Hydrographic Office, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications. The salaries paid in this position range from $1,000 to $1,800 a year, promotion being dependent upon the occurrence of vacancies and demonstrated fitness of persons in the service.

As insufficient applications were filed for the examination announced to be held for this position on June 4, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination.

Competitors will be examined in pure mathematics, physical geography, nautical definitions, navigation, training, experience, and fitness.

An educational training equivalent to at least two years in a nautical school of no less a grade than the schools maintained upon the schoolships of the States of Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania, or practical experience of at least three years' service on board vessels navigating either the Great Lakes or the ocean, is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Age 18 years or over on the date of the examination.

Further information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Board of Education has granted leave of absence to such of its employes as are regularly elected delegates or members of the United Spanish War Veterans from June 23 to June 25 so that they may attend the tenth annual State encampment at Syracuse, and from Sept. 3 to Sept. 6 to attend the tenth annual national encampment at Buffalo.

The Board of Education recently requested the Municipal Civil Service Commission to approve the promotion of Miss Frances Coffey, a clerk, with knowledge of typewriting, in Secretary Palmer's office from $300 a year to $600 a year. It appears, however, that Miss Coffey is ineligible for the proposed increase in salary for the reason that she has served less than a year in the Department of Education, in accordance with the plan of organization of city departments as adopted by the commission on June 20, 1912. The commission, therefore, has denied the request for lack of power.

The resignations of Mae George and Eugene Brugger, employes at Manhattn Truant School, have been accepted.

The Board of Estimate has been requested to recommend to the Board of Aldermen the fixation of the pay attached to the position of janitor of Public School 132, Manhattan, at the rate of $2,900 a year.

The President of Queens has been requested to consent to the transfer of Patrick Hayde, steam roller engineer, to the position of janitor-engineer in the Department of Education.

Corporate stock to the amount of $47.25 has been appropriated to pay bills of the Superintendent of State Prisons for grates for Public School 39, the Bronx.

It has been decided to discontinue the occupancy of the premises at Hamburg Avenue and Cornelia Street, Brooklyn, as an annex to Public School 106.

The Parents' Association of Public School 4, the Bronx, gave a dinner at the Brighton Beach Hotel on Saturday to Angelo Patri, the Principal. The dinner was in recognition of Mr. Patri's work in organizing the Parents' Association.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT, CITY OF NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held this day, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Union Railway Company of New York City has, under date of March 27, 1913, made application to this Board for a modification of the terms and conditions of a certain contract authorized by resolution adopted May 11 and approved by the Mayor May 12, 1911, granting said Company a franchise for the construction, maintenance and operation of a street surface railway extension upon and along the 155th Street Viaduct and 155th Street from 8th Avenue to Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, which said contract was executed by the Company on March 27, 1913, and by the Mayor and City Clerk on April 4 and April 5, 1913, respectively, and bears date of April 4, 1913; and

WHEREAS, Sections 72, 73 and 74 of the Greater New York Charter as amended by Chapters 629 and 630 of the Laws of 1905, provide for the manner and procedure of making such grants; and

WHEREAS, In pursuance of such laws, this Board adopted a resolution on April 10, 1913, fixing the date for public hearing thereon as May 8, 1913, at which citizens were entitled to appear and be heard, and publication was had for at least two (2) days in the "Sun" and "Times" newspapers designated by the Mayor, and in the "City Record" for ten (10) days immediately prior to the date of hearing, and the public hearing was duly held on such day; and

WHEREAS, This Board has made inquiry as to the proposed modifications and amendments of said contract of April 4, 1913; now, therefore, it is

RESOLVED, That the following form of resolution for the consent or right applied for by the Union Railway Company of New York City containing the form of the proposed contract for the grant of such right be hereby introduced and entered in the minutes of this Board as follows, to wit:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Estimate and Apportionment hereby consents to certain modifications in the terms and conditions of the said contract of April 4, 1913; such modified terms and conditions being fully set forth and described in the following form of proposed contract for the grant thereof, embodying such terms and conditions as modify or alter said contract of April 4, 1913, which said contract otherwise remains unchanged as to all the other terms and conditions expressed therein, and that the Mayor of the City of New York be and he hereby is authorized to execute and deliver such contract in the name and on behalf of The City of New York, as follows, to wit:

PROPOSED FORM OF CONTRACT.

THIS CONTRACT, made this ——— day of ———, 1913, by and between THE CITY OF NEW YORK (hereinafter called the City), party of the first part, by the Mayor of said City, acting for and in the name of said City, under and in pursuance of the authority of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of said City (hereinafter called the Board), and the UNION RAILWAY COMPANY OF NEW YORK CITY (hereinafter called the Company), party of the second part, WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, The Board did by resolution adopted May 11, 1911, and approved by the Mayor May 12, 1911, authorize the execution and delivery of a contract granting the Company the right to construct, maintain and operate a street surface railway as an extension to its existing system, upon and along the 155th Street Viaduct and 155th Street, from 8th Avenue to Broadway, Borough of Manhattan; and

WHEREAS, said contract was executed by the Vice President and Secretary of the Company on March 27, 1913, and by the Mayor and City Clerk on April 4 and April 5, 1913, respectively, and bears date of April 4, 1913; and

WHEREAS, the Company has by a petition dated March 27, 1913, applied to the Board for certain modifications and amendments in and to said contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911, to wit:

First. By striking out in Section 1, the words, "the easterly side of Broadway" and substituting therefor the words, "Amsterdam Avenue."

Second. By amending Section 2-Third, by reducing the amount of the several payments required thereunder, in proportion to the reduction in the length of the extension.

Third. By striking out in Section 2-Twenty-fifth the word "Broadway" and substituting therefor the words "Amsterdam Avenue";

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements herein contained, the parties hereto do hereby covenant and agree as follows:

SECTION 1. The City hereby consents, subject to the conditions and provisions hereinafter set forth, to the modifications and amendments in and to said contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911; said modifications and amendments to be as follows:

1. Section 1 of said contract is hereby stricken out and the following substituted therefor:

"Section 1. The City hereby grants to the Company, subject to the conditions and provisions hereinafter set forth, the right and privilege to construct, maintain and operate a double track extension to its present street surface railway, with the necessary wires and equipment, for the purpose of conveying passengers only in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, upon the following route, to wit:

"Beginning at and connecting with the existing tracks of the Company on the 155th Street Viaduct at or near 8th Avenue; thence westerly on and over said viaduct to its intersection with 155th Street and westerly upon and along said 155th Street to the easterly side of Amsterdam Avenue and to cross such other streets and avenues named and unnamed as may be encountered in said route.

"The said route with turnouts, switches and crossovers hereby authorized, is shown upon a map entitled:

"Map showing proposed modifications of route of franchise of Union Railway Company of New York City authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by resolution adopted on May 11, 1911, and approved by the Mayor on May 12, 1911, to accompany petition dated March 27, 1913, to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and signed by Edward A. Maher, Vice President, and T. F. Mullaney, Chief Engineer, a copy of which is attached hereto, is to be deemed a part of this contract and is to be substantially followed, provided that deviations therefrom and additional turnouts, switches and crossovers which are consistent with the foregoing description and the other provisions of this contract may be permitted by resolution of the Board."

2. So much of Section 2-Third of said contract providing for an initial payment of Three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) and for annual minimum sums of Six hundred dollars ($600), Ten hundred and seventy-five dollars ($1,075), Twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) and Thirteen hundred dollars ($1,300) during the term of the grant is hereby stricken out and the following substituted therefor.

"Third. The Company shall pay to the City for the privilege hereby granted the following sums of money:

"(a) The sum of Two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) in cash within three (3) months from ——————— 1913, and before anything is done in exercise of the privilege hereby granted.

"(b) During the first term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than Four hundred dollars ($400) and which shall be equal to three (3) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of Four hundred dollars ($400.)

"During the second term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than Seven hundred and twenty-five dollars ($725) and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts, if such percentage shall exceed the sum of Seven hundred and twenty-five dollars ($725).

"During the remaining term expiring September 14, 1928, an annual sum which shall in no case be less than Eight hundred and fifty dollars ($850) and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of Eight hundred and fifty dollars ($850)."

3. Section 2-Twenty-fifth of said contract is hereby stricken out and the following substituted therefor:

"Twenty-fifth. Upon one (1) year's notice from the Board, the Company shall, if the Board shall so determine by resolution, cease the operation of the stubend terminal at 155th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, and shall within sixty (60) days from the date of such notice make application to the Board for the right to construct, maintain and operate a loop terminal upon streets to be designated by the Board, and shall on or before the expiration of said one (1) year enter into a contract for such new terminal in substitution for the stubend terminal hereby authorized."

SECTION 2. The grant of this privilege is subject to the following conditions:

First. All the terms, provisions and conditions contained in the said contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911, excepting those which are herein amended or modified shall remain unchanged, and shall apply to the route herein described in Section 1 of this contract, with the same force and effect as when they applied to the route described in said contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911, and as though the route herein described had been specifically described in said contract.

Second. The Company shall within one year from the date on which this contract is signed by the Mayor, comply with the provisions of Section 184 of the Railroad Law for the abandonment of that portion of the route granted by said contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911, and described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of 155th Street with the easterly side of Amsterdam Avenue; thence westerly upon and along said 155th Street to the easterly side of Broadway, Borough of Manhattan.

If the Company shall fail to secure the approval of the Public Service Commission, or shall fail for any other reason to comply with the provisions of this subdivision within the time stipulated, this contract shall thereupon cease and determine and the original franchise contract authorized by resolution approved May 12, 1911, and the obligations and liability of the Company thereunder shall be unaffected by the provisions of this contract, provided, however, that the Board may extend said period for a period or periods not exceeding in the aggregate six (6) months.

A certified copy of the certificate of abandonment shall be filed with the Board within ten (10) days from the date on which the same is obtained by the Company.

SECTION 3. The Company promises, covenants and agrees on its part and behalf to conform to and abide by and perform all the terms and conditions and requirements in this contract fixed and contained.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the party of the first part, by its Mayor, thereunto duly authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of said City, has caused the corporate name of said City to be hereunto signed and the corporate seal of said City to be hereunto affixed; and the party of the second part, by its officers, thereunto duly authorized, has caused its corporate name to be hereunto signed and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, the day and year first above written.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investor Buys the Belfort Apartment House on Fort Washington Avenue—Private Dwellings Change Ownership—Corner of Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street Sells for $305,000 at Public Auction.

What little activity there was in the real estate market yesterday centred in the upper west side, where several private dwellings and a Fort Washington apartment house changed ownership.

In the Vesey Street Salesrooms, where there was a long list of auction offerings, the Morgan estate properties, on Broadway, Washington Place, Greene Street, and Riverside Drive, were the features. Seven of the parcels were bought in by A. D. Moran, a party in interest, for $945,100. The three-story office and store building on the southwest corner of Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, the most valuable parcel offered, was knocked down on a bid of $305,000.

Joseph P. Day conducted the sale, which was the outcome of proceedings brought by Charles Moran against Thomas Moran, L. E. Firth, Maria L. Hoyt, and others.

Deal on West Fifty-second Street.

Bernard F. Egan has bought from Francis Fitzpatrick the three-story brick business building 518 West Fifty-second Street, on a lot 25 by 100.

The purchaser, after making alterations, will occupy the building for his own business. George B. Corsa negotiated the transaction.

Investor Buys the Belfort.

The Bogan Realty Company has sold to an investing client of Norman Denger the Belfort, a five-story apartment house at 1,533 St. Nicholas Avenue. The structure, which occupies a plot 44.6 by 105 feet, near 187th Street, was completed last Fall. The Crestview, an adjoining structure, was recently sold.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Mary H. Remmey has sold to a client of J. Irving Walsh, for occupancy, 152 West Eleventh Street, a three-story private dwelling, on a lot 18.9 by 45. This is the first transfer of the property since 1854.

An investor has purchased from John C. Juhring 311 West Eighty-sixth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling on a lot 20.4 by 102.2.

H. A. Vail has sold to a client of Pease & Elliman the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and Seventy-fifth Street, a five-story American basement dwelling, on plot 37 by 81.7. The property has been held at $145,000 and was bought for occupancy.

Tenement Property Sold.

Emanuel Glauber has resold to an investor through Sugarman & Kahn, 106 West 113th Street, a five-story flat on lot 26.8 by 100.11, near Lenox Avenue. The seller purchased the property last week from the Davidson estate, through the same brokers.

Bronx Borough.

Ernst & Cahn have sold for the Alert Construction Company, Israel I. Wolf, President, the two new-law five-story apartments on the southwest corner of Marmion Avenue and Elsmere Place; also, the northwest corner of Marmion Avenue and Fairmount Place. The properties have a frontage on Marmion Avenue of 100 feet each by 25 feet on the street, which takes in the entire westerly side of Marmion Avenue.

Two Bronx Mortgage Loans.

The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company has placed for the Alert Construction Company two mortgages of $24,500 each on the new five-story buildings, 25 by 100 each, at Marmion Avenue, northwest corner of Fairmount Place and southwest corner of Elsmere Place.

Brooklyn.

Caroline E. Lacy has purchased through Albert Cory, on the northwest corner of Avenue K and Twenty-eighth Street a plot, 60 by 100 and a plot 50 by 100 on East Twenty-eighth Street, 125 feet north of Avenue M.

Rudolph C. Bacher and Mrs. Ester Tapalow are principals in an exchange involving twenty houses, valued at $239,000. The property includes sixteen four-story, single brick flats, with stores, each on a plot 20 by 100, at 2,172 to 2,202 Fulton Street, sold by Bacher to Mrs. Tapalow, who gives in trade the four-story double brick apartment, on plot 40 by 100 feet, at 1,007 and 1,009 Putnam Avenue; a four-story double brick apartment, on plot 40 by 100, at 1,011 and 1,013 Putnam Avenue; a three-and-a-half-story single frame dwelling, 24 by 90 feet, at 533 Graham Avenue, and a three-story double frame apartment, 25 by 125, at 182 Evergreen Avenue.

Long Island City.

James B. Thomas has sold for a client to an investor a plot of five lots, 125 by 100, on the northerly side of Fifth Avenue, 100 feet south of Washington Avenue, Long Island City.

Long Island.

The McKnight Realty Company has sold at Bowne Park, Flushing, a house situated on a plot 40 by 100, facing Thirteenth Street, to William J. Cavanagh of Manhattan.

George Bullock has sold his country estate of twenty acres on Oyster Bay, at Centre Island, to M. Smith. It was held at $175,000. L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co., Inc., were the brokers.

Buy Staten Island Church Site.

The Board of Trustees of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Staten Island have purchased as a site for a church building a plot 75 by 100 feet, located on Richmond Terrace, St. George, S. I., which commands an unobstructed view of the harbor.

Since this purchase was made the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has announced that the coal pockets and coal business located at St. George will be removed to another section of Staten Island as soon as their plans can be completed.

Queens Building Record.

Building operations in the Borough of Queens continue on the increase, and the present month is expected to be a recordbreaker. Last week's total estimated cost of operations, as shown by the records of the Building Bureau, totaled nearly $500,000. There were 152 applications for new buildings of an estimated cost of $382,600; 110 applications for alterations of an estimated cost of $78,260, and 75 applications for plumbing permits of an estimated cost of $38,500.

The William Ulmer Brewing Company will commence a development in Long Island City by the erection of a four-story brick tenement on Jackson Avenue, at the corner of Payntar Avenue, at a cost of $28,000.

Joseph H. Ralph will carry the development of two-story brick dwellings in the Ravenswood section of Long Island City by the erection of a number of these dwellings on the Boulevard, north of Webster Avenue, at a cost of $3,500 each.

The Sage Foundation Company will make one of its most extensive single developments on Burns Street, north of the Union Turnpike, Forest Hills, by the erection of ten two-and-a-half-story brick and tile dwellings of a unique design at a cost of $52,000.

$70,335 for Hempstead Lots.

SEEK A DECISION IN CAVE-IN CLASH

Coroners Will Ask City Counsel to Decide Between Them and Utilities Board.

ONE HEARING BEGINS

Service Commission Examines Witnesses Who Exonerate Contractors —Coroner Calls Bracing 'Slipshod.'

Coroner Holtzhauser called a meeting yesterday of the Board of Coroners for this afternoon to consider the question created by Chairman McCall of the Public Service Commission in ordering blasting to proceed on Sunday in the Lexington Avenue subway tunnel, where ten lives were lost in the cave-in on Saturday night, after the Coroner had forbidden it.

Mr. Holtzhauser said that the Board of Coroners would request an opinion defining the jurisdiction of the Coroner and that of the Public Service Commission under such circumstances as produced the conflict on Sunday.

"This proceeding will make such a conflict of authority impossible in the future," said Coroner Holtzhauser. "If it appears from the Corporation Counsel's opinion that Chairman McCall has gone beyond his authority, I shall take effective means of compelling him to explain his conduct."

The Public Service Commission called a hearing yesterday afternoon upon the subway accident. The witnesses who were examined were the two policemen who entered the tunnel immediately after the cave-in, engineers of the Bradley Contracting Company, and Public Service engineers. None of the workmen in the tunnel at the time of the accident was examined. The testimony all tended to exonerate the Bradley Company from the charge of negligence.

Coroner Holtzhauser said last night that he did not consider this hearing of any importance, because the Public Service Commission shares the responsibility for the accident with the Bradley Contracting Company.

"It is quite possible," Mr. Holtzhauser said last night, "that a jury would make the Public Service Commission a codefendant with the Bradley Company. If negligence appears, the Public Service engineers are as much to blame as the contractors. The commission's inquiry has not covered much of the ground that will be gone over at the inquest. The witnesses to-day were practically all testifying in their own behalf. At the inquest we will hear the other side as well.

Coroner Tells of Carelessness.

"Of course, the Bradley Contracting Company would say that every precaution was taken. But I, for one, will go before my own jury and testify to the contrary. For instance, when I was down in the tunnel to-day, I pointed out to Inspector Thomas H. Robertson of the Bureau of Combustibles that some of the timbers, instead of being set on a firm, even foundation, were set on sloping rocks. In order to keep them from slipping off the rocks, wedges and small stones had been put under them. This is slipshod engineering. The rock on which the timbers are placed should be leveled. As they now stand, an ordinary blast would shake down some of these timbers and cause a cave-in, if there was any loose rock above.

"In the second place, while the timber is of good quality, some of it is too small. Where the cave-in took place 12-inch by 12-inch timber is now being used. But there is timber of all sizes in the tunnel.

"There was no upright timber in the centre of the tunnel where the cave-in occurred. The Bradley engineers have admitted this to me. There are upright timbers in the centre as well as at the sides in other parts of the tunnel. Had there been a support of this kind in the right place there probably would have been no cave-in.

"I can produce many engineers who agree with me, and of course I expect the men employed by the Bradley Contracting Company and the Public Service Commission, who are responsible for conditions in the tunnel, to say everything was all right there.

"I will select the Coroner's jury personally and hold the inquest toward the latter part of this week. I will probably call in President Feinburg of the Board of Coroners to preside when I take the stand. I think my own testimony will go very far to place the responsibility.

"Criminal negligence cannot be shown, for the design to kill must be present to support such a charge. I think that ordinary negligence will be shown, certainly on the part of the Bradley Contracting Company, and probably on the part of the Public Service Commission.

"I will instruct the jury to bring in recommendations to make the conditions in tunnels in this city safer. Under the conditions in the Lexington Avenue tunnel, an accident like this one may be looked for at any time. One-half of the tunnel is not timbered at all, although men are at work there right along. The chance of accident in this part of the tunnel is greater than elsewhere.

"The recommendations of the jury, in my opinion, ought at least to include these points: First, that timbers should be set on a firm base; second, that they should be all at least 12 inches by 12 inches in size; third, that no part of the tunnel should be permitted to remain untimbered; fourth, that upright timbers should be erected in the centre as well as on the sides of the tunnel.

"The precautions to be taken for the safety of workmen ought not to be left solely to contracting companies. In the present case the contractors, in my opinion, considered the risk of expense from damages on account of the loss of life through accident and then considered the expense of safeguarding life. The public, however, does not put everything on a money basis, and I think that after this accident there should be laws to make the life of tunnelmen safer against cave-ins, as there are laws now to make factory hands safer against fire."

Counsel Belittles Coroner.

Frederick L. C. Keating of 170 Broadway, counsel for the Bradley Contracting Company, said yesterday that the Coroner was only a relic of the old English law.

"Long ago," he said, "the Coroner had great power, but now it has been largely stripped from him and distributed among other officers. It is the Coroner's duty in cases of accidental death to ascertain the cause of death. He has larger authority in cases where criminal negligence appears, but it must be apparent before he steps in. He cannot compel the attendance of witnesses at his court, except by appealing to the Supreme Court, and showing the necessity for the testimony of the witness."

Coroner Holtzhauser disagreed with the statement that the Coroner was a relic of the past and had lost his powers.

"The Coroner's powers are defined in the Charter, and haven't been changed recently to my knowledge," he said. "And, if any witnesses fail to attend my court after being subpoenaed, I will go before the Supreme Court to get them."

Chairman McCall of the Public Service Commission denied yesterday that he had countermanded an order of the Coroner.

"I was informed," he said, "that the Coroner had not forbidden blasting, but had attempted to tell the engineers how the blasting should be done. That made a different matter of it, and so I issued the order that no one should interfere with the engineers."

When Chairman McCall was asked what method of blasting the Coroner wanted used, he said:

"I don't remember the term. It was 'something' and feathering."

Mr. McCall was asked if he was sure that Coroner Holtzhauser's method contemplated the use of dynamite.

"I was informed so," he answered.

Coroner Holtzhauser said last night that he had not tried to regulate the method of blasting.

"I told them that they could not use dynamite at all," he said. "Dynamite explodes downward, and, if there was a man still alive under the rocks, blasting would be sure to kill him. Further than that, there was danger that blasting would dislodge more loose rock. Blasting would also be likely to bring down some of the timbers which were set on sloping stones, as I have described."

"What I ordered was 'plugging and feathering,'" he continued. "No dynamite is used that way. Holes are drilled in the large rocks, and they are forced apart by wedges. Now, my method would have resulted in clearing that tunnel almost as quickly as by the use of dynamite. There would not have been an hour's difference. Holes had to be drilled in the rock in either case, and that is what consumes most of the time. But the engineers were in too much of a hurry, and did not wish to lose a little more time."

Chairman McCall said yesterday that no one had a right to interfere with the engineering in the tunnel.

"I gave no order permitting blasting," he said. "I told Robert Ridgeway, the commission's engineer, that the engineering must not be interfered with. Let any one try to interfere with the engineering and see how fast he will be put out of the tunnel. That applies to anybody—County Coroner or any one else."

It was suggested to Commissioner McCall that the blasting might have destroyed evidence.

"Poppycock," he said.

Coroners Holtzhauser and Feinburg called on District Attorney Whitman yesterday asked him to assign an Assistant District Attorney to the investigation. Mr. Whitman named Lucian S. Breckenridge. While complying with this request, Mr. Whitman said that he wished it to be understood that he was not taking sides in the controversy between Coroner Holtzhauser and Commissioner McCall. Mr. Breckenridge visited the tunnel to-day where the cave-in occurred and had photographs taken of it.

George W. Coleman, chief counsel for the Public Service Commission, telephoned yesterday to District Attorney Whitman and asked him if he had any objection to a hearing by the commission on the subway tunnel accident. Mr. Whitman replied that he had no objection, provided that no witnesses were sworn and that immunity was not conferred on witnesses. The engineers of the Bradley Contracting Company and of the Public Service Commission were rounded up and the hearing began at 3 o'clock. Mr. Keating, counsel for the contractor, said that he had received notice of the hearing only an hour and a half before it began. Chairman McCall and George V. S. Williams were the only members of the Commission present. The examination was conducted by Leroy T. Harkness, assistant counsel to the commission. It was the first investigation of its kind that has been made since Mr. McCall assumed the Chairmanship after his resignation as a Justice of the Supreme Court. Chief Engineer Alfred Craven was the first witness called. He said:

"To my mind it is evident that the timbers were not sufficiently strong to support the weight and pressure of the rock resting upon them. Howver, I cannot see how any one could foresee the trouble that did occur. Any soundings taken to indicate the solidity of the rock would have been entirely out of the question. This was a case of a hidden danger."

Robert Ridgeway, Public Service engineer in charge of the subways, said that the method of timbering in the tunnels was that which was practiced generally throughout the country.

"In fact," he said, "the timbering in this part of the section was regarded as only a matter of precaution. It was making assurance doubly sure, the rock at this point was considered so solid.

Cause of the Accident.

"The cause of the accident was two seams that joined at an apex, like a roof. The seams parted and the rocks fell, whether from an explosion or the dead weight of the rocks, it is impossible to say. The cohesion at the seams was not sufficient to carry a dead weight of 300 or 400 tons of rock."

"Would soundings have availed anything?" asked Mr. Harkness.

"Soundings were made and followed in this case, but I do not think that it would have availed anything, the body of the rock being too heavy."

"Had all precautions been taken for safety?" asked Mr. Harkness.

"Yes, so far as I know," was the reply. "In fact, where there is so much solid rock, as that appeared to be, it is often customary not to do any timbering at all. Nothing indicated the presence of seams in that part of the rock or section of the work."

Similar testimony regarding the precautions which were taken for safety was given by Bayly Hipkins, Chief Engineer for the Bradley Contracting Company; Francis C. Donaldson, tunnel engineer; John H. Meyers, the engineer in charge of the work on the division of the subway under investigation.

John Ritchie, employed by Patrick McGovern, who has the contract for the work on the section above, testified that he thought it impossible to detect the presence of seams like that which had caused the accident. After the cave-in, Ritchie quit his own section and took the lead in the rescue work. After he had finished testifying, Chairman McCall told him that he had done heroic work, and that it gave him pleasure to express the gratitude felt toward him by the commission. J. M. Lynch, of counsel for the Bradley Contracting Company, gave the thanks of the company to Mr. Ritchie.

Chairman McCall also thanked John H. Madden, Assistant Division Engineer for the commission, for his part in the rescue work, and promised that his services should not be forgotten. And when Policemen David Lawler and Thomas Gorman of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who descended into the tunnel and rescued the two injured men, had finished their testimony, Commissioner McCall said:

"We have heard all about the noble and heroic work that you and your fellow-officers did, and we give you the highest praise for it. You took no thought of your own lives, but went down into that awful cavern to give aid to the injured. You presented a splendid picture to the people of this city.

"I want to say that you men are typical of the unequaled police force of this city, the greatest police force in the world. I have always said that, when bravery is wanted on the part of the police of this city it is always forthcoming. I want to say that the commission thanks you and that we will take care to let the Police Commissioner know about it.

WEBBER RECOVERS AND ACCUSES NO ONE

District Attorney Calls to See Him and Is Told It Really Was a "Kid" Who Stabbed Him.

HE AND VALLON ENEMIES

Vallon Suing Webber's Brother—Jack Rose Up from His Farm—Sam Schepps in Business.

"Bridgie" Webber, who was stabbed in the back early last Saturday morning, while returning from a gamblers' fête in Second Avenue, is expected to leave the Polyclinic Hospital some time to-day. It was said yesterday that Webber would go immediately to his brother's farm-hotel, at South Fallsburg, Sullivan County, where a lawsuit brought against his brother, Charles Webber, by Harry Vallon, is pending. Webber is to be the chief witness for his brother against Vallon, his former pal and cellmate.

District Attorney Whitman was one of Webber's callers on Sunday, it became known yesterday. Mr. Whitman had feared that Webber might die from the knife wound, but was informed by the hospital physicians that the patient had little more than a scratch. Webber was in an agreeable mood while the District Attorney talked to him, it was said, and volunteered to tell everything he knew about the stabbing. When he had told everything, however, it appeared that he had not shed a great deal of light on the subject.

Webber insisted that it was a "kid" who had stabbed him. He didn't know him and wouldn't be able to identify him if he were caught, he said. It might have been the work, indirectly, of some gambler, Webber admitted, or of any one of the dozen or more who might have felt themselves wronged by Webber in the past. Did the Becker case have anything to do with it? Webber waved the thought aside. Surely not, he told the District Attorney.

Webber's manner throughout the interview was so earnest that Mr. Whitman had no reason for believing that he was not telling the truth. One thing seemed certain as a result of the interview, it was said, and that was that Bridgie Webber would be on hand, barring other mishaps, for any future trials that might come to Lieut. Charles Becker or the four gunmen whom Webber helped to send to the death house in Sing Sing.

The police made no further headway in getting details of the stabbing yesterday, and it is not believed probable that any arrest can be made on Webber's description.

Detectives were combing the east side yesterday for persons who had seen Webber in the late hours of Friday at the opening of Sam Paul's saloon. They also inquired for the whereabouts of Harry Vallon, Jack Rose, and Sam Schepps, who were witnesses with Webber against Becker.

Jack Rose came to the city yesterday from his farm in Northport, Conn., to do a little "literary work." He said that he was not concerned in the Webber incident and knew nothing about it. Rose has already made enough money on his books of crime, it was said, to pay for his farm.

Sam Schepps, it was learned, is a frequent visitor to Rose's farm. He is a diamond merchant in Sixth Avenue, and is said to be doing very well. He was out at Rose's place no later than a week ago last Sunday. He was in town when Webber was stabbed, it appears. He disappeared the day after he was stabbed. It was explained yesterday by one of his intimates that he had left to escape further notoriety.

There is little love between Sam Schepps and Bridgie Webber, it is generally known, but Schepps is not suspected of having had anything to do with the stabbing. Webber "welched" on several bets with Schepps, it was said. The last of these bets concerned the Becker case. Schepps bet a suit of clothes that Becker would be convicted. Webber bet that there would be a disagreement of the jury. Schepps, it was said, was highly indignant after the conviction because Webber did not "make good."

The enmity between Harry Vallon and Bridgie Webber goes back to the day these two gamblers came to blows while confined in the West Side Prison pending the Becker trial. It was said yesterday that they had not spoken together since. The circumstances of Vallon's suit against Webber's brother were inquired into yesterday. The District Attorney could find no significance in them, however.

Charles Webber bought a hotel and farm at South Fallsburg, four miles from Monticello, Sullivan County, N. Y., several years ago. The farm, it is believed, was really paid for by Bridgie Webber. About $1,000 of the purchase price came from Harry Vallon, and Vallon got a mortgage. He brought suit recently to foreclose. According to Webber and his brother, Vallon obtained the mortgage fraudulently. The case came up in the Monticello Court eight days ago, and was postponed. Bridgie Webber and Vallon did not meet in the little town, it was said. Webber left Monticello on Thursday, and was stabbed the next night. Vallon, it was said, remained in the foothills of the Catskills for a fishing trip.

Bernard Sandler, lawyer for Harry Vallon, ridiculed the idea that Vallon was in any way mixed up with the Webber affair. Vallon had reformed after the conviction of the gunmen, he said, and was now a well-to-do real estate operator. There was no desire on Vallon's part, he said, to get in with any more bad company.

BIDS SOKOLOW GODSPEED.

Yiddish Writers' Club Entertains Departing Russian Editor.

A farewell dinner and reception was held last night by the Yiddish Writers' Club of New York for Nahum Sokolow, the Russian editor, at Malbin's restaurant, 274 Grand Street. Over 150 writers of Yiddish prose and poetry were present. Mr. Sokolow, who has been in this country and Canada on a lecturing and sightseeing tour for the last three months, will sail for Europe this morning on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. He is one of the leaders of the international Zionist movement, and came to this country to further the work of the Federation of American Zionists.

The speakers last night were Mr. Sokolow, the Rev. H. Masliansky, Jacob Barondess, Abraham Reisin, the novelist, and Solomon Blumgarten, the poet.

STANDARD OIL IN MEXICO.

Edward Parsons Says That at Last It Has Foothold in East Coast Fields

Edward Parsons, an American civil engineer who has been ranching and building roads in Mexico for the greater part of the last thirteen years and who is now interested in the oil business and in the electric light and water works of Tuxpan, has arrived at the McAlpin with his family. This is the first time Mr. Parsons has been out of Mexico for nine years. He says he is not a refugee and that he expects to go back within two weeks. At the same time it took him twenty-one days to get to New York from Tampico.

"Tuxpan is in the State of Vera Cruz," said Mr. Parsons. "The town is practically the centre of the great oil fields. While it has been known for twenty years that there was oil in that country, it is only in the last seven that there have been any actual operations of oil producing.

"In that portion of Mexico up to the time I left anything like real danger to American citizens was only slight. A good deal of annoyance was being caused by rumors of bandits and robbers being out, but up to that time there had been no real overt attacks or anything which could cause a feeling of actual danger.

"The Standard Oil Company has entered the Mexican field. About May 24 the Penn-Mex. Fuel Company brought in a big well near Tuxpan which is called Alamo No. 1. This company being allied with the South Penn is considered a Standard Oil subsidiary. You see we don't consider the Waters-Pierce a subsidiary to the Standard Oil, although it had been an ally. This is the first time that the Standard Oil has actually entered the Mexican field.

"When I left Tampico the only thing that seemed to me to furnish cause for the slightest apprehension was the apathy of the general public to help either one side or the other down there. The Federal forces were practically having to operate by themselves. They were not able to get any volunteer assistance. In our portion of the country the Carranza, or Constitutionalist, Party is the principal opponent of the de facto Government. If the actual President, Gen. Huerta, would use the iron hand this would go far toward putting down disturbances. It is my own personal view that a great deal of leniency has been shown the insurgents.

"The non-recognition of the present Government by the United States has been unfortunate in its effect down there, principally, I believe, owing to the fact that a great proportion of the American population because of the fact that our own State Department does not recognize it have no confidence in the actual or Huerta Government. If the State Department had recognized the present régime it would have made Americans more confident. I believe that at the beginning of May there were not less than 5,000 Americans—men, women, and children—in Tampico, and thereabouts, but they have been coming out steadily since then. While I am not a refugee in any sense, this Government has certainly made it difficult for such Americans as are there to come back home. We had to go from Tampico by way of Vera Cruz to Havana, and there wait for six days before we were allowed to take a steamer for New York.

"At the present time an almost inexplicable quarantine has been established against Mexican ports. This is directed against yellow fever and smallpox. As a matter of fact, there is no yellow fever down there except, perhaps, in the port of Progreso. Smallpox is endemic to the country.

"The principal desire of all Americans in that part of Mexico is that peace be established, irrespective of what Government has the upper hand. It is also their great desire that the United States Government shall not take a hand in Mexican affairs, except in case of actual danger to the lives of American citizens. The peons hear the more educated people talking about intervention, and in repeating what they hear they add a thousand more things to it, and the matter grows at that rate as it passes from mouth to mouth. That is what causes all the trouble in the towns."

HARLEM REPUBLICANS SPLIT

A fight in the Republican organization in Harlem started last night when Max E. Sanders, a lawyer, and 200 other Republicans at the opening of a new club at 55 East 107th Street announced that efforts would be made at the primaries to defeat Samuel Krulewitch, the Republican leader of the Twenty-sixth Assembly District. Many Republicans in Krulewitch's district have been dissatisfied with his leadership for months. Headed by Sanders, these Republicans quit Krulewitch's club at 1,164 Madison Avenue, and started one of their own.

They charged Krulewitch, who has been leader of the district for the last six years, with being too high-handed and with driving Republicans in the district into the Bull Moose and the Tammany organizations. They said that Krulewitch suspended seventy members of his club because they gave a dinner without his consent last May to Alderman Nathan Lieberman. At last night's meeting of the new club Sanders was elected President. Two of the Directors are Abraham Goodman, ex-Assemblyman, and Irving Freedman, ex-President of Krulewitch's club. Resolutions were passed indorsing District Attorney Whitman for Mayor.

AUTHORITY FOR THE TANGO

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 16.—The "tango," if taught properly, may be danced with propriety, but the "turkey trot"—never, according to the decision of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, which ended its session at the Hotel Brunswick here today. The "turkey trot" is characterized as "immoral," and the dancing masters were urged to co-operate with local authorities in banishing it.

The masters decided on Cleveland, Ohio, for their convention city next year, and in 1915 the association will go to San Francisco.

Among the new officers of the association elected to-day were: President—Louis Kretlow, Chicago; First Vice President—Z. L. Kriman, San Francisco; Second Vice President—Roderick C. Grant, New York; Secretary—Thomas McDougall, Pittsburgh; Treasurer—Edward A. Prinz, St. Joseph, Mo., and Demonstrator—T. S. Sampson, Lynn, Mass.

'KID' GRIFFO TO WORKHOUSE

One-Time Pugilist is Arrested for Disorderly Conduct.

A man who said he was Arthur Griffith, 40 years old, of 223 West Forty-third Street, described further as "Kid" Griffo, a one-time pugilist, by Detective Wertheimer of the West Thirtieth Street Station, was arraigned before Magistrate Appleton in the Men's Night Court last night on the charge that he had acted in a disorderly manner at Broadway and Forty-second Street earlier in the evening.

Magistrate Appleton, when he was told who the prisoner was, commented on the fact that Griffith had let himself "go to pieces." The Magistrate accepted the testimony of the detective that the man would be better off if he were kept under restraint for a time, and so sent Griffith to the Workhouse for three months.

THROWS OUT BOOKS AND COMPANY SEAL

ADJOURNS TO POLICE COURT

Magistrate Will Have Nothing to Do with the Company Row —Discharges Prisoners.

Trouble has been brewing in the ranks of the Universal Film Manufacting Company, a $2,000,000 concern and one of the largest of the "independents." Yesterday it boiled over. A stormy meeting of stockholders took place at the offices of the company at 1,600 Broadway. The two rival factions had "resolved" each others' official heads off and on again like a South American revolution until it would have taken a Philadelphia lawyer to determine who was who, and the meeting was finally brought to an abrupt close when somebody threw the company's books out of the window.

Thereupon the meeting was adjourned to the West Side Court, where Magistrate Herbert had a chance to listen to some heated complaints. Carl Laemmle, who has been, is, and will be President of the company—the authorities seemed to agree on his status—charged that the throwing of the books had been done mainly by William Swanson, who, judging by a composite view of the testimony, was and was not, is and is not, forever shall, and never will be Secretary of the company.

Was-and-is President Laemmle told the court that Mr. Swanson had been assisted in throwing the effects out of the window by Burton Garrett, was-and-won't-be Assistant Secretary, and Howard Thurston, the vaudeville magician. Mr. Laemmle described it as a triple play, Swanson to Garrett to P. A. Powers, a former Vice President, who beat the runner and threw the books out the window. Patrolmen Hutchins and MacDonald of the West Forty-seventh Street Station were credited with an assist on the play also, for they caught the books and seal hot from the fourth floor window.

It was not made clear in court just where Magician Thurston fitted into the game, but a facetiously inclined individual remarked that it scarcely seemed necessary to make all that fuss to get books to disappear when there was a regular magician handy.

In court Mr. Laemmle told Magistrate Herbert that at the meeting held yesterday, which was a special meeting of stockholders, Secretary Swanson called the roll of fifteen and then asked for motions, only to be informed that R. H. Cochrane had been elected Secretary at a meeting held last week and that he was an interloper. A wordy argument resulted, and the triple play that broke up the meeting followed.

When the policeman who had caught the books downstairs came up to investigate, Mr. Laemmle insisted that the trio he named should be arrested on a charge of larceny of the books. The whole party went to the West Side Court.

Attorneys for the defense informed the court that as a Director of the concern Swanson had not been informed of last week's meeting, and therefore he could not have been deposed. They also said that according to the by-laws of the company he had a legal right to the possession of the books, no matter how he got them. Magistrate Herbert coincided with this opinion and ordered the men discharged, refusing to have a court complaint drawn against them.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company is listed as capitalized at $2,000,000. Its officers are given as Carl Laemmle, President; William H. Swanson, Secretary, and David Horsley, Treasurer. These three are also named as Directors, with R. H. Cochrane.

It has been common knowledge for some weeks that a bitter fight was going on for the control of the company. The stock owned by David Horsley was the turning point. President Laemmle said he had purchased this, and P. A. Powers, formerly connected with the company, was just as positive that he would get it. In either's hands it would have brought with it the control of the company. Secretary Swanson had sided in the fight with the Powers faction. Some days ago a representative of Mr. Laemmle's faction visited the newspaper offices with complaints against Swanson.

COPING FALLS WITH HIM.

Collier Sought Airy Seat — Body Hits Crippled Woman.

George Collier, a clerk, was sitting last night on a chair on the stone coping which projects some three feet from the window level of his appartment on the second floor of 258 West Thirty-eighth Street, when the coping gave way, and he fell to the street. Mrs. Pauline Steinert, who lives next door, was passing at the time on crutches. Collier's body struck her on the head, knocking her down, and then another part of the coping fell, landing on Collier.

Dr. Irving was called from New York Hospital. After attending Mrs. Steinert, he took Collier to the hospital, where he died. Mrs. Collier, who was sitting on the window a few feet from her husband, was prostrated by the accident.

PEASE PIANOS

To Play the Piano Really Well

means more than the ability to dash off a few of the "tinkling" musical comedy tunes; the music that is really worth while requires a skill that comes from early musical training.

Every year of music lessons with the pupil under fifteen years of age is worth two years after that. If you are a parent with children to educate it is a duty to start them at the right time.

offer you just the right kind of a piano for every purpose—the touch light, the tone mellow and the durability unquestioned, as over 86,000 purchasers will vouch for.

Then our prices ($325 up) are not high for a really good piano, and our offering of used pianos from $125 up gives a piano for every purse; payments from $5 to $10 per month, according to piano; old instruments exchanged.
